NOTICE OF MOTION
(Motion returnable October 6, 2017)

Schonfeld Inc., in its capacity as manager (the “Manager”) of (i) certain companies listed in Schedule “B” to the Order of Justice Newbould dated November 5, 2013 (the “Schedule “B” Companies”), together with the real estate properties owned by the Companies (the “Schedule “B” Properties”), as amended by Order of Justice Newbould dated January 16, 2014, and (ii) the properties listed at Schedule “C” to the Order of Justice Brown dated August 12, 2014 (the “Schedule “C” Properties”, together with the Schedule “B” Properties, the “Properties”) will make a motion to a judge presiding on the Commercial List on October 6, 2017 at 10:00 a.m., or as soon after that time as the motion can be heard, at 330 University Avenue, Toronto.

PROPOSED METHOD OF HEARING: The motion is to be heard orally.

THE MOTION IS FOR AN ORDER:

1. Approving a methodology for the allocation of fees incurred by the Manager to the various Schedule “B” Companies and Schedule “C” Properties (the “Fee Allocation Methodology”) from January 1, 2017 to August 31, 2017;
2. Approving the fees of the Manager and its counsel, Goodmans LLP (“Goodmans”), for the period from January 1, 2017 to August 31, 2017 (the “Fee Approval Period”), as described in the Manager’s 50th Report;
3. Authorizing the Manager to allocate interest paid on funding advanced by the Applicants;
4. Authorizing the Manager to reallocate certain professional fees to certain Schedule “B” Companies;
5. Authorizing the Manager to allocate the repayment of certain advance funding provided by the Manager to the Schedule “B” Companies with sufficient capital to make such repayments;
6. Authorizing the Manager to make certain equity distributions, which are described in detail below;
7. Authorizing the Manager to pay certain GST refunds paid to Fraser Properties Corp. to certain mortgagees having a valid security interest in the refunds;
8. Authorizing and directing the Manager to distribute funds held in trust in respect of Weston Lands Ltd. unless a dispute between the mortgagee and construction lien claimant is resolved prior to December 31, 2017; and
9. Such further and other relief as this Court deems just.

THE GROUNDS FOR THE MOTION ARE:

I. Fee Allocation

10. A methodology for the allocation of fees incurred by the Manager and its counsel from the Manager’s appointment on November 5, 2013 to November 30, 2014 (the “First Period”) was approved by Order dated April 20, 2015 (the “First Methodology”). A methodology for the allocation of fees incurred by the Manager and its counsel from December 1, 2014 to December 31, 2015 (the “Second Period”) was approved by Order dated September 16, 2016 (the “Second Methodology”). The Second Methodology was utilized by the Manager for the allocation of fees relating to the period from January 1, 2016 to December 31, 2016 (the “Third Period”), and was approved by Order dated April 12, 2017. The Manager’s 50th Report relates to the allocation of fees relating to the period from January 1, 2017 to August 31, 2017 (the “Fourth Period”), for which the Manager proposes using the Second Methodology.

11. The allocation process began with the Manager and its counsel, Goodmans, each conducting a review of the docket descriptions entered in respect of fees incurred during the Third Period, as they had done in respect of fees incurred during the Second Period. Based on this review, the Manager determined that it was feasible to allocate a significant portion of the time spent based on docket descriptions.

12. Based on this methodology, a total of 81% of the Manager’s fees and 53% of Goodmans’ fees were allocated to specific properties.

II. Fee Approval

13. The Manager seeks approval for its fees and disbursements, as well as those of its counsel. These fees, which are described in the 50th Report and the Affidavits of Harlan Schonfeld and Brian Empey, are fair and reasonable in the circumstances.

III. Allocation of Interest Accrued on the Applicants’ Advances

14. 368230 Ontario, a company related to the Applicants, advanced a total of $2,678,700 (the “Advance Funding”) in respect of professional fees and bank fees and to pay certain expenses and mortgage payments for the Schedule “B” Properties and Schedule “C” Companies. These advances were described in the Manager’s Second Report and approved by Order of Justice Newbould dated January 16, 2014.

15. The funds advanced by the Applicants were repaid in 2014, together with accrued interest in the amount of $153,490.25. At the time of repayment, the interest was not allocated to any of the Companies. The Manager now recommends allocating that interest as detailed in Appendix

“A” to the 50th Report. This allocation is based on (a) the funding advanced to the various companies; and (b) the allocation of professional fees paid from the Advance Funding.

IV. Reallocation of Professional Fees to certain Schedule “B” Companies

16. Certain Companies do not have sufficient capital to pay professional fees allocated to them in the Third Period and Fourth Period. The Manager recommends reallocating those fees, which total $327,658.44 for the Schedule “B” Companies, equally among Lesliebrook Holdings Ltd., Royal Agincourt Corp., Royal Gate Holdings Ltd., Tisdale Mews Inc. and Twin Dragons Corporation.

17. The amount for which certain Schedule “C” Properties are unable to pay totals $38,387.59, which the Manager recommends reallocating to Cecil Lighthouse.

V. Reallocation of Liabilities Owing by Schedule “B” Companies

18. Certain Schedule “B” Companies and Schedule “C” Properties have insufficient capital to repay advances made by the Manager. The unpaid advances total $147,000 in respect of the Schedule “B” Companies and $12,190.31 in respect of the Schedule “C” Properties. In the Manager’s view, the only way to account for these unpaid advances is to reallocate the liability for repayment to the few remaining Companies and Properties with funds remaining. As set out in the reallocation proposal attached as Appendix “B” to the Manager’s 50th Report, the Manager recommends reallocating the unpaid advances of the Schedule “B” Companies to Twin Dragons Corporation, which has the most surplus funds of any of the Schedule “B” Companies, and reallocating the unpaid advances of the Schedule “C” Properties to Cecil Lighthouse Ltd. The Manager has completed a Claims Process in respect of each of Twin Dragons Corporations and Cecil Lighthouse Ltd. and all creditors have been paid.

VI. Proposed Distributions

19. The Manager proposes that a total of $2,980,000 be distributed from the following Schedule “B” Companies:

- (a) Tisdale Mews Inc. (“Tisdale”);
- (b) Twin Dragons Corporation (“Twin Dragons”);

- (c) Royal Gate Holdings Ltd. (“Royal Gate”);
- (d) Royal Agincourt Corp. (“Royal Agincourt”);
- (e) Lesliebrook Holdings Ltd. (“Lesliebrook” and collectively, the “Distribution Companies”).

20. The amount to be distributed is comprised of proceeds from the sale of the properties owned by each company and, in some cases, tax refunds. The details of the distribution proposed by the Manager are set out in the Proposed Distribution Chart dated September 27, 2017 and attached as Appendix “C” to the Manager’s 50th Report.

21. The Manager has conducted a claims process in respect of each of the Distribution Companies. All creditors of these companies have been paid and any further claims against them (apart from the a potential allocation of professional fees in this proceeding) are barred by the Claims Procedure Order.

22. In the circumstances, the Manager respectfully recommends that the available funds be distributed to the shareholders of the relevant company. The Manager also respectfully recommends that certain funds be held back from the distribution to secure professional fees that may be incurred in connection with the completion of the Manager’s mandate.

VII. Weston Lands Ltd.

23. As described in the Manager’s Forty-Seventh Report, by Order dated January 15, 2015, this Court approved the sale of a Schedule “B” Property located at 355 Weston Road (the “Weston Property”). At the time of the sale, a vendor take-back mortgage in favour of the former owners of the Weston Property (the “Weston Mortgagee”) and a construction lien in favour of Laser Heating & Air Conditioning Inc. (“Laser”) were both registered on title to the Weston Property. Laser claimed that its lien was entitled to priority over the Weston Mortgagees’ mortgage. In order to ensure that this priority dispute did not interfere with the sale of the Weston Property, the Manager agreed to hold $11,057 in trust (the “Weston Trust Funds”) pending resolution of this dispute.

24. This dispute remains unresolved and the Manager has written to counsel for both Laser and the Weston Mortgagees encouraging them to take steps to resolve the dispute so that the funds can be released from trust.

25. To date, the Manager has seen no evidence of Laser’s asserted priority position. Accordingly, the Manager’s view is that the Weston Trust Funds ought to be paid to the Weston Mortgagee pursuant to its vendor take-back mortgage and that the other funds held by the Manager in respect of Weston be distributed to creditors in accordance with the proposed distribution attached as Appendix “D” to the Manager’s 50th Report, unless the matter is addressed on or before December 31, 2017.

VIII. Miscellaneous

26. Rules 2.03, 3.02, 16 and 37 of the Rules of Civil Procedure, R.R.O. 1990, Reg. 194.

27. Such further and other grounds as counsel may advise and this Honourable Court permit.

28. The Fiftieth Report of the Manager dated October 2, 2017;

29. The Affidavit of Harlan Schonfeld sworn September 25, 2017;

I. Introduction

1. This is the Fiftieth Report of Schonfeld Inc. (the “Manager”) in its capacity as Manager of (i) certain companies listed at Schedule “B” to the Order of Justice Newbould dated November 5, 2013 (the “Schedule “B” Companies”),<sup>1</sup> together with the properties owned by those companies (the “Schedule “B” Properties”); and (ii) the properties listed at Schedule “C” to the Judgment and Order of Justice Brown dated August 12, 2014 (the “Schedule “C” Properties” and together with the Schedule “B” Properties, the “Properties”).

A. Purpose of this Report

2. The Manager has brought a motion for certain relief, including an Order:
- (a) approving the fee allocation methodology proposed by the Manager (the “Fee Allocation Methodology”) in respect of the fees of the Manager and its counsel, Goodmans LLP, applicable to the Schedule “B” Companies and the Schedule “C” Properties;
  - (b) approving the fees of the Manager and its counsel, Goodmans LLP, for the period from January 1, 2017 to August 31, 2017;
  - (c) authorizing the Manager to allocate interest paid on funding advanced by the Applicants;
  - (d) authorizing the Manager to reallocate certain professional fees to certain Schedule “B” Companies;
  - (e) authorizing the Manager to allocate the repayment of certain advance funding provided by the Manager to the Schedule “B” Companies with sufficient capital to make such repayments;
  - (f) authorizing the Manager to make certain equity distributions, which are described in detail below;

- (g) authorizing the Manager to pay certain GST refunds paid to Fraser Properties Corp. to certain mortgagees having a valid security interest in the refunds;
- (h) authorizing and directing the Manager to distribute funds held in trust in respect of Weston Lands Ltd. unless a dispute between the mortgagee and construction lien claimant is resolved prior to December 31, 2017.

3. This Fiftieth Report contains a summary of the facts relevant to the Manager's motion and a recommendation that the relief sought by the Manager in its Notice of Motion be granted.

B. Terms of reference

4. Based on its review and interaction with the parties to date, nothing has come to the Manager's attention that would cause it to question the reasonableness of the information presented herein. However, the Manager has not audited, or otherwise attempted to independently verify, the accuracy or completeness of any financial information of the Schedule "B" Companies or of the companies that own the Schedule "C" Properties (the "Schedule "C" Companies", and collectively with the Schedule "B" Companies, the "Companies"). The Manager therefore expresses no opinion or other form of assurance in respect of any of the Companies' financial information that may be in this Report.

C. Background and history of this proceeding

5. This proceeding was commenced in October 2013. Since that time, the parties have appeared before this Court more than 200 times. More than 200 orders and endorsements have been granted. The lengthy history of this matter has been summarized below, to the extent that it is relevant to the relief sought in this proceeding. The facts set out below are all based on the findings of this Court.

6. This proceeding begins with a business relationship between Dr. Stanley Bernstein and Norma and Ronauld Walton (the "Waltons"). Dr. Bernstein is the owner of a chain of diet clinics. The Waltons were trained as lawyers and were members of the Law Society of Upper Canada but, during the period relevant to this proceeding, they were operating as real-estate developers. The Waltons operated their business through numerous corporate vehicles, but the primary operating entity was The Rose & Thistle Group Inc. ("Rose & Thistle").

7. Pursuant to a series of joint venture agreements (the “Agreements”), Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons were to each hold a 50% interest in the Schedule “B” Companies. Dr. Bernstein’s interest was held through a series of single purpose holding companies (collectively, “Bernstein” or the “Applicants”). Each of the Schedule “B” Companies was to own one real-estate property (the “Schedule “B” Properties”). Between 2010 and 2013, Dr. Bernstein invested approximately $110 million in 34 Schedule “B” Companies through the Applicants.

8. The Agreements required that each Company be used solely for matters related to the Property it owned. Before Dr. Bernstein invested in any Schedule “B” Property, he was provided with a pro forma statement that showed the funds that would be required to purchase and, in some cases, redevelop and/or renovate the property. Dr. Bernstein provided his share of the anticipated budget when the Agreement was executed and the Waltons agreed to provide the balance of the funding once Dr. Bernstein’s funds were exhausted.

9. In addition to the Schedule “B” Properties, the Waltons were the beneficial owners of a separate portfolio of properties (the “Schedule “C” Properties”) that Dr. Bernstein did not invest in. The Waltons issued shares in the companies that owned the Schedule “C” Properties (the “Schedule “C” Companies”) to various individuals and entities (the “Schedule “C” Investors”). Exactly what was invested by the Schedule “C” Investors, and the nature of their interest in the Schedule “C” Companies, is a complex matter that need not be determined as part of this motion.

10. The Waltons were responsible for operating the Schedule “B” Properties. As a result, they controlled the Schedule “B” Companies’ bank accounts (the “Schedule “B” Accounts”). But they did not manage the Schedule “B” Companies’ financial affairs in the manner required by the Agreements. Instead, they transferred Dr. Bernstein’s investment in the Schedule “B” Companies, and any revenue derived from those companies, into Rose & Thistle’s bank account (the “Rose & Thistle Account”). From there, funds were transferred to other Schedule “B” Companies, Schedule “C” Companies and the Waltons’ personal accounts.

11. This proceeding began in October 2014, when the Manager was appointed Inspector pursuant to the OBCA and authorized to investigate the affairs of the Schedule “B” Companies. The Inspector discovered the co-mingling of funds described above, as well as several other issues relating to the management of the Schedule “B” Companies. These findings are described in detail in the Endorsement of Justice Newbould dated November 5, 2013 (the “November 5 Endorsement”), which is attached as Appendix “A”

12. By Order of Justice Newbould dated November 5, 2013 (the “November 5 Order”), the Manager was appointed to provide independent management to the Schedule “B” Companies in the interest of all stakeholders. The November 5 Order is attached as Appendix “B”

13. When the Manager was appointed, the Schedule “B” Properties were in various stages of development. Some properties had appreciated in value since they were purchased and were sold for amounts significantly in excess of the debt secured by them. Other properties, however, suffered from very substantial issues. Significant construction and development work would have would have been required to recover Dr. Bernstein’s investment in these properties. No funds were available to conduct this work and, in any event, recovery might have been impossible.

14. After it was appointed, the Manager, with assistance of N. Barry Lyons Consultants Limited (“Lyons”, a leading real-estate consulting firm) and CBRE (a leading real estate brokerage)<sup>2</sup> developed a plan to market and sell the Schedule “B” Properties.

15. The Manager ultimately sold 20 Schedule “B” Properties. Each of these sales was approved by the Court, on notice to affected stakeholders. The Waltons’ appeal of the November 5 Order was dismissed by reasons for decision dated May 21, 2014 and attached as Appendix “C”. The balance of the Schedule “B” Properties were sold in enforcement proceedings commenced by mortgagees. Some of these sales generated proceeds in excess of what was owed on the relevant mortgage. In such cases, the excess proceeds were paid to the Manager.

16. During the period from November 5, 2013 to July 16, 2014, the Manager (in its capacity as Inspector) undertook a further investigation into the Schedule “B” Companies’ affairs. The results of this investigation confirmed the Inspector’s initial conclusions. The Inspector concluded that, almost every time Dr. Bernstein invested funds into one Schedule “B” Company, the Waltons transferred such funds to the Rose & Thistle Accounts. From the Rose & Thistle

Account, Dr. Bernstein's funds were disbursed into various Schedule "B" Companies, Schedule "C" Companies and other accounts controlled by the Waltons.

17. Throughout the period examined by the Manager (in its capacity as Inspector), there was a constant transfer of funds between the Schedule "B" Companies, the Schedule "C" Companies and the Rose & Thistle Account. However, there was a consistent pattern of the Schedule "C" Companies receiving more from Rose & Thistle than they paid to Rose & Thistle. Conversely, there was a consistent pattern of the Schedule "B" Companies paying more to Rose & Thistle than they received from Rose & Thistle.

18. In all, the Inspector concluded that the Schedule "B" Companies suffered a net transfer out of approximately $23 million as a result of transactions with Rose & Thistle and the Schedule "C" Companies received a net benefit of approximately $25 million as a result of such transactions. These conclusions were accepted by Justice D.M. Brown (as he then was) in Reasons for Decision dated August 12, 2014 (the "August 12 Reasons").

19. The August 12 Reasons, which are attached as Appendix "D", were an important step in the litigation between the applicants and the respondents. Justice Brown concluded that the Waltons had breached their contracts with Dr. Bernstein and acted oppressively by co-mingling funds and failing to make the equity contributions required of them by the Agreements. The Waltons were, therefore, not entitled to the 50% interest they claimed to own in each Schedule "B" Company. Instead, Justice Brown ordered that the Waltons were entitled to "one share for each dollar invested,"<sup>3</sup> and ordered that:

the Waltons' shareholder interests in each of the Schedule "B" Companies be calculated by reference to the contribution provisions contained in each Schedule "B" Company Agreement and that the shares issued to the Waltons be limited to those for which they have actually paid and that any other shares be cancelled.

20. This relief was incorporated into the Judgment of Justice Brown dated August 12, 2014 (the "August 12 Judgment"). The August 12 Judgment, which is attached as Appendix "E", also appointed the Manager as receiver/manager of the Schedule "C" Properties.

21. The August 12 Judgment was upheld by the Court of Appeal on September 17, 2015, pursuant to reasons attached as Appendix “F”.

22. The Applicants’ claim for, among other things, damages from the Waltons and the Schedule “C” Companies was the subject of an application before Justice Newbould heard June 3, 2016. By Reasons for Decision dated September 23, 2016, and attached as Appendix “G”, Justice Newbould found that:

- (a) the Waltons were liable to Dr. Bernstein for damages in the amount of $66,951,021.85 for fraudulent misrepresentation;
- (b) the Waltons liability to Dr. Bernstein would survive bankruptcy, if the Waltons declared bankruptcy;
- (c) the Schedule “C” Companies were not liable to Dr. Bernstein for knowing assistance in breach of fiduciary duty and knowing receipt of trust money.

23. These findings were reflected in the Order of Justice Newbould dated September 23, 2016 (the “September 23 Order”).

24. The Waltons and Bernstein both appealed Order. The Waltons did not perfect their appeal on time and it was dismissed. Bernstein’s appeal was heard June 2, 2017. The Court of Appeal has not yet rendered a decision on that appeal.

D. Completed Claims Procedures

25. As noted, all of the Schedule “B” Properties were sold and some of these sales resulted in net proceeds following payment of transaction costs and repayment of any valid mortgages. The Manager held these proceeds in trust pending completion of a Claims Process in respect of each such Schedule “B” Property. Since each Schedule “B” Company has its own creditors, a separate Claims Process was required for each Schedule “B” Company.

26. On June 18, 2014, the Court granted the June Claims Procedure Order authorizing the Manager to commence and conduct a Claims Process following the completion of the sale of a Schedule “B” Company’s Property, without further Order of the Court, upon determination by the Manager that such a Claims Process is appropriate in the circumstances.

27. The form of claims process approved pursuant to the June Claims Procedure Order was designed as a template so that a specific Claims Process can be run for any Schedule “B” Company in respect of which the sale of its Schedule “B” Property generates, or has generated, net proceeds available for potential distribution to creditors.

28. The June Claims Procedure Order sets out procedures for, among other things, (i) the provision of notice to creditors; (ii) the distribution of Proof of Claim forms and related materials to creditors; (iii) the review of Proofs of Claim submitted by creditors and the determination of creditors’ claims (including claims to priority) by the Manager; (iv) the resolution of any disputes in respect of creditors’ claims; and (v) establishing a claims bar date for the filing of claims against a particular Company. The June Claims Procedure Order also includes forms of notices, proofs of claim and related materials to be used for each Claims Process. The distribution of any proceeds to creditors following the determination of their claims pursuant to the June Claims Procedure Order is subject to further Order of this Court. A copy of the June Claims Procedure Order is attached as Appendix “H”.

29. Since the issuance of the June Claims Procedure Order, the Manager has completed a separate Claims Process in respect of each of the following Schedule “B” Companies:

- (a) Ascalon Lands Ltd. – 3765 St. Clair Avenue East, Toronto;
- (b) Bannockburn Lands Inc. – 1185 Eglinton Avenue East, Toronto;
- (c) Donalda Developments Ltd. – 1500 Don Mills Road, Toronto;
- (d) Dupont Developments Ltd. – 1485 Dupont Street, Toronto;
- (e) Eddystone Place Inc. – 153 Eddystone Avenue, Toronto;
- (f) Hidden Gem Development Inc. – 14 Trent Avenue, Toronto;
- (g) Lesliebrook Holdings Ltd. – 1131A Leslie St., Toronto;
- (h) Liberty Village Properties – 32 Atlantic Avenue, Toronto;
- (i) Northern Dancer Lands Ltd. – 140 Queen’s Plate Drive, Toronto;

- (j) Richmond Row Holdings Ltd. – 620 Richmond St. West, Toronto;
- (k) Riverdale Mansion Ltd. – 450 Pape Avenue, Toronto;
- (l) Royal Agincourt Corp. – 5770/5780 Highway 7, Vaughan;
- (m) Royal Gate Holdings Ltd. – 1 & 20 Royal Gate Boulevard, Vaughan;
- (n) Skyway Holdings Ltd. – 115-119 Skyway Avenue and 30-34 Meridian Drive, Toronto;
- (o) Tisdale Mews Inc. – 78 Tisdale Avenue, Toronto;
- (p) Twin Dragons Corporation. – 241 Spadina Avenue, Toronto; and
- (q) Weston Lands Ltd. – 355 Weston Road, Toronto.

30. The Manager determined that a Claims Process was not required in respect of the following Schedule “B” Companies given the sales of their respective Properties did not result in any net proceeds following payment of transaction costs and repayment of any valid mortgages:

- (a) Cityview Industrial Ltd.;<sup>4</sup>
- (b) Dewhurst Developments Ltd.;
- (c) Double Rose Developments Ltd.;
- (d) Fraser Lands Ltd.;
- (e) Fraser Properties Corp.;
- (f) Global Mills Inc.;
- (g) Lesliebrook Lands Ltd.;
- (h) Liberty Village Lands Inc.;

- (i) Queen's Corner Corp.;<sup>5</sup>
- (j) Salmon River Properties Ltd.;
- (k) West Mall Holdings Ltd.;
- (l) Wynford Professional Centre Ltd.; and
- (m) Red Door Developments Inc. and Red Door Lands Ltd.

II. Fee Allocation Methodology

31. A methodology for the allocation of fees incurred by the Manager and its counsel from the Manager's appointment on November 5, 2013 to November 30, 2014 (the "First Period") was approved by Order dated April 20, 2015 (the "First Methodology"). A methodology for the allocation of fees incurred by the Manager and its counsel from December 1, 2014 to December 31, 2015 (the "Second Period") was approved by Order dated September 16, 2016 (the "Second Methodology"). The Second Methodology was utilized by the Manager for the allocation of fees relating to the period from January 1, 2016 to December 31, 2016 (the "Third Period"), and was approved by Order dated April 12, 2017. This Report relates to the allocation of fees relating to the period from January 1, 2017 to August 31, 2017 (the "Fourth Period"), for which the Manager proposes using the Second Methodology.

32. As explained in the Manager's Twenty-Second Report, given the number of Companies subject to these proceedings and the interconnectedness of their respective Properties, it would have been impractical (and very expensive) to administer each Company and track professional costs on an individual Company basis. Accordingly, the Manager and its counsel developed the First Methodology, which calculated a weighting for each company based upon a sophisticated formula that included assigned weightings for six categories and the length of time that the Property was under management. The First Methodology was required because the quantity and quality of the work performed by the Manager and its counsel during the First Period meant that a property by property allocation based on the descriptions contained in the docket entries of the Manager and its counsel was not feasible. Among other things, the Manager and its counsel dealt with issues that related to many Properties (or all Properties) at the same time or on the same day and also spent significant time on issues relating to the very active litigation between the Applicants and Respondents (which was required in order to effectively complete its mandate in respect of all of the Properties).

<sup>5</sup> The Manager completed a modified Claims Process in respect of Queen's Corner Corp. pursuant to the Order of Justice Newbould dated October 25, 2016 in order to identify creditors who may have had warranty claims only.

33. There are important differences in the Manager's mandate between the First Period and the Second, Third and Fourth Periods. Among other things:

- (a) the volume of work required on the part of the Manager and its counsel decreased substantially during the Second, Third and Fourth Periods relative to the First period;
- (b) the number of Properties that the Manager was managing and marketing decreased substantially as Properties were either sold or turned over to mortgagees for enforcement. This decreased the number of issues and Properties dealt with on any given day; and
- (c) the litigation between the Applicants and the Respondents was significantly less active during the Second and Third Periods relative to the First Period, resulting in the decrease (although not the elimination) of dockets that did not relate to any specific property.

34. Furthermore, in response to the First Methodology, two groups of affected stakeholders asserted that the Manager should have attempted to allocate its time based on the docket descriptions entered by the various professionals that worked on the file. Although this complaint was found to be without merit, the Manager considered the concerns articulated in response to the First Methodology in formulating the Second Methodology.

35. The fee allocation for the Second Period, which used the Second Methodology, was approved by Order dated September 16, 2016, which is attached as Appendix “I”. No stakeholder opposed the Second Methodology at the hearing.<sup>6</sup> The Second Methodology was approved again for the Third Period by Order dated April 12, 2017, which is attached as Appendix “J”.

36. In light of all of the foregoing, and similarities between the Second, Third and Fourth periods, the Manager determined that the Second Methodology should be used to allocate fees incurred during the Fourth Period.

37. The allocation process began with the Manager and its counsel, Goodmans, each conducting a review of the docket descriptions entered in respect of fees incurred during the Third Period, as they had done in respect of fees incurred during the Second Period. Based on this review, the Manager determined that it was feasible to allocate a significant portion of the time spent based on docket descriptions.

38. This allocation was performed in accordance with the following principles:

- (a) As a general rule, where dockets referenced multiple properties, the relevant time was divided evenly among the properties unless either the docket itself or contemporaneous notes or correspondence indicated that time should be divided unevenly among the properties.

<sup>6</sup> Two groups of stakeholders did raise concerns about the Second Methodology and obtained an adjournment of the original return date to investigate these concerns. These concerns were addressed before the ultimate return date for the motion.

- (b) Where a docket did not relate to any particular property, the relevant docket was categorized as “general”. The allocation of general costs among the properties is described below. General allocations are spread evenly over all Companies that the Manager worked on during the relevant period.<sup>7</sup>

39. The allocation described above is summarized in Appendix “K”.

40. Based on this methodology, a total of 81% of the Manager’s fees and 53% of Goodmans’ fees were allocated to specific properties.

III. Fee Approval

41. Attached hereto as Appendix “L” is the Affidavit of Harlan Schonfeld sworn September 25, 2017 (the “Schonfeld Affidavit”), attesting to the fees and disbursements of the Manager for the Fee Approval Period in the amount of $251,692.21 inclusive of HST and disbursements.

42. Attached hereto as Appendix “M” is the Affidavit of Brian Empey, a partner at Goodmans sworn September 25, 2017 (the “Empey Affidavit”), attesting to the fees and disbursements of Goodmans acting on behalf of the Manager for the Fee Approval Period in the amount of $102,848.77 inclusive of HST. The Manager has received and reviewed Goodmans’ invoices and concluded that (i) the fees and disbursements set out in Goodmans’ invoices relate to advice sought by the Manager; and (ii) in the Manager’s view, Goodmans’ fees and disbursements are reasonable.

IV. Allocation of Interest Accrued on the Applicants’ Advances

43. 368230 Ontario, a company related to the Applicants, advanced a total of $2,678,700 (the “Advance Funding”) in respect of professional fees and bank fees and to pay certain expenses and mortgage payments for the Schedule “B” Properties and Schedule “C” Companies. These

<sup>7</sup> The Manager’s management of the general allocation properties consisted of, among other things, addressing accounting issues, preparing and filing tax returns, addressing any remaining disputes relating to some Companies, conducting claims processes, distribution available funds, after seeking court approval for same. The Manager’s activities are described below and in the other reports filed in this matter.

advances were described in the Manager's Second Report and approved by Order of Justice Newbould dated January 16, 2014.

44. The funds advanced by the Applicants were repaid in 2014, together with accrued interest in the amount of $153,490.25. At the time of repayment, the interest was not allocated to any of the Companies. The Manager now recommends allocating that interest as detailed in Appendix "N" hereto. This allocation is based on (a) the funding advanced to the various companies; and (b) the allocation of professional fees paid from the Advance Funding.

V. Reallocation of Professional Fees to certain Schedule "B" Companies

45. Certain Companies do not have sufficient capital to pay professional fees allocated to them in the Third Period and Fourth Period. The Manager recommends reallocating those fees, which total $327,658.44 for the Schedule "B" Companies, equally among Lesliebrook Holdings Ltd., Royal Agincourt Corp., Royal Gate Holdings Ltd., Tisdale Mews Inc. and Twin Dragons Corporation.

46. The amount for which certain Schedule "C" Properties are unable to pay totals $38,387.59, which the Manager recommends reallocating to Cecil Lighthouse.

47. The proposed reallocation described above is detailed in Appendix "O" hereto.

VI. Reallocation of Liabilities Owing by Schedule "B" Companies

48. Certain Schedule "B" Companies and Schedule "C" Properties have insufficient capital to repay advances made by the Manager. The unpaid advances total $147,000 in respect of the Schedule "B" Companies and $12,190.31 in respect of the Schedule "C" Properties. In the Manager's view, the only way to account for these unpaid advances is to reallocate the liability for repayment to the few remaining Companies and Properties with funds remaining. As set out in the reallocation proposal attached as Appendix "P", the Manager recommends reallocating the unpaid advances of the Schedule "B" Companies to Twin Dragons Corporation, which has the most surplus funds of any of the Schedule "B" Companies, and reallocating the unpaid advances of the Schedule "C" Properties to Cecil Lighthouse Ltd. The Manager has completed a Claims Process in respect of each of Twin Dragons Corporations and Cecil Lighthouse Ltd. and all creditors have been paid.

VII. Proposed Distributions

A. The Manager's recommendation

49. As described in detail below, the Manager is recommending an equity distribution from five Schedule "B" Companies. Specifically:

- (a) The Manager recommends that a total of $2,426,800 be distributed to the Applicants in their capacity as shareholders of the relevant companies;
- (b) The Manager has determined that the Waltons may be entitled to distributions totalling $553,200 in its capacity as a judgment creditor of the Waltons. It recommends that these funds be paid to the Applicants in partial satisfaction of their judgment against the Waltons;<sup>8</sup>
- (c) The Manager proposes holding back a total of $330,700 to address potential claims by third party investors. The Manager has not yet assessed the merits of these potential claims.

50. The basis for the Manager's recommendation is set out below.

B. Background

51. The Manager's motion proposes that a total of $2,980,000 be distributed from the following Schedule "B" Companies:

- (a) Tisdale Mews Inc. ("Tisdale");
- (b) Twin Dragons Corporation ("Twin Dragons");
- (c) Royal Gate Holdings Ltd. ("Royal Gate");
- (d) Royal Agincourt Corp. ("Royal Agincourt");

<sup>8</sup> A minor adjustment to this distribution may be required to address a judgment obtained by another creditor, as described below.

- (e) Lesliebrook Holdings Ltd. (“Lesliebrook” and collectively, the “Distribution Companies”).

52. The amount to be distributed is comprised of proceeds from the sale of the properties owned by each company and, in some cases, tax refunds. The details of the distribution proposed by the Manager are set out in the Proposed Distribution Chart dated September 30, 2017 and attached as Appendix “Q”.

53. The Manager has conducted a claims process in respect of each of the Distribution Companies. All creditors of these companies have been paid and any further claims against them (apart from the a potential allocation of professional fees in this proceeding) are barred by the Claims Procedure Order.

54. In the circumstances, the Manager respectfully recommends that the available funds be distributed to the shareholders of the relevant company. The Manager also respectfully recommends that certain funds be held back from the distribution to secure professional fees that may be incurred in connection with the completion of the Manager’s mandate.

C. Entitlement to distributions

55. Before making an equity distribution, it is first necessary to identify the shareholders of each of the Distribution Companies. The shares of each of these companies (together with all of the other Schedule “B” Companies) were originally to be divided equally between Bernstein and the Waltons. However, as noted above, the August 12 Judgment required that ownership of the Schedule “B” Companies be allocated based on the equity contributions made by each party. Accordingly, if Bernstein provided all of the equity paid into a company then it is entitled to all of the shares of that company. In such cases, all of the funds available for an equity distribution would be paid to Bernstein.

56. The identification of Bernstein’s equity contributions was relatively simple. These contributions were paid by Bernstein to either the Rose & Thistle Account or a bank account opened in the name of the applicable Schedule “B” Company. Each amount paid by Bernstein is referred to below as a “Direct DBDC Contribution”.

57. Identification of the Waltons' contributions (if any) is much more complicated. As noted above, the Waltons routinely diverted funds invested by Bernstein. In some cases, money paid by Bernstein into one company were transferred by the Waltons to another company and characterized as a Walton equity contribution to that company. In such cases, it is possible to establish that the Waltons used Bernstein's money to fund their own equity contributions. Such payments are not, in the Manager's view, Walton equity contributions in the sense required by the August 12 Judgment. Where a purported Walton equity contribution can be traced directly to funds provided by Bernstein, the relevant payment was treated as an "Indirect DBDC Contribution".

58. Indirect DBDC Contributions and Direct DBDC Contributions have the same effect under the August 12 Judgment. Whether Bernstein made an equity contribution knowingly (in the case of a Direct DBDC Contribution) or unwillingly (in the case of an Indirect DBDC Contribution) the contribution entitles it to shares of the relevant company.

59. The converse is not necessarily true. Because the Waltons' comingling and diversion of funds was so pervasive, it is difficult (and perhaps impossible) to make a definitive determination with respect to what (if any) equity contributions they made using their own money. Accordingly, contributions made by the Waltons that cannot be traced directly to Bernstein are referred to below as Recorded Contributions. Further analysis would be required to determine where the funds used to make the Recorded Contributions originated and, for the reasons described below, the Manager does not recommend that this analysis be undertaken at this stage.

D. The Manager's analysis

60. The Manager has completed an analysis in respect of each of the Distribution Companies in accordance with the principles described above. The Manager's methodology was previously described in the Second Supplemental Report to the Manager's 22nd Report, which is attached as Appendix "R", without appendices. That methodology was accepted by Justice Newbould and used as the basis for an interim distribution approved by Order dated January 27, 2015 (the "First Distribution Order"), which is attached as Appendix "S".

61. As described below, three of the Distribution Companies were specifically analyzed by the Manager in the First Distribution Report and funds were distributed from these companies pursuant to the First Distribution Order.

62. The Manager's analysis is based largely on the Property Investment Profile Report (the "Investment Profile") that was first served on the parties by the Inspector in October 2013. The accuracy of this document, which is attached as Appendix "T", has not been challenged. To a more limited extent, the Manager's analysis is based on the Inspector's<sup>9</sup> analysis of the use of the largest of Bernstein's contributions to the Schedule "B" Companies, which is attached as Appendix "U". This analysis was challenged by the Waltons, but relied on by Justice Brown in granting the August 12 Judgment. As noted, the August 12 Judgment was upheld by the Court of Appeal.

63. The Manager's analysis can be summarized as follows:

- (a) If the Investment Profile shows that the Applicants made all of the equity contributions to a company (a "Direct Contribution"), then the Manager has concluded that the Applicants are entitled to 100% of the shares of that company;
- (b) If the Investment Profile shows that the Waltons made some of the equity contributions (a "Recorded Contribution") then the Manager reviewed its tracing analysis to determine whether the funds apparently contributed by the Waltons can be traced directly to one of the Applicants' equity contributions. If such a tracing is possible then the relevant contribution has been treated as an Indirect DBDC Contribution by the Applicants;
- (c) In one case, Tisdale, the Waltons have previously claimed that they are entitled to equity to reflect the increase in value between when the property was acquired and when Bernstein invested in it. This arrangement was set out in the agreement between Bernstein and the Waltons.

E. Relevance of the Recorded Contributions

64. The methodology applied by the Manager, and described above, was previously used as the basis for a distribution approved by Order of Justice Newbould dated January 27, 2015. At that time, the Manager held back funds to make an equity distribution to the Waltons or their creditors if they were found to be entitled to shares equal to their Recorded Contributions (if any) in the relevant companies.

65. The Manager has not completed the detailed tracing that would be required to determine definitively what (if any) equity contributions the Waltons made to the Schedule “B” Companies using their own money (or money taken from someone other than the Applicants, such as the Schedule “C” Investors). For the reasons described below, it is the Manager’s view that the cost of a detailed tracing analysis is not warranted.

66. The distinction between the Applicants’ contributions and the Waltons’ contributions is now less significant because on September 23, 2016 the Applicants obtained a final judgment against the Waltons for close to $67 million. In the event that the Waltons are entitled to shares in, and/or distributions from, the Schedule “B” Companies, the Applicants would likely be entitled to seize those shares or garnish any dividends or distributions paid. Thus, it is very likely that the Applicants will receive all of the equity distributions from the Schedule “B” Companies.

67. The treatment of the Recorded Contributions is not relevant to the Waltons’ debts to Bernstein. If a distribution is paid to the Waltons but garnished by Bernstein, then that distribution would be a partial payment of the Waltons’ debt to Bernstein. However, if the payment is treated as a distribution to Bernstein then it would reduce Bernstein’s damages and the amount of the Waltons’ debt, by the same amount. In light of this, the Manager’s tracing analysis is unlikely to have any practical effect on the Waltons.

68. That analysis could, however, affect the Waltons’ creditors. If the Waltons are entitled to shares in the Schedule “B” Companies then such shares (and any associated right to receive equity distributions) could conceivably be available to pay creditors other than Bernstein. The Manager is aware of several contingent creditors of the Waltons but, as described below, only one such creditor has obtained judgment against the Waltons.

F. The Waltons' creditors

69. The Manager has no mandate relating to the Waltons personally. Ira Smith Trustee & Receiver Inc. ("Ira Smith") was appointed receiver over the Waltons' personal assets by Order dated September 5, 2014. Ira Smith did not realize any amounts for distribution to the Waltons' creditors. Because of this, it did not conduct a claims process to identify such creditors. Ira Smith was discharged by Order of Justice Newbould dated November 12, 2015.

70. To the knowledge of the Manager, the Waltons' debts and alleged debts include:

- (a) The Applicants' judgment, which is described above;
- (b) Potential liability to investors in the various Schedule "C" Properties (the "Schedule "C" Investors"). In affidavits previously sworn in this proceeding, Ms. Walton has deposed that the Waltons are personally liable to repay $14 million to the Schedule "C" Investors;
- (c) A claim by Trez Capital Limited Partnership in the amount of $14.3 million for fraudulent misrepresentation and $1 million in punitive damages;
- (d) Potential claims from other mortgagees who hold personal guarantees from the Waltons and were not paid in full;
- (e) The Canada Revenue Agency, which had registered a lien against the Waltons' home for unpaid income taxes;
- (f) A claim by the Bank of Nova Scotia ("BNS"), relating to the Waltons' guarantee of loans advanced to one of their companies, Urban Amish Interiors. By Judgment dated July 22nd, 2016 (the "BNS Judgment"), the Waltons were ordered to pay $98,562.76 to BNS.

71. To the Manager's knowledge, only the claim listed in (c) above is the subject of an ongoing court proceeding. Accordingly, the Manager is not aware of any creditors, other than the Applicants and BNS, who have the right to seize any shares awarded to the Respondents or garnish any payment that they might be entitled to in respect of the Schedule "B" Companies.

72. In light of the foregoing, and the analysis below, the Manager respectfully recommends that a distribution to the Applicants in accordance with the Proposed Distribution Table dated September 27, 2017 and attached as Appendix “Q” (the “Distribution Table”).

73. The Manager was only recently made aware of the judgment in favour of BNS. It is in the process of determining what (if anything) has been paid to BNS on account of its judgment, and may recommend a change to the Distribution Table to reflect the BNS Judgment. In any event, the impact of the BNS Judgment is likely to be limited. It is possible that BNS has a claim to any distributions owed to the Waltons in connection with the Schedule “B” Companies. However, such a claim would rank pari passu with Bernstein’s much larger claim. On this basis, BNS would be entitled to 0.1% of amounts that would otherwise be owed to the Waltons. The balance of such funds would be paid to Bernstein.

G. Prior distribution

74. In the First Distribution Report, the Manager described its tracing analysis in respect of three of the Distribution Companies, Lesliebrook, Royal Agincourt and Royal Gate. By Order dated January 27, 2015 (the “First Distribution Order”), Justice Newbould authorized an interim equity distribution to these companies based on the following percentages:

Company	DBDC Percentage
Lesliebrook	98%
Royal Agincourt	73.2%
Royal Gate	97.6%

75. The January 27 Order was without prejudice to the Applicants’ right to argue that their share of the distributions should be higher. There was no similar reservation of rights by the Respondents or any of their creditors. As a result, the percentages above represent a minimum percentage of the funds to be distributed to the Applicants.

76. As described above, the contributions that could not be traced directly to Bernstein were not necessarily made by the Waltons with their own money. Significant further tracing work would be required to determine the exact source of the funds used by the Waltons to make these contributions. For the reasons described above, the Waltons' entitlement (if any) to shares in the Distribution Companies is unlikely to have any practical effect on the distributions proposed by the Manager. Accordingly, the Manager does not recommend that further tracing be conducted at this time.

H. Tisdale Mews Inc.

77. As described in the Forty-Eighth Report of the Manager, a copy of which is attached (without appendices) as Appendix "V", the Schedule "B" Company, Tisdale Mews Inc. ("Tisdale") formerly owned the Property located at 78 Tisdale Avenue, Toronto ("78 Tisdale"). The sale price obtained in respect of 78 Tisdale was sufficient to pay off all of the debt secured against the property and yield net proceeds of $1,353,152.74.

78. Pursuant to the Order of Justice Conway dated June 19, 2017, a copy of which is attached as Appendix "W", the Manager paid $14,136.98 from Tisdale to Tisdale's mortgagees in respect of professional fees that they incurred. This Order, which was granted on consent, resolved a long-standing dispute between the relevant mortgagees and the Manager with respect to the appropriate allocation of legal fees incurred by the mortgagees of four Schedule "B" Companies that had borrowed from syndicates of mortgagees assembled by Stephen Handelman.

79. The Manager had held back funds from the sale of 78 Tisdale to satisfy an award of additional fees to these mortgagees. Now that the dispute has been resolved, these funds are available for distribution. The June 19 Order authorizes such a distribution, without further approval. However, in the Manager's view, it is appropriate to report to the Court certain facts relevant to 78 Tisdale before making the distribution.

80. 78 Tisdale is one of two properties purchased by the Waltons before Bernstein's investment. Specifically, the Waltons purchased 78 Tisdale for approximately $1.4 million. Bernstein subsequently purchased an interest in Tisdale (the corporate owner of 78 Tisdale) pursuant to an agreement dated January 11, 2012. That agreement valued 78 Tisdale at approximately $6.7 million.

81. After Bernstein invested in Tisdale, Rose & Thistle delivered an invoice for development services in the amount of $4.4 million. The purpose of this invoice, according to Ms. Walton, was to withdraw the increased value of the Waltons' equity interest in Tisdale. The Manager (in its capacity as Inspector) questioned the validity of this invoice. In response, the invoice was withdrawn and the Waltons' equity account was increased to reflect the increase in value between when the property was purchased and when Bernstein invested.

82. In the August 12 Reasons, Justice Brown found that funds originating in Tisdale were used to fund $268,104.57 in renovations to the Waltons' home at 44 Park Lane Circle, and that there was no reasonable explanation for this use of Tisdale's funds. However, the August 12 Reasons do not address how (if at all) the foregoing facts affect the Waltons' entitlement to shares in Tisdale. As noted above, the Waltons' entitlement to shares of each Schedule "B" Company is to be based on their financial contribution to each Schedule "B" Company. As noted, the Waltons previously characterized the increase in value between when they purchased 78 Tisdale and when Bernstein invested in Tisdale as an equity contribution. If this argument is accepted, the Waltons would be entitled to up to 50% of the shares of Tisdale.

I. Twin Dragons

83. The Manager has not previously analyzed Twin Dragons' accounting records to determine what (if any) equity contributions were made by the Waltons.

84. According to the Property Investment Profile, Bernstein made an equity contribution of $1,085,894 and the Waltons made a Recorded Contribution of $350,000. Based on these contributions, the Applicants are entitled to 75.6% of the funds available for distribution.

85. Based on the Manager's review and analysis, the $350,000 Recorded Contribution appears to relate to funds solicited from third party investors (the "TD Investors") by the Waltons and then recorded in Twin Dragons' books and records as a Walton equity contribution. Ms. Walton represented to Dr. Bernstein that these investments were subsequently "moved" to Rose & Thistle, but it is not clear whether the TD Investors consented to this. The facts relevant to this issue are summarized below.

86. The Agreement relating to Twin Dragons was executed on September 24, 2010, and is attached as Appendix "X". The Agreement prohibits, among other things, any shares being issued to third parties. Both before and after the TD Agreement was executed, the Waltons appear to have solicited investments from third parties. These investments are summarized below:

- (a) On September 1, Gideon and Irene Levytam deposited $50,000 into Twin Dragons' bank account. The same day, this amount was transferred to the Waltons' personal account;
- (b) On September 30, 2010, Ange Boudle deposited $50,000 into Twin Dragons' bank account. These funds were transferred to the Rose & Thistle Account later the same day.
- (c) On October 22, 2010, Teresa and Joe Memme deposited $100,000 into Twin Dragons' bank account. These amounts were transferred to the Rose & Thistle Account on October 27 and 28, 2010.
- (d) On October 29, 2010, Duncan Coopland deposited $150,000 into Twin Dragons' bank account. These amounts were transferred to the Rose & Thistle Account later the same day.

87. These contributions were recorded in a receivable account set up to recognize equity that had not yet been funded. The relevant general ledger is attached as Appendix "Y". The effect of these entries was to make it appear as if the Waltons had contributed $350,000 in equity to Twin Dragons.

88. There is also some evidence that Ange Boudle, one of the Twin Dragons investors, was paid $75,000 on account of his $50,000 investment. This payment is recorded in a general ledger set up to record return of capital, which is attached as Appendix "Z".

89. On June 7, 2013, Jim Reitan (Bernstein's Director of Accounting and Finance) wrote to Ms. Walton to raise a number of concerns relating to the management of the Schedule "B" Properties. One of the issues raised by Mr. Reitan was that the TD Investors appeared to own shares in Twin Dragons. Mr. Reitan's letter is attached as Appendix "AA".

90. In light of the foregoing, the rights (if any) of the TD Investors to participate in an equity distribution is unclear. Accordingly, the Manager proposes holding 25% of the amount available for distribution from Twin Dragons pending a determination of this issue.

J. Fraser Properties Corp.

91. The properties owned by Fraser Properties Corp. ("Fraser") were sold by their mortgagees (the "Handelman Mortgagees") by power of sale. Unfortunately, the sale of these properties did not generate sufficient sale proceeds to pay the mortgages in full.

92. The Handelman Mortgagees secured the mortgages they advanced by a General Security Agreement which, among other things, granted a security interest in:

All debts, accounts, claims, monies and choses in action, which now are, or which may at any time hereafter be due or owing to or owned by [Fraser] and also all securities, mortgages, bills, notes and other documents now held, or owned, or which may be hereafter taken, held or owned by or on behalf of [Fraser], in respect of the said debts, accounts, claims, monies and choses in action, or any part thereof: and also all books, documents and papers recording, evidencing or relating to the said debts, accounts, claims monies and choses in action, or any part thereof. All of which are hereinafter called the "Accounts Receivable".

93. A copy of the General Security Agreement is attached as Appendix "BB".

94. Fraser has now received a GST refund in the amount of $36,447.35. In the Manager's view, the GST refund forms part of the collateral that secures the Handelman Mortgagees' mortgage pursuant to the General Security Agreement. Accordingly, the Manager proposes making a distribution to the Handelman Mortgagees in respect of Fraser in the amount of $36,447.35.

K. Weston Lands Ltd.

95. As described in the Manager's Forty-Seventh Report, a copy of which is attached (without appendices) as Appendix "CC", by Order dated January 15, 2015, this Court approved the sale of a Schedule "B" Property located at 355 Weston Road (the "Weston Property"). At the time of the sale, a vendor take-back mortgage in favour of the former owners of the Weston

- 25 -

Property (the “Weston Mortgagee”) and a construction lien in favour of Laser Heating & Air Conditioning Inc. (“Laser”) were both registered on title to the Weston Property. Laser claimed that its lien was entitled to priority over the Weston Mortgagees’ mortgage. In order to ensure that this priority dispute did not interfere with the sale of the Weston Property, the Manager agreed to hold $11,057 in trust (the “Weston Trust Funds”) pending resolution of this dispute.

96. This dispute remains unresolved and the Manager has written to counsel for both Laser and the Weston Mortgagees encouraging them to take steps to resolve the dispute so that the funds can be released from trust.

97. To date, the Manager has seen no evidence of Laser’s asserted priority position. Accordingly, the Manager’s view is that the Weston Trust Funds ought to be paid to the Weston Mortgagee pursuant to its vendor take-back mortgage and that the other funds held by the Manager in respect of Weston be distributed to creditors in accordance with the proposed distribution attached as Appendix “DD”, unless the matter is addressed on or before December 31, 2017.

VIII. Conclusions and Recommendations

98. For the reasons set out in this Report, the Manager respectfully recommends granting the relief sought in its Notice of Motion.

All of which is respectfully submitted this 28th day of September, 2017.

ENDORSEMENT

[1] On October 4, 2013, Schonfeld Inc. was appointed as inspector of all of the companies in schedule B. On October 24, 2013 a motion by the applicants to have Schonfeld Inc. appointed as a manager of those corporations and related corporation was adjourned to November 1, 2013 and interim relief was granted, including giving the applicants access to and joint control over all bank accounts.

[2] The applicants now move for the appointment of the Inspector as receiver/manager over the schedule B corporations and certain other properties that are mortgaged to Dr. Bernstein under mortgages which have expired. It is resisted by the respondents who maintain that the appointment would be an interim appointment pending a trial of the issues that should be ordered and that the applicants have sufficient protection from the order of October 24, 2013 that the respondents will not attack.

[3] For the reasons that follow, Schonfeld Inc. is appointed as receiver/manager of the 31 schedule B corporations.

Background

[4] Dr. Bernstein is the founder of very successful diet and health clinics. Norma Walton is a lawyer and co-founder with her husband Ronauld Walton of Rose & Thistle. She is a principal of Walton Advocates, an in-house law firm providing legal services to the Rose & Thistle group of companies. Ronauld Walton is also a lawyer and co-founder of Rose & Thistle and a principal of Walton Advocates

[5] Beginning in 2008, Dr. Bernstein acted as the lender/mortgagee of several commercial real estate properties owned by the Waltons either through Rose & Thistle or through other corporations of which they are the beneficial owners.

[6] Following several financings, Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons agreed to invest jointly in 31 various commercial real estate projects. Each is a 50% shareholder of each corporation set up to hold each property.

[7] The known facts and concerns of the applicants giving rise to the appointment of the Inspector are set out in my endorsement of October 7, 2013 and were contained in affidavits of James Reitan, director of accounting and finance at Dr. Bernstein Diet and Health Clinics. Since then, there has been further affidavit material from both sides and the Inspector has delivered two interim reports and a supplement to the first. The most recent affidavit from the applicants' side is an affidavit of Mr. Reitan sworn October 24, 2013. The most recent from the respondents' side is an affidavit of Norma Walton sworn October 31, 2013 on the day before this motion was heard. There has been no cross-examination on any affidavits. The first interim report of the Inspector is dated October 21, 2013, the supplement to it is dated October 24, 2013 and the second interim report is dated October 31, 2013. I have not permitted any cross-examination of the Inspector but the respondents have been free to make reasonable requests for information from the Inspector and they have availed themselves of that opportunity.

[8] To date, Dr. Bernstein through his corporations has advanced approximately $105 million into the 31 projects (net of mortgages previously repaid), structured as equity of $2.57 million, debt of $78.5 million and mortgages of $23.34 million`.

[9] According to the ledgers provided to the Inspector, the Waltons have contributed approximately $6 million. $352,900 is recorded as equity, which I assume is cash, $1.78 million is recorded as debt and $3.9 million is recorded in the intercompany accounts said to be owing to Rose & Thistle and is net of (i) amounts invoiced by Rose & Thistle but not yet paid; (ii) amounts paid by Rose & Thistle on behalf of the companies such as down-payments; and (iii) less amounts paid by DBDC directly to Rose & Thistle on behalf of the companies and (iv) other accounting adjustments.

Concerns of the applicants

(i) $6 million mortgage

[10] This was a matter raised at the outset and was one of the basis for my finding of oppression leading to the appointment of the Inspector. Mr. Reitan learned as a result of a title search on all properties obtained by him that mortgages of $3 million each were placed on 1450 Don Mills Road and 1500 Don Mills Road on July 31, 2013 and August 1, 2013. Dr. Bernstein had no knowledge of them and did not approve them as required by the agreements for those properties. At a meeting on September 27, 2013, Ms. Walton informed Mr. Reitan and Mr.

Schonfeld that the Waltons were in control of the $6 million of mortgage proceeds (rather than the money being in the control of the owner companies), but refused to provide evidence of the existence of the $6 million. Ms. Walton stated that she would only provide further information regarding the two mortgages in a without prejudice mediation process. That statement alone indicates that Ms. Walton knew there was something untoward about these mortgages.

[11] In his first interim report, Mr. Schonfeld reported that the proceeds of the Don Mills mortgages were deposited into the Rose & Thistle account. Rose & Thistle transferred $3,330,000 to 28 of the 31 companies. The balance of the proceeds of the Don Mills mortgages totalling $2,161,172, were used for other purposes including the following:

1. $98,900 was paid to the Receiver General in respect of payroll tax;
2. $460,000 was deposited into Ms. Walton's personal account;
3. $353,000 was apparently used to repay a loan owed by Rose & Thistle in relation to Richmond Row Holdings Ltd.; and,
4. $154,600 was transferred electronically to an entity named Plexor Plastics Corp. and $181,950 transferred electronically to Rose and Thistle Properties Ltd. Ms. Walton advised the Inspector that she owns these entities with her husband.

[12] In her affidavit of October 31, 2013, Ms. Walton admits that $2.1 million was "diverted" and used outside the 31 projects. She admits it should not have been done without Dr. Bernstein's consent. She offers excuses that do not justify what she did. What happened here, not to put too fine a point on it, was theft. It is little wonder that when first confronted with this situation, Ms. Walton said she would only talk about it in a without prejudice mediation.

[13] In her affidavit of October 4, 2013, Ms. Walton said she had made arrangements to discharge the $3 million mortgage on 1500 Don Mills Rd on October 21, 2013 and to wire money obtained from the mortgage on 1450 Don Mills Road into the Global Mills account (one of the 31 companies) by the same date. Why the money would not be put into the 1450 Don

Mills account was not explained. In any event, no repayment of any of the diverted funds has occurred.

(ii) Tisdale Mews

[14] Tisdale Mews is a rezoning for 35 townhomes near Victoria Park Avenue and Eglinton Avenue East. Mr. Reitan states in his affidavit that Dr. Bernstein made his equity contribution to Tisdale Mews December 2011 in the amount of $1,480,000. The bank statements for December 2011 for Tisdale Mews have not been made available. The forwarded balance on the bank statements available for Tisdale Mews from January 2012 is $96,989.91, indicating that most if not all of Dr. Bernstein's money went elsewhere. Ms. Walton states in her affidavit that the project "was purchased by Dr. Bernstein on January 11, 2012" and he invested $1.7 million in equity. How it was that Dr. Bernstein purchased the property is not explained and seems contrary to the affidavit of Mr. Reitan. The bank account statements for the property show no deposits of any consequence in January 2012 or later.

[15] In any event, Mr. Reitan was able to review bank records and other documents. Invoices and cheques written from Tisdale Mews' bank account show that a total of $268,104.57 from Tisdale Mews has been used for work done at 44 Park Lane Circle, the personal residence of the Waltons in the Bridle Path area of Toronto.

[16] Ms. Walton in her affidavit acknowledges that the money was used to pay renovation costs on her residence. She says, however, that Rose & Thistle funded 100% of the $268,104.57 purchases before any cheques were sent out of the Tisdale Mews account. How this was funded was not disclosed, although she did say that overall, Rose & Thistle has a positive net transfer to the Tisdale Mews account of $2,208,964 "as per Exhibit G to the Inspector's first interim report". Exhibit G to that report has nothing to do with Tisdale Mews. Exhibit D to that report, being the property profile report of the Inspector for the 31 properties, contains no information for Tisdale Mews because information had not yet been provided to the Inspector. The Inspector's updated profile prepared after information was obtained from Rose & Thistle shows $1,274,487 owing from Tisdale Mews to Rose & Thistle, but whether this is legitimate cannot be determined until back-up documents sought by the Inspector are provided. It is no indication that cash was put into Tisdale Mews by Rose & Thistle.

[17] The statement of Ms. Walton that Rose & Thistle funded 100% of the $268,104.57 purchases on her residence before any cheques were sent out of the Tisdale Mews account makes little sense. There would be no reason for Rose & Thistle to transfer funds into the Tisdale Mews account to pay personal expenses of Ms. Walton for her residence. Again, it has all the appearances of another case of theft.

(iii) Steps to impede a proper inspection

[18] It is quite evident that from the moment the order was made appointing the Inspector, Ms. Walton took various steps to hinder the Inspector. That order was made on October 4, a Friday, and permitted the Inspector to go to the offices of Rose & Thistle during normal business hours and on that evening and throughout the week-end. Mr. Reitan swears in his affidavit that when he arrived at the Rose & Thistle offices at 3:33 p.m. on the direction of the Inspector, which was shortly after the order was made, he saw Ms. Walton locking the door to the premises and she waved to him as she walked away from the doors. He was informed by Angela Romanova that Ms. Walton had told all employees to leave the premises once the order was granted at approximately 3 pm. He observed one employee who left with a server and one or more computers. After a discussion with the employee and Steven Williams, VP of operations at Rose & Thistle, these were taken back into the building. I received an e-mail from Mr. Griffin early in the evening alerting me to the problem and I was asked to be available if necessary. Mr. Reitan states that after several hours, and following Mr. Walton's arrival, Mr. Schonfeld, Mr. Merryweather and he were allowed into the premises.

[19] Ms. Walton in her affidavit states that a laptop "that was about to be removed" from the Rose & Thistle offices was 13 years old and they were disposing of it. One of her occasional workers asked if he could have it and they agreed. She states that the timing was unfortunate. She states that there are eight server towers permanently affixed to the premises. What she does not answer is Mr. Reitan's statement that she locked the doors and told her employees to leave, that whatever was taken from the premises was returned after discussions with the employee and

Mr. Williams, the VP of operations, and that it took several hours before the Inspector and Mr. Reitan were permitted on the premises. The order appointing the Inspector required Ms. Walton to fully co-operate with the Inspector.

[20] The order also permitted the Inspector to appoint persons as considered necessary, including Mr. Reitan. Ms. Walton however took the position that Mr. Reitan should not be on the premises, which was contrary to the order, and that the Inspector should not discuss with the applicants or their lawyers any information he obtained before making his first report to the court. Mr. Reitan was the accounting person for Dr. Bernstein most familiar with the investments and not having him available to the Inspector, either on the Rose & Thistle premises or not, would not be helpful to the Inspector. On October 9, 2013 I made a further order, which should not have been necessary, permitting Mr. Reitan to be on the premises when Mr. Schonfeld or his staff were present. I also ordered that Mr. Schonfeld was entitled, but not required, to discuss his investigation with the parties or their representatives.

[21] Ms. Walton informed the Inspector that the books and record of the companies were last brought current in 2011. Since August or September, 2013, after Mr. Reitan became involved in seeking information, Rose & Thistle employees have been inputting expense information into ledgers relating to the period January 2012 and August 2013. They have also issued a number of invoices for services rendered or expenses incurred by Rose & Thistle during the period January 2012 to August 2013. On October 17, 2013, Mr. Schonfeld convened a meeting with the parties and their counsel to orally present his findings. Prior to that meeting, Ms. Walton would only provide the Inspector with access to general ledgers for individual companies once she and Rose & Thistle had completed their exercise of updating the ledgers and issuing invoices from Rose & Thistle to each company. At the meeting, Ms. Walton agreed to provide the Inspector with access to ledgers for the remaining companies in their current state. These were eventually provided.

[22] Ms. Walton instituted a procedure under which no information could be provided by Rose & Thistle employees to the Inspector only after Ms. Walton had vetted it, which was causing considerable difficulties for the Inspector. On October 18, counsel for the Inspector wrote to counsel to the respondents and asked that the respondents provide immediate unfettered access to the books and records and end the insistence that all information be provided through

Ms. Walton. During the week of October 21, Ms. Walton said she could not meet because she was involved in preparing responding material in the litigation and that her staff was unavailable. By October 24, 2013 no substantive response to the Inspector's request was made, and on that date I made an order requiring Ms. Walton not to interfere with Rose & Thistle employees providing information to the Inspector. This should not have been necessary in light of the terms of the original order of October 4, 2013 appointing the Inspector.

(iv) Improper use of bank accounts

[23] The agreements for each project require that each project has a separate bank account. The Inspector reports, however, that there has been extensive co-mingling of bank accounts and that funds were routinely transferred between the company accounts and the Rose & Thistle account. From the date of each agreement to September 30, 2013, approximately $77 million was transferred from the companies' accounts to Rose & Thistle and Rose & Thistle transferred approximately $53 million to the various company accounts meaning that Rose & Thistle had retained approximately $24 million transferred to it from the various companies.

[24] Ms. Walton confirmed to the Inspector that equity contributions to, and income received by, the companies were centralized and co-mingled in the Rose & Thistle account, which she described as a "clearing house". This practice continued in September 2013 and the Inspector reported it was difficult to trace how transfers from the companies were used because the funds were also co-mingled with funds transferred to the Rose & Thistle account by other Walton companies not making up the 31 companies in which Dr. Bernstein has his 50% interest. It is clear that the Waltons did not treat each company separately as was required in the agreements for each company.

[25] To alleviate the problem of the co-mingling of funds and the payments out to Rose & Thistle, the order of October 25 provided for the payment of deposits to be made to the bank accounts of the 31 companies and that no payment out could be made without the written consent of the applicants or someone they may nominate.

(v) Receivables of Rose & Thistle from the 31 companies

[26] The agreements for the 31 properties state that Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons are to provide 50% of the equity required. They do not provide that the Walton's equity is to be provided in services. They state that each of Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons will put in amounts of money. In her lengthy affidavit of October 31, 2013, Ms. Walton went to the trouble of describing each of the 31 projects, including stating how much equity Dr. Bernstein had put into each property. Tellingly, however, she made no statement at all of how much equity she or her husband had put into any of the properties, and gave no explanation for not doing so. This may be an indication that Ms. Walton is not able to say what equity has been put into each property, hardly surprising as the books and records were two years out of date at the time the Inspector was appointed.

[27] In his first interim report, Mr. Schonfeld reported that based on invoices and general ledger entries provided to October 18, 2013, Rose & Thistle appeared to have charged the companies approximately $27 million for various fees and HST on the fees. On October 17, the date of his meeting with the parties, he had circulated a version of his chart regarding this which identified $2.68 million that had been transferred to Rose & Thistle that could not be reconciled to any invoice issued by Rose & Thistle. On the following day on October 18, Rose & Thistle provided additional invoices to the companies for $5.6 million so that the total amount invoiced exceeded the amounts transferred by Rose & Thistle to the companies by $2.9 million. In his supplement to his first report, Mr. Schonfeld reported that the respondents had produced further invoices from Rose & Thistle dated between January 2012 and September 2013 to the companies for a total of $34.6 million, being $10.6 million more than it had received from the companies. Mr. Schonfeld identified approximately $3.9 million recorded on the ledgers of Rose & Thistle as owing from the companies to Rose & Thistle. This amount is part of the $6 million recorded in the books as being the contribution by the Waltons to the companies.

(vi) Documentation to support Rose & Thistle invoices

[28] The Inspector has sought unsuccessfully so far to obtain documentation underlying Rose & Thistle's invoices of some $34.6 million to the companies, including construction budgets for the various projects. This is of considerable importance in understanding the claim for equity put into the properties by the Waltons, because by far the largest amount of equity now claimed to have been put in by the Waltons are the fees for services said to have been provided by the Waltons to the various companies.

[29] The information that has been obtained regarding the invoices issued to some of the companies by Rose & Thistle is troubling and gives little confidence in what Ms. Walton and Rose & Thistle have done.

[30] Riverdale Mansion Inc. is one of the 31 projects. It is the owner of a historic mansion on Pape Avenue. Riverdale transferred $1,759,800 to Rose & Thistle and received from Rose & Thistle $785,250. Thus Rose & Thistle retained $974,550 transferred to it by Riverdale.

[31] Rose & Thistle provided the Inspector with invoices addressed to Riverdale for construction management fees totaling $1,183,981 plus HST and maintenance fees of $60,000, including $275,000 for "deposits for materials", $103,863 for "project management services", $295,000 for "site plan deposits and application" and $67,890 for "steel bar ordered and installed". At the October 17 meeting, the Inspector asked for documentation, including third party invoices, to support the amounts invoiced to Riverdale. Ms. Walton said that Rose & Thistle did not have third party invoices for many of the invoiced expenses because Rose & Thistle performed much of the work itself (it has a construction company) and that some of the expenses had not yet been incurred. In response, the Inspector requested documents such as material invoices and payroll records to validate the cost of work done by Rose & Thistle and invoiced to Riverdale. None were provided.

[32] On the following day, October 18, the Inspector received a credit note from Rose & Thistle which showed that the invoice from Rose & Thistle to Riverdale had been reversed except for $257,065.62 for work performed in 2011. The credit note is dated December 31, 2011.

[33] In her affidavit of October 31, 2013, Ms. Walton gave an explanation for the Riverdale reversal, an explanation that has problems. She said that considerable work was done to prepare the site for construction of townhouses and condominiums. As the work was proceeding, the project changed and the mansion will be rebuilt and become used for a woman's shelter. Rose & Thistle was owed "certain monies" for its work and the invoice for $1,291,025 inclusive of HST was rendered by Rose & Thistle to Riverdale. She states that "the Inspector thought the amount claimed was too high" and so she issued a credit note and submitted a lower invoice for $257,065.62 "that reflected the value of the work done by Rose & Thistle". She says she merely forgot to re-do the invoice after the plans changed.

[34] The applicants have had no chance to cross-examine Ms. Walton on her affidavit. I have considerable doubts that the Inspector told Ms. Walton that the invoice was too high, as he has had no back-up documentation to consider the validity of the invoice and was asking for it to be produced. However, even assuming that the Inspector told her the invoice was too high, which is not what the Inspector reported, one may ask why, if the new invoice of some $257,000 reflected the work that was done, an earlier invoice had been sent for some $1.2 million. That earlier invoice appears to have been highly improper.

[35] Dupont Developments Ltd. is one of the 31 projects. It is a contaminated industrial building and the plan according to Ms. Walton is to "gut renovate" the building and remediate the contaminated site. The Inspector requested the construction budget for it and it was provided by Mr. Goldberg, who said he was responsible for the construction project. Mr. Goldberg told Mr. Schonfeld that the budget documents were out of date. They indicate that Dupont spent $385,000 on construction and $20,000 on environmental renovation. The Inspector had previously been provided with an invoice issued by Rose & Thistle to Dupont for $565,339.34 which includes an entry for construction management services of $175,300.30, said in the invoice to be "10% of hard costs", implying that Rose & Thistle had supervised construction that cost approximately $1.75 million. The updated general ledger for Dupont received by the Inspector on October 24 showed capitalized expenses of approximately $248,000, construction in progress of $36,000 and various consulting fees of approximately $563,000. All of these documents show different construction expenditures, none nowhere near the implied cost of $1.75 million.

[36] This Dupont budget was the only budget for any of the projects provided to the Inspector by the time of his last report dated October 31, 2013, one day before this motion was heard. The Inspector concludes that it appears that Rose & Thistle is not maintaining project budgets on an ongoing basis to track expenses and measure construction costs against the pro forma statement prepared when the property was purchased.

[37] Fraser Properties owns property at 30 Fraser Avenue and Fraser Lands owns abutting property purchased in October 2012. Dr. Bernstein made an equity contribution of approximately $16 million. Fraser Properties transferred $10,281,050 to Rose & Thistle and received back $1,215,100. Thus Rose & Thistle retained $9,065,950. In his first report, Mr. Schonfeld said he had inspected the property and saw no construction work or evidence of recent construction work. In his supplement to his first report, after he had received the general ledger and invoices from Rose & Thistle to Fraser Properties, he reported that the invoices to Fraser Properties were approximately $1.6 million. Assuming the invoices can be supported, that would mean that Rose & Thistle has received approximately $7.4 million more from Fraser Properties than it invoiced to Fraser Properties. It is to be noted that at the time of the Inspector's first report, the books and records showed an intercompany receivable due to Rose & Thistle from the companies of approximately $9.9 million. By the time of the first supplement to the Inspector's report three days later, after the invoices and general ledger had been received and reviewed, this amount was reduced to approximately $3.9 million, due to a new debit showing as being owed by Rose & Thistle to Fraser Properties of approximately $6.45 million.

[38] On October 31, 2013 Mr. Campion on behalf of the respondents wrote to counsel to the applicants and to the Inspector and referred to the Inspector asking which filing cabinet he could review to obtain the documents requested, such as third party invoices, contracts, payroll records or other contemporaneous documents. Mr. Campion said that the information sought can only be obtained through discussion with the staff as all documentation is on computer and not in a filing cabinet. This is troubling to the Inspector. It would mean that there is no paper of any kind in existence for $35 million of costs said to have been incurred, or that it has all been scanned and thrown out. It would be unusual to scan it and throw it out, and questionable that it was all scanned when Rose & Thistle was two years late in their bookkeeping and according to Ms. Walton had an outdated software system.

[39] Since the Inspector was appointed, Rose & Thistle has been preparing invoices for work done going back to January 2012, and one may question where the information is coming from to do that. Mr. Campion was undoubtedly passing on what he was told by Ms. Walton, but what he was told raises concerns.

(vii) Other equity investors

[40] The agreements provided that the only shares to be issued were to Dr. Bernstein's corporations or to the Walton's corporations and neither could transfer shares to another party without the consent of the other party. However, in his prior affidavit, Mr. Reitan provided documentary evidence that disclosed that the Waltons have taken on new equity investors in at least one project, without the agreement of Dr. Bernstein. This issue was not answered by Ms. Walton in her affidavit of October 31, 2013, the failure of which is compounded in that Ms. Walton did not disclose, as previously discussed, what equity contributions have been made by the Waltons for any of the properties.

Legal principles and analysis

[41] Section 101 of the Courts of Justice Act provides for the appointment of a receiver/manager where it appears to a judge to be just and convenient to do so. In Royal Bank of Canada v. Chongsim Investment Ltd. (1997), 32 O.R. (3d) 565, Epstein J. (as she then was) discussed what should be considered in deciding whether to make such an order. She stated:

The jurisdiction to order a receiver is found in s. 101 of the Courts of Justice Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. C.43. This section provides that a receiver may be appointed where it appears to be just and convenient. The appointment of a receiver is particularly intrusive. It is therefore relief that should only be granted sparingly. The law is clear that in the exercise of its discretion, the court should consider the effect of such an order on the parties. As well, since it is an equitable remedy, the conduct of the parties is a relevant factor.

[42] Section 248 of the OBCA also provides for the appointment of a receiver manager if there has been oppression as contained in section 248(2). Under section 248(2) a court may make an order to rectify the matters complained of and section 248(3) provides:

(3) In connection with an application under this section, the court may make any interim or final order it thinks fit including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing,

(b) an order appointing a receiver or receiver-manager;

[43] Various cases other than the Chongsim Investment case have discussed the principles to be taken into account. See Anderson v. Hunking, [2010] O.J. No. 3042 and Bank of Montreal v. Carnival Leasing Limited (2011), 74 C.B.R. (5th) 300 and the authorities referred to in those cases.

[44] In my view this is not a case in which the applicants are seeking an interim order appointing a receiver/manager. They do not seek an interim order. They seek the appointment on the basis of evidence that is largely uncontested by Ms. Walton. I would agree with the respondents that if the evidence relied on by the applicants for the order sought was largely contested, the relief should be considered on the basis that it is interim relief. However, that is not the case. In any event, even if the RJR MacDonald tri-part test were applicable, that would not be materially different in this case from the test articulated by Epstein J. in Chongsim Investment that requires a consideration of the effect of the order sought on the parties and their conduct.

[45] In my reasons when the Inspector was appointed on October 4, 2013, I found oppression had occurred as follows:

[27] In my view, on the record before me Dr. Bernstein has met the test required for an investigation to be ordered. To put on two mortgages for $6 million without the required agreement of Dr. Bernstein and then refuse to disclose what happened to the money except in a without prejudice mediation meets the higher test of oppression, let alone the lesser test of unfairly disregarding the interests of Dr. Bernstein. The other examples of the evidence I have referred, as well as the failure to provide monthly reports on the projects to Dr. Bernstein, are clearly instances of the Waltons unfairly being prejudicial to and unfairly disregarding the interests of Dr. Bernstein, a 50% shareholder of each of the owner corporations.

[46] I do not see the picture as now being less clear. To the contrary, it seems much clearer. I have referred to the concerns above in some detail. They include the following:

1. $2.1 million was improperly taken from the proceeds of the $6 million mortgages that never had Dr. Bernstein's approval, $400,000 of which was taken by Ms. Walton into her personal bank account. Ms. Walton was well aware that this was wrong. She is a lawyer and the agreements were drawn in her office. Her initial reaction when confronted about the mortgages by Mr. Reitan, who at the time did not know what had happened to the mortgage proceeds, that she would only discuss it in a without prejudice mediation is a clear indication she knew what she did was wrong and contrary to Dr. Bernstein's interests.
2. $268,104.57 was improperly paid from the Tisdale Mews account to pay for renovations to the Waltons' residence. No reasonable explanation has been provided.
3. The co-mingling of accounts and the cash sweep into the Rose & Thistle accounts was a breach of agreement and unfairly prejudicial to Dr. Bernstein and a disregard of his interests. This is particularly the case in light of the lack of current books and records that should have been prepared and available rather than requiring an Inspector to try to get to the bottom of what has occurred. A lack of records is in itself unfairly disregarding the interests of Dr. Bernstein, particularly taken the size of his investment. Blaming it on outdated computer software is hardly an answer. That should have been taken care of long ago.
4. The frenzied attempts in the past month since the Inspector was appointed to update ledgers and manufacture invoices should never have been necessary and in light of the evidence, obviously casts doubt on what is now being done to update the records. Dr. Bernstein should never have had to face this prejudicial situation.
5. The Waltons have not provided equal payments of money into any of the 31 properties. The claim that their equity was provided by way of set-off for fees and work, even if that were permissible under the agreements, is unsupported by any available documents to the Inspector. What little has been provided raises serious issues, as discussed above. As well, taking in new equity partners is not at all what Dr. Bernstein signed up for, and indicative of a lack of ability of the Waltons to fund their equity in accordance with the agreements.

6. Dr. Bernstein was entitled to monthly reports. It is now quite evident why that has not occurred.

[47] Mr. Campion contended that a receiver/manager could not be ordered over any particular property without a finding of oppressive conduct regarding that property. I am not at all sure that such a proposition in this case is correct, but in any event there has been oppressive conduct regarding each property. The co-mingling of funds and the sweep of cash from each property's account into Rose & Thistle was oppressive in these circumstances in which there were no contemporaneous books and records kept that would permit Dr. Bernstein, or now the Inspector, to fully understand what occurred to the money from each property. The setting up of alleged fees owing to Rose & Thistle for the properties to substantiate the Waltons' equity contributions, even if permissible, without readily available documentation to substantiate the validity of the fees, was oppressive. The lack of records and reports for each property was oppressive.

[48] It is contended on behalf of the respondents that they have the contractual right to manage the projects and thus no receiver/manager should be appointed. The difficulty with this argument is that the contracts have been breached and the Waltons have certainly not shown themselves to be capable managers. A basic lack of record keeping, compounded by co-mingling of funds and transferring them to Rose & Thistle, belies any notion of proper professional management. Ms. Walton acknowledges that accounting and other issues "have plainly caused him [Dr. Bernstein] to lose confidence in my management". That is a fundamental change to the relationship.

[49] It is contended that the business will be harmed if a receiver/manager is appointed. Ms. Walton states in her affidavit that she believes that the dynamic nature of this portfolio will suffer and in the end suffer unnecessary losses. What is meant by the dynamic nature is not clear.

I recognize that a receiver/manager can in certain circumstances have negative implications in the marketplace, particularly if it means that unsold properties will have to be put up for sale at less than market prices or be sold quickly. There is no indication that is the plan here at all and there is no court ordered sale being requested.

[50] It is also to be recognized that a receiver/manager can bring stability to a situation, which in this case appears to be a requirement to protect the interests of Dr. Bernstein.

[51] Dr. Bernstein with his $100 million plus investment has a huge financial interest in this portfolio of properties. It is hardly in his interest to have the properties dealt with in less than a sound commercial way. He suffers the same risk as the Waltons, and depending on what real equity the Waltons have put in, perhaps far more. The Waltons contend that they have huge financial risk in that they have guaranteed mortgages to the tune of some $206 million. They have not offered any evidence that there is any likelihood of being called upon on their guarantees, and to the contrary Ms. Walton says that all of the projects except perhaps one or two of them are or expected to be profitable. There is no reason why an experienced receiver/manager with capable property managers cannot continue with the success of the ventures.

[52] The respondents contend that with the controls over the bank accounts and the other provisions of the two orders made to date, there is plenty of protection for Dr. Bernstein. There may be something in this argument, but it ignores one of the basic problems caused by the way the business has been run. There is no clear evidence yet what exactly has been put into the properties by the Waltons, and that is crucial to understanding what both Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons are entitled to. In the month since the Inspector was appointed, Ms. Walton has caused back dated invoices to be prepared for past work said to have been done. What they have been prepared from is not at all clear. With some of the troubling things about changing records that have become apparent as a result of digging by Mr. Reitan and the Inspector, discussed above, and the diversion of money that has taken place, there is reason to be concerned exactly what Ms. Walton is doing to shore up her position. The Inspector is not in a position to know what is being prepared on an ex post facto basis or from what, and Dr. Bernstein should not have to rely on a hope that something untoward will no longer be done. The present situation is causing considerable harm to Dr. Bernstein.

Conclusion

[53] Schonfeld Inc. is appointed as manager/receiver of all of the properties in schedule B, effective immediately. I was provided with a draft order that is based on the model order in use in our Court and approved by the Users' Committee. It appears satisfactory but there were no submissions as to its terms. If the respondents have any submissions with respect to the draft order, they are to be made in writing within three days and the applicants or Schonfeld Inc. shall have until Wednesday of next week to respond. In the meantime, the appointment of Schonfeld Inc. as manager/receiver is not to be delayed and Schonfeld Inc. shall immediately have the powers contained in the draft order pending any objection to it by the respondents.

[54] The applicants have applied to have Schonfeld Inc. appointed as receiver over four properties mortgaged to Dr. Bernstein with expired mortgages that are not schedule B corporations. Ms. Walton has stated in her affidavit that funds are being raised that will see these mortgages paid in full by the end of November, 2013. In light of that statement, this application is adjourned sine die. It can be brought on after the end of November in the event that the mortgages have not been paid in full.

[55] The applicants have also requested a certificate of pending litigation over 44 Park Lane Circle, the residence of the Waltons in light of the evidence that money from one of the 31 schedule Dr. Bernstein corporations was used to pay for renovations to the residence. I was advised by counsel for Ms. Walton during the hearing of the motion that the money would be repaid that day. Based on that statement, the request for a certificate of pending litigation is adjourned sine die and can be brought back on in the event that evidence of the payment is not provided to the applicants and Schonfeld Inc.

[56] The Inspector moved for approval of his interim reports and the actions taken as disclosed in the reports, and approval for his fees and disbursements and those of his counsel. No one opposed the request although Mr. Champion said that the respondents were not consenting to them. In my view, the actions taken by the Inspector have been entirely proper in difficult circumstances and in her affidavit Ms. Walton acknowledges that the Inspector was necessary because of her issues. The fees and disbursements also appear reasonable. At the conclusion of the hearing I granted the order sought.

[57] The applicants are entitled to their costs from the respondents. If costs cannot be agreed, brief written submissions along with a proper cost outline may be made within 10 days and brief written reply submissions may be made within a further 10 days.

Norma Walton, appearing in person

Howard C. Cohen, for the respondents (appellants)

Peter H. Griffin and P.E. Veel, for the applicants (respondents)

Heard and released orally: May 21, 2014

On appeal from the order of Justice Frank J.C. Newbould of the Superior Court of Justice, dated November 5, 2013.

ENDORSEMENT

[1] Ms. Walton represented herself on the appeal. She is obviously very knowledgeable about the matters underlying this appeal. Mr. Cohen represented the other appellants. Not surprisingly, Ms. Walton's arguments differed to some degree from those her former counsel had advanced in their factum. We will address the arguments made by Ms. Walton. Mr. Cohen, for the other appellants, joined in and to some extent augmented Ms. Walton's arguments.

Issue #1 – Did the application judge err in failing to require that secured creditors be given notice of the motion to appoint a Receiver Manager?

[2] Ms. Walton argues that the mortgagees should have been given notice of the application to appoint a Receiver Manager in light of the potential impact of that appointment on the properties and their security in the properties. Ms. Walton notes for example that the appointment of a Receiver Manager would automatically put the mortgages into default under the terms of those mortgages.

[3] Ms. Walton correctly, in our view, does not argue that the application judge had no jurisdiction to make the order absent notice to the secured creditors. She does argue that the application judge should have exercised discretion in favour of requiring notice to them.

[4] The application judge was not asked to require that notice be given to the secured creditors and specifically the mortgagees. Ms. Walton and the other appellants were certainly aware of the potential impact of the appointment of a Receiver Manager on the status of the mortgages. They were well positioned to ask the application judge to give the necessary notification if they thought it prudent or necessary to a proper hearing. Ms. Walton and the other appellants were all represented by counsel on the application. No such request was made by anyone. We cannot say that the motion judge erred in principle or acted unreasonably in failing to make an order he was never asked to make.

[5] We also note that no attempt has been made by any secured creditor to intervene on the appeal and take up the argument that the secured creditors should have received notice of the application.

[6] We are told that some mortgagees have participated in some of the many proceedings that have been taken since the appointment of the Receiver Manager. The nature of those proceedings and the positions advanced on behalf of some of the mortgagees in respect of either the appointment of the Receiver Manager or the conduct of the Receiver Manager since its appointment are not before this court and are not germane to the appeal. As Mr. Griffin put it, this appeal is about the appointment of the Receiver Manager not the conduct of the Receiver Manager since the appointment.

Issue #2 – Did the application judge improperly exercise his discretion in favour of the appointment of a Receiver Manager?

[7] Ms. Walton forthrightly accepts that on the material before the application judge, a finding of oppression under the Ontario Business Corporations Act was open to the application judge. We agree with that concession. Ms. Walton submits, however, that the application judge was still required to consider the competing interests of Dr. Bernstein, the Waltons and the other creditors in deciding whether the appointment of a Receiver Manager was the appropriate order. She maintains that the appointment of a Receiver Manager is an extreme remedy to be granted sparingly. She further argues that the appointment of the inspector about a month earlier was enough to fully protect Dr. Bernstein's interests and that the application judge should have simply continued that order perhaps with modifications as needed to meet specific issues.

[8] Ms. Walton points to two specific errors which she claims taint the exercise of the application judge's discretion. First, she says he failed to take into account the inevitable and disastrous consequences to the business affairs of the named companies that would flow from the appointment of a Receiver Manager. Second, she says that the application judge mischaracterized her conduct in relation to two of the properties as "theft" or "having the appearance of theft". Ms. Walton submits that this mischaracterization led the application judge to the "overkill" remedy of a Receiver Manager.

[9] We have reviewed the application judge's reasons. He accurately set out the legal principles relevant to the appointment of a Receiver Manager under either the Courts of Justice Act or the Ontario Business Corporations Act: see paras. 41-44. The application judge considered whether an order continuing the inspectorship would suffice to protect Dr. Bernstein's interests: see para. 52. The application judge determined that given the difficulties the inspector had encountered in the month since his appointment and given the problems the inspector had identified in respect of the records of the corporations, the appointment of the Receiver Manager was necessary in that Dr. Bernstein's interests could not be adequately protected by a simple continuation of the inspectorship. We see no misapprehension of the relevant evidence. Indeed the evidence relating to the conduct of the inspectorship was unchallenged. Nor can we characterize the application judge's assessment of that evidence as unreasonable. That is as far as our review goes. It is not for this court to engage in a de novo review of the material.

[10] The application judge also addressed the potential commercial implications of the appointment of a Receiver Manager: see paras. 49-51. We were told in the course of oral submissions that the order has had serious financial repercussions for the Waltons and the companies. What may have happened after the order appointing a Receiver Manager was made and perhaps, more importantly, why those events happened are not before this court. If the application judge did not err in the exercise of his discretion based on the record before him, it cannot be that subsequent events render the exercise of that discretion improper. Problems that may have arisen in the course of the receivership or changes in circumstances subsequent to the appointment of the Receiver Manager are matters that are properly addressed in the context of the court's ongoing supervision of the Receiver Manager and are not matters to be addressed in an appeal which challenges the appointment of the Receiver Manager.

[11] We also note that no stay of the application judge's order was sought. The applicants chose to accept the appointment of the Receiver Manager pending the outcome of this appeal. That position seems inconsistent with an argument that the appointment of the Receiver Manager would inevitably lead to dire consequences for the corporations. Were that the position one would have expected an effort to stay the order pending a challenge of the receivership.

[12] We also do not accept that the application judge's use of the word "theft" is necessarily a mischaracterization of some of the conduct of Ms. Walton. However, even if the word "theft" is considered inappropriate given its criminal connotation, Ms. Walton's own affidavit acknowledges a knowing misappropriation of funds in respect of at least one property. Whatever one might choose to call that conduct, it provided powerful evidence that Dr. Bernstein's interests in the property were being unfairly prejudiced by the conduct of the Waltons. The application judge's use of the word "theft" does not, in our view, taint his factual findings or the manner in which he exercised his discretion.

[13] We have also reviewed the various features of the management of the affairs of the companies relied on by the application judge to support his findings and his order appointing the Receiver Manager. In our view, all of his findings are supported by the record before the application judge and justify the conclusion that Dr. Bernstein's interests in the companies were significantly prejudiced by the ongoing activities of the Waltons. The remedy ordered by the application judge, while undoubtedly one that should not be easily granted, was, in our view, fully justified in these circumstances.

[14] The appeal is dismissed. A number of related appeals that were transferred to this court from the Divisional Court on the order of Strathy J.A. are also dismissed.

[15] The respondents are entitled to costs in the amount of $20,000, inclusive of relevant taxes and disbursements.

REASONS FOR DECISION

I. Overview of the Motions and Return of Application

[1] Between September, 2010 and June, 2013, Dr. Bernstein, through his Applicant companies, invested in a portfolio of 31 properties in Toronto with the Respondents, Norma and Ronald Walton. Each property was held by a corporation – the “Schedule B Companies” – jointly owned by Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons. The Applicants contributed to the Schedule B Companies $2,568,694 by way of equity, $78,490,801 by way of equity advances converted into debt, largely shareholder loans, and they advanced $23,340,000 under mortgages.<sup>1</sup> Dr. Bernstein advanced mortgage funds against both Schedule B Companies and what the parties have called “Schedule C Properties”, which were owned by companies – Schedule C Companies – controlled by the Waltons in which Dr. Bernstein did not have an ownership interest.<sup>2</sup>

[2] These motions by the Applicants and Respondents, and the return of the Applicants’ application, deal with further issues in the on-going litigation between Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons concerning the need for the Respondents to account for funds, and to be held accountable for funds, invested by Dr. Bernstein and his companies with them.

[3] As well, Christine DeJong Medical Professional Corporation, C2M2S Holding Corp. and DeJong Homes Inc., other investors with the Waltons, brought a cross-motion seeking relief in respect of one Schedule C Property, 3270 American Drive, Mississauga.

[4] In a separate, handwritten endorsement made at the end of the hearing on July 18, 2014, I made an Interim Order restraining any further dealings with the Schedule C Properties in dispute until the release of these Reasons.

II. Background

[5] Dr. Bernstein is the founder of diet and health clinics. Norma Walton is a lawyer and co-founder with her husband, Ronald Walton, of the Respondent, The Rose and Thistle Group Ltd. (the “Rose & Thistle”). Called to the Bar in 1995, Ms. Walton was a principal of Walton Advocates, an in-house law firm providing legal services to the Rose & Thistle group of companies. By Decision dated May 16, 2014, the Law Society of Upper Canada’s Hearing Division suspended Ms. Walton’s licence for 18 months starting on July 1, 2014; the Law Society has appealed that Decision as too lenient.

<sup>2</sup> The terms of five of the mortgages have expired and they remain unpaid. The terms of the other four mortgages will expire between July and December, 2014.

[6] Ronauld Walton is also a lawyer, a principal of Walton Advocates and a co-founder of Rose & Thistle.

[7] Newbould J., in his Reasons of October 7, 2013 appointing Schonfeld Inc. as Inspector of the Schedule B Companies,<sup>3</sup> set out many of the background events to this dispute:

[5] Beginning in 2008, Dr. Bernstein acted as the lender/mortgagee of several commercial real estate properties owned by the Waltons either through Rose & Thistle or through other corporations of which they are the beneficial owners.

[6] Following several financings, Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons agreed to invest jointly in various commercial real estate projects. To date, Dr. Bernstein has invested approximately $110,000,000 into 31 projects...

[7] Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons entered into separate agreements which provided as follows:

- a. A new company would be incorporated for each project (the "Owner Company");
- b. Dr. Bernstein (through a company incorporated for this purpose) would hold 50% of the shares of the Owner Company;
- c. The Waltons (either directly or through a company incorporated for this purpose) would hold the other 50% of the shares of the Owner Company;
- d. Each of Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons would contribute an equal amount of equity to each project;
- e. The Waltons would manage, supervise and complete each project for an additional fee through Rose & Thistle. Rose & Thistle is not a party to the agreements;
- f. The Waltons also agreed to be responsible for the finances, bookkeeping, accounting and filing of tax returns, among other things, of the Owner Company;
- g. Each Owner Company was to have a separate bank account;
- h. Dr. Bernstein would not be required to play an active role in completing each project, but his approval would be required for:

- i. Any decisions concerning the selling or refinancing of each property;
  - ii. Any decisions concerning the increase in the total amount of equity required to complete each project; and
  - iii. Any cheque or transfer over $50,000.
- i. The Waltons agreed to provide Dr. Bernstein with:
  - i. Ongoing reports on at least a monthly basis detailing all items related to each property;
  - ii. Copies of invoices for work completed each project monthly;
  - iii. Bank statements monthly; and
  - iv. Listing of all cheques monthly;
- j. Upon sale of a property, Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons would receive back their capital contribution plus a division of profits; and
- k. The agreements generally provided that Dr. Bernstein and Norma Walton were to be the sole directors of the Owner Company.

[8] A review by James Reitan, director of accounting and finance at Dr. Bernstein Diet and Health Clinics, in the early summer of 2013 and into early September 2013 revealed that:

- a. The Waltons were not making their portion of the equity investments into the properties;
- b. The Waltons appeared to be taking on third party investors in the projects;
- c. The Waltons were engaged in significant related party transactions in respect of the projects through and using Rose & Thistle;
- d. Dr. Bernstein's approval was not being sought for any of the matters set out in subparagraph 7(h) above;
- e. Dr. Bernstein was not receiving any of the required reporting, set out in subparagraph 7(i) above;
- f. The mortgage payment for August 2013 for 1450 Don Mills did not go to the mortgagee, Trez Capital, but to Rose & Thistle. No documentation has been provided to confirm that the payment was made from Rose & Thistle to Trez Capital. There is no legitimate purpose for the payment going through Rose & Thistle;

- g. Additional mortgages of $3 million each were placed on 1450 Don Mills Road and 1500 Don Mills Road on July 31, 2013 and August 1, 2013 respectively, of which Dr. Bernstein had no knowledge and which he did not approve;
- h. It appears that there has been extensive co-mingling of the Owner Companies' funds with and into the bank accounts of Rose & Thistle;
- i. Rose & Thistle has removed funds from the Owner Companies, which have been recorded as intercompany amounts owing from Rose & Thistle to the Owner Companies;
- j. Rose & Thistle has rendered invoices to the Owner Companies, which in some cases have the effect only of reducing the intercompany amount owed by Rose & Thistle, for work and services that have yet to be performed;
- k. The Waltons have entered into a series of transactions which have the result of reversing equity contributions made by them and immediately removing equity contributions by the Applicants; and
- l. The Owner Companies have incurred significant interest and penalty charges for late penalties of utilities, without explanation.

[9] On September 20, 2013, Dr. Bernstein appointed Schonfeld Inc. on behalf of the applicants to gather information related to the Owner Companies, the projects and the properties. Schonfeld Inc. has not been granted complete access to the documents (including bank statements, invoices and other documentation) related to 22 of 31 projects. Ms. Walton has indicated that she requires a further matter of weeks to make available the documents for the remainder of the projects.

[8] Most of the Applicants' equity contributions were advanced directly to Schedule B Companies, but some were paid to a Walton company, Rose & Thistle, for transfer to a Schedule B Company, and some were paid directly to a real estate agent for the purpose of acquiring a Schedule B Property.<sup>4</sup>

[9] By order made October 7, 2013, Newbould J. appointed Schonfeld Inc. as Inspector of the Schedule B Companies pursuant to section 161(2) of the Ontario Business Corporations Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. B.16. In making that appointment, Newbould J. concluded:

[27] In my view, on the record before me Dr. Bernstein has met the test required for an investigation to be ordered. To put on two mortgages for $6 million without the required agreement of Dr. Bernstein and then refuse to disclose what happened to the money except in a without prejudice mediation meets the higher test of oppression, let alone the lesser test of unfairly disregarding the interests of Dr. Bernstein. The other examples of the evidence I have referred, as well as the failure to provide monthly reports on the projects to Dr. Bernstein, are clearly instances of the Waltons unfairly being prejudicial to and unfairly disregarding the interests of Dr. Bernstein, a 50% shareholder of each of the owner corporations.

[28] Ms. Walton contends in her affidavit that the appointment of an inspector would likely preclude the respondents from further discharging their accounting and reporting functions. I fail to see how this could be the case, and in any event the evidence is clear that the Waltons have failed to properly provide monthly reports.<sup>5</sup>

[10] About one month later, on November 5, 2013, Newbould J. granted the Applicants' request to appoint Schonfeld Inc. as the receiver – or what the parties styled as the Manager - of the Schedule B Companies. That order was affirmed by the Court of Appeal on May 21, 2014.<sup>6</sup> I will return to the November 5 Reasons at various points in this decision, but for purposes of this background narrative I need only highlight the key findings of fact made by Newbould J. which led him to appoint the Manager:

[46] I do not see the picture as now being less clear [than on October 7]. To the contrary, it seems much clearer. I have referred to the concerns above in some detail. They include the following:

1. $2.1 million was improperly taken from the proceeds of the $6 million mortgages that never had Dr. Bernstein's approval, $400,000 of which was taken by Ms. Walton into her personal bank account. Ms. Walton was well aware that this was wrong. She is a lawyer and the agreements were drawn in her office. Her initial reaction when confronted about the mortgages by Mr. Reitan, who at the time did not know what had happened to the mortgage proceeds, that she would only discuss it in a without prejudice mediation is a clear indication she knew what she did was wrong and contrary to Dr. Bernstein's interests.
2. $268,104.57 was improperly paid from the Tisdale Mews account to pay for renovations to the Waltons' residence. No reasonable explanation has been provided.
3. The co-mingling of accounts and the cash sweep into the Rose & Thistle accounts was a breach of agreement and unfairly prejudicial to Dr. Bernstein and a disregard of his interests. This is particularly the case in light of the lack of current books and records that should have been prepared and available rather than requiring an Inspector to try to get to the bottom of what has occurred. A lack of records is in itself unfairly disregarding the interests of Dr. Bernstein, particularly taken the size of his investment. Blaming it on outdated computer software is hardly an answer. That should have been taken care of long ago.

4. The frenzied attempts in the past month since the Inspector was appointed to update ledgers and manufacture invoices should never have been necessary and in light of the evidence, obviously casts doubt on what is now being done to update the records. Dr. Bernstein should never have had to face this prejudicial situation.

5. The Waltons have not provided equal payments of money into any of the 31 properties. The claim that their equity was provided by way of set-off for fees and work, even if that were permissible under the agreements, is unsupported by any available documents to the Inspector. What little has been provided raises serious issues, as discussed above. As well, taking in new equity partners is not at all what Dr. Bernstein signed up for, and indicative of a lack of ability of the Waltons to fund their equity in accordance with the agreements.

6. Dr. Bernstein was entitled to monthly reports. It is now quite evident why that has not occurred.

[47] Mr. Campion contended that a receiver/manager could not be ordered over any particular property without a finding of oppressive conduct regarding that property. I am not at all sure that such a proposition in this case is correct, but in any event there has been oppressive conduct regarding each property. The co-mingling of funds and the sweep of cash from each property's account into Rose & Thistle was oppressive in these circumstances in which there were no contemporaneous books and records kept that would permit Dr. Bernstein, or now the Inspector, to fully understand what occurred to the money from each property. The setting up of alleged fees owing to Rose & Thistle for the properties to substantiate the Waltons' equity contributions, even if permissible, without readily available documentation to substantiate the validity of the fees, was oppressive. The lack of records and reports for each property was oppressive.

[48] It is contended on behalf of the respondents that they have the contractual right to manage the projects and thus no receiver/manager should be appointed. The difficulty with this argument is that the contracts have been breached and the Waltons have certainly not shown themselves to be capable managers. A basic lack of record keeping, compounded by co-mingling of funds and transferring them to Rose & Thistle, belies any notion of proper professional management. Ms. Walton acknowledges that accounting and other issues "have plainly caused him [Dr. Bernstein] to lose confidence in my management". That is a fundamental change to the relationship.

[49] It is contended that the business will be harmed if a receiver/manager is appointed. Ms. Walton states in her affidavit that she believes that the dynamic nature of this portfolio will suffer and in the end suffer unnecessary losses. What is meant by the dynamic nature is not clear. I recognize that a receiver/manager can in certain circumstances have negative implications in the marketplace, particularly if it means that unsold properties will have to be put up for sale at less than market prices or be sold quickly. There is no indication that is the plan here at all and there is no court ordered sale being requested.

[11] As of the July hearing of these motions and application, the Manager had sold 12 of the Schedule B Properties over which it had been appointed for purchase prices totaling $127.013 million. After the payment of existing mortgages, those sales had netted $18.908 million. As of July 9, 2014, the total value of the construction liens registered against the sold properties was $1.228 million.

III. The positions of the parties and the relief requested

A. The Applicants

[12] Later in these Reasons I shall deal at length with the relief sought by each side. By way of summary of the issues engaged by these motions, the Applicants advanced the following positions:

- (i) The Respondents had unjustly enriched themselves by improperly diverting funds from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and the Schedule C Companies, and the diverted funds should be made subject to a constructive trust to be re-conveyed to the Schedule B Companies. The diverted funds can be traced into the Schedule C Properties and the Court should declare a constructive trust over 44 Park Lane Circle and the Schedule C Properties in favour of the Schedule B Companies in the total amount of $23.6 million;
- (ii) The Waltons were fiduciaries of the Schedule B Companies and breached their fiduciary duty when they diverted the funds. That conduct also was oppressive conduct and should be remedied by granting the proprietary interest of a constructive trust in Schedule C Companies/Properties;
- (iii) The Waltons' shares in the Schedule B Companies should be cancelled and any entitlement to any funds flowing therefrom disallowed; and,
- (iv) A damages award in the amount of $78,420,418 should be made in any event against the Respondents, together with certain ancillary relief including the appointment of a receiver over the property of the Waltons.

B. Norma Walton

[13] Norma Walton advanced three basic positions at the hearing: (i) the Respondents had accounted for the monies advanced to them by the Applicants; (ii) the jointly-owned Schedule B

Companies actually owed the Waltons' Rose & Thistle money, not the other way around; and, (iii) the restrictions placed on the Waltons' ability to deal with their Schedule C Properties by previous Court orders should be removed and they should be entitled to sell those properties in order to satisfy the claims of all their creditors and investors, except for Dr. Bernstein.

IV. Structure of these Reasons

[14] At the heart of these motions, cross-motions and return of application lie two issues: (i) Did the Waltons use the funds advanced to them by the Applicants as their contracts required? (ii) If they did not, did the Waltons use some or all of the funds advanced by the Applicants to their own personal benefit, including the benefit of their Schedule C Companies/Properties?

[15] For the reasons set out below, I conclude that the Waltons did not use the funds advanced to them by the Applicants as their contracts required but, instead, the Waltons mis-used and mis-appropriated most of the funds advanced to them, diverting some of the funds to their own personal benefit and the benefit of their Schedule C Companies. I further conclude that the Waltons have not provided the full accounting of how they in fact used those funds, notwithstanding the October 25, 2013 Order of this Court that they do so.

[16] The Inspector conducted an extensive, but not exhaustive, analysis tracing how the Waltons used the funds advanced to them by the Applicants. The Inspector presented its findings on the amount of the "net transfer" of funds between the jointly-owned Schedule B Companies and Rose & Thistle, and the amount of the "net transfer" of funds between Rose & Thistle and the Walton-owned Schedule C Companies and Properties. Those net transfer analyses formed the focal point of the arguments by both parties, with the Applicants contending that the Waltons had not explained the net transfers out of the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle, and with Norma Walton taking the position that she had. In light of that structure to the evidence and the parties' arguments, I plan to review the evidence in the following manner:

- (i) First, I shall examine the evidence about how the funds advanced by the Applicants were used by the Respondents, in particular the evidence of the "net transfer" of funds from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and the net transfer of funds from Rose & Thistle to the Schedule C Companies;
- (ii) Second, I will examine the evidence concerning the costs of construction actually incurred on behalf of the Schedule B Company projects, focusing on the Respondents' contention that the construction fees charged by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies were legitimate and explained much of the apparent net transfer of funds to Rose & Thistle;
- (iii) Next, I will examine the evidence of the tracing which the Inspector conducted of the Applicants' funds into Schedule C Companies and Properties; and,

- (iv) Finally, I will consider the evidence relating to the arguments made by the Respondents explaining their use of the Applicants' funds.

V. The use of the Applicants' funds: the "net transfer" analysis

A. The reports of the Inspector

[17] The Inspector conducted a tracing analysis of some of the funds advanced by the Applicants to the Schedule B Companies. The scope of its analysis was described in the Inspector's Fourth Interim Report (April 23, 2014). The Inspector identified the largest 53 advances by the Applicants to the Schedule B Companies and then examined the activity in the relevant Schedule B Company bank account immediately following each advance. The Inspector then looked for any contemporaneous transfer of funds from the relevant Schedule B Company account to the Rose & Thistle bank account and, finally, examined the Rose & Thistle bank account to ascertain what activity occurred following the receipt of the funds transferred in from the Schedule B Company account, in particular whether there was any contemporaneous transfer of funds from the Rose & Thistle account to a Schedule C Company's account.

[18] In its Fourth Report the Inspector set out the following findings:

In all but two cases reviewed to date, a portion of those funds provided by the Applicants and deposited to the [Schedule B] Company Accounts were immediately (on the same day and/or during the next few days) transferred from the relevant Company Account to the Rose & Thistle account. In the two exceptions, all of the funds provided by the Applicants to the Company Account were used by the [Schedule B] Company immediately.

Funds transferred into the Rose & Thistle Account were then used in one or more of the following ways: (a) transferred to a Walton Account; (b) transferred to other [Schedule B] Company Accounts; and (c) used to make payments directly out of the Rose & Thistle Account. The accuracy with which a specific dollar contributed by the Applicants can be matched to a specific use depends primarily on the opening balance and the level of activity in the Rose & Thistle Account when the funds were transferred. When funds contributed to a Company were transferred into the Rose & Thistle Account, funds were also transferred into and/or out of the Rose & Thistle Account by or to other Companies or Walton [Schedule C] Companies. In such cases, it is possible to trace funds out of the Rose & Thistle Account into accounts held by the Companies or the Walton Companies but it is not possible to match exactly the funds transferred out of the Rose & Thistle bank account to the funds transferred in as the funds have been co-mingled.

In support of those observations, the Inspector attached as Exhibit F to its Fourth Report a series of flowcharts which summarized the use of funds advanced by the Applicants to various Schedule B Companies.

[19] In its Fifth Report dated July 1, 2014, the Inspector reported that it had continued its tracing analysis and recorded the following further findings:

The Inspector's analysis to date supports the following conclusions:

- (a) The Respondents directed transfers of $23.6 million (net) from the [Schedule B] Company Accounts to a bank account belonging to the Rose & Thistle Group Limited (the "Rose & Thistle Account") during the period from October 2010 to October 2013. These transfers occurred on a regular and ongoing basis during the period examined;
- (b) During the same period, the Respondents directed transfers of $25.4 million (net) from the Rose & Thistle Account to companies that they own without the Applicants (the "Walton Companies" [or Schedule C Companies]). These transfers also occurred on a regular and ongoing basis during the period examined;
- (c) In almost all cases, some or all of the amounts advanced to the Companies by the Applicants were transferred almost immediately to the Rose & Thistle account;
- (d) In seven instances identified by the Inspector, all of the following occurred in a brief period of time:
  - (i) funds were transferred from one or more Company Accounts;
  - (ii) funds were then transferred to a Walton Company; and,
  - (iii) the relevant Walton Company purchased a property.

Based on the foregoing analysis, and the analysis set out below, the Inspector has concluded that the Respondents used new equity invested in, and mortgage amounts advanced to, the Companies by the Applicants to fund the ongoing operations of other Companies and the Walton Companies. Almost every time the Applicants advanced funds to one of the Companies, a significant portion of those funds was transferred to Rose & Thistle. In some instances, funds could be traced directly into a Walton Company. In other instances, funds could not be traced directly because the Applicants' funds were co-mingled with other funds in the Rose & Thistle Account. However, the Inspector has concluded that the Applicants' investment in the Companies was a major source of funds for the Walton Companies.

The Respondents have sought to justify the movement of funds from the Companies to Rose & Thistle on the basis that these transfers were payments for services rendered by the Respondents to the Companies. To date, the Respondents have not provided evidence to substantiate the majority of the alleged fees and the Inspector has found evidence that is not consistent with this explanation. In particular:

- (a) the transfer of funds observed by the Inspector is more consistent with funds being taken as needed to fund obligations in the other Companies and the Walton Companies than funds being taken as payment for services rendered. In some cases, funds were transferred by Companies immediately after those companies acquired Properties and/or invoices were rendered for the exact amount transferred from a particular Company during the preceding period;

- (b) there is no evidence that the Respondents possessed sufficient funds to pay for both the construction activity that they alleged to have carried out and the transfers observed to the Walton Companies; and,
- (c) in some cases funds have been transferred from Companies, and the Respondents have delivered invoices for construction work, where little or no work had been done on the relevant Property. Moreover, the various Companies owned Properties in different stages of construction and development but none of the Companies retained any substantial cash reserve from the Applicants' initial investment to fund future construction costs.

[20] In her Factum Ms. Walton accepted the Inspector's finding that the net amount of $23,680,852 had been transferred by the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle.<sup>7</sup>

[21] However, Ms. Walton disputed the Inspector's view that the Respondents lacked sufficient funds to pay for both the construction activity they alleged they carried out and the transfers observed to the Schedule C Companies. Ms. Walton deposed that every dollar transferred from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle was for legitimate work completed and amounts owed to it. As well, Ms. Walton took the position that Schedule B Companies currently owed the Rose & Thistle additional sums for services rendered, but not yet paid. In its Supplement to its Fifth Report the Inspector responded:

In general terms, the Inspector agrees that construction and development work occurred at the properties identified by Ms. Walton. The Inspector has never asserted that Rose & Thistle did not perform any construction or development work. The Inspector is of the view, however, that Rose & Thistle has failed to provide documents to substantiate a level of construction and development work commensurate with the funds transferred to it from the Companies. In the Inspector's view, construction and development work on the scale alleged by the Respondents would be supported by a significant volume of relevant records including invoices from subcontractors, consultants and suppliers, timesheets, payroll records, progress draws and other similar documents. The supporting documents are (with limited exceptions) notably absent from the materials provided to the Inspector and the court...

B. The Froese Forensics limited critique report

[22] Ms. Walton retained Mr. Ken Froese, of Froese Forensic Partners ("Froese"), to prepare a response to the first Four Reports of the Inspector. Froese prepared a Forensic Accounting

Report dated June 25, 2014 in the nature of a limited critique report. That report did not contain a statement of the expert's qualifications as required by Rule 53.03(2.1)(2) of the Rules of Civil Procedure.<sup>8</sup> An acknowledgment of expert's duty form was filed only when Ms. Walton filed her reply factum. Although Froese did not swear an affidavit through which to tender his report, thereby rendering the report hearsay, in the result the Applicants cross-examined him on his report. Under those circumstances, I am prepared to overlook those deficiencies in the Froese Report, and I will accept it as an expert's report properly tendered under Rule 53.03.

[23] The first area dealt with by Froese concerned the tracing analysis performed by the Inspector. Froese had written to the Inspector on May 30, 2014 requesting certain information. The Inspector met with Froese on June 3 and 10, 2014. Froese made the following observations about the Inspector's tracing analysis:

- (a) Although the Inspector stated that the tracing analysis was based on the 53 largest advances by the Applicants, Froese identified four other mortgage advances made by the Applicants which were larger in amount;
- (b) In respect of the 53 advances traced by the Inspector, Froese stated that $35.2 million of the $55.8 million was transferred from Schedule B Companies to the Rose & Thistle Account: "Our conclusion in reviewing the Inspector's tracing of the 53 Advances is that many of the advances are co-mingled in the Rose & Thistle clearing account and thus cannot be directly traced to Schedule C Companies";
- (c) The net transfer from Rose & Thistle to Walton-owned Schedule C Companies identified by the Inspector as amounting to $25,464,492 should be reduced by $1 million to take into account certain unrecorded deposits;
- (d) The net amount owing from Schedule C Companies to Rose & Thistle does not represent a direct tracing of the Applicants' funds to Schedule C Companies or an amount owing by Schedule C Companies to Schedule B Companies.

[24] Froese's general conclusion about the Inspector's tracing analysis was as follows:

Although we concluded that there are very few examples of a direct tracing of advances from Dr. Bernstein to Schedule B Companies that traced to the Rose & Thistle clearing account and then to Schedule C Companies without co-mingling with other sources of funds, this does not negate the fact that, over all, net funds flowed to Schedule C Companies from Rose & Thistle, and that net funds flowed to Rose & Thistle from Schedule B Companies. Rather, in our view it means that each Schedule C Company needs to be evaluated from the perspective of:

<sup>8</sup> Mr. Froese's CV and retainer letters were produced and marked as exhibits on his July 8, 2014 cross-examination.

- 1) the tracing analysis performed by the Inspector, in conjunction with our comments on the tracing for particular advances; and,
- 2) the overall net transfer position of each Schedule C Company, as reflected in the net transfers schedule prepared by the Inspector, as adjusted for additional relevant information. (emphasis added)

Froese commented specifically on the inspector's tracing analysis for seven of the properties owned by Schedule C Companies. Froese did not offer any other analysis of the overall net transfer position of each Schedule C Company, no doubt because he was not asked to do so by the Respondents as part of his retainer.

[25] Froese also commented on the accuracy of the overall cash transfer analysis performed by the Inspector found in Appendix B to the Inspector's Fourth Report. Froese stated:

The Inspector's Cash Transfer Analysis includes transactions from September 1, 2010 to December 31, 2013 for Schedule C Companies and from October 1, 2010 to December 31, 2013 for Schedule B Companies. It is a helpful analysis in that it provides an overall perspective on net transfers between these periods, and on amounts potentially owing from Schedule C Companies to Rose & Thistle.

We have the following comments on the Inspector's Cash Transfer Analysis:

- 1) The Cash Transfer Analysis does not include all transactions between Rose & Thistle and the Schedule B and C Companies, such as proceeds on sale or refinancing of a property where funds are deposited directly to the Rose & Thistle clearing account from a source other than a bank transfer. For example, $341,189 was deposited to Rose & Thistle in relation to 620 Richmond Street, a property we understand was beneficially owned by Richmond Row Holdings, a Schedule B Company;
- 2) Some deposits are not included in the Cash Transfer Analysis, including $909,950 of deposits to Rose & Thistle from Norma Walton (see Schedule 2); and,
- 3) There may be other transactions relevant to evaluating amounts owing between the Schedule C Companies and Rose & Thistle, such as unpaid costs for services provided between the companies.

As we have not reconciled Rose & Thistle's bank account to the Cash Transfer Analysis, there may be deposits or transfers that are missing or mis-categorized in the analysis. (emphasis added)

Presumably Froese did not perform such a reconciliation because the Respondents did not ask him to as part of the retainer. Froese testified that in preparing his report he received no audited financial statements or any form of prepared financial statements for the Schedule B Companies, Rose & Thistle or the Schedule C Companies.

[26] In the Supplement to its Fifth Report (July 9, 2014) the Inspector commented on this portion of the Froese Report:

The Inspector and Froese both acknowledged that, in some cases, funds could be traced directly from the [Schedule B] Companies to the Walton [Schedule C] Companies. The Inspector and Froese also agreed that, on a net basis, there was a transfer of $23.8 million from the Companies to Rose & Thistle and a transfer of more than $25 million from Rose & Thistle to the Walton Companies.

Some transfers are possible to trace to specific funds (as is evidenced numerous times in the tracing of specific amounts to Walton Company property acquisitions which is acknowledged in the Froese Report) and some are not.

In all, Froese and the Inspector agree that some funds can be traced directly from the Companies to the Walton Companies immediately before the Walton Companies purchased a Property. Froese asserts that the amount that can be traced into some Walton Companies is lower than the Inspector...

The Inspector also commented:

Froese states that the $23.8 million does not represent a direct tracing to Walton Companies from Companies, but does not offer an explanation as to where else the Walton Companies received funds from, except in a few instances. This is generally consistent with the Inspector's analysis.

C. Disputes over the transfers in and out of specific Schedule B Companies

C.1 Certain transfers

[27] Froese commented on the Inspector's treatment of several advances (or groups of advances) on which the Inspector did not offer a specific response:

- (a) Froese acknowledged that an $808,250 mortgage advance from Dr. Bernstein to Tisdale was transferred to the Rose & Thistle clearing account, but contended that because this transfer predated the agreement between Bernstein and the Waltons for that company, it should not be treated as a transfer from a Schedule B Company to Rose & Thistle;
- (b) Although Froese acknowledged that 15 mortgage advances involved funds transferred from a Schedule B Company to Rose & Thistle which were co-mingled with other funds, Froese observed that 13 of the advances related to mortgages which subsequently were fully repaid;

- (c) With respect to Dr. Bernstein funds deposited to Liberty Village and Queen's Corner which Froese acknowledged were transferred to Rose & Thistle, Froese stated that there was substantially more co-mingling between Schedule B and Schedule C Companies than disclosed in the Inspector's analysis or, in the case of Queen's Corner, the advances did not trace to Schedule C Companies.

C.2 Twin Dragons (241 Spadina)

[28] In its analysis the Inspector traced $251,350 of an October 18, 2010 Applicants' advance of $1,120,500 from Twin Dragons – the Schedule B Company which owned 241 Spadina - to Rose & Thistle over the period October 25 to 29, 2010. The Inspector also commented that transfers into the Rose & Thistle account from Schedule C Companies during that period amounted to $32,050, while transfers out to Schedule C Companies amounted to $114,780.

[29] Froese stated that the Inspector's analysis did not include transfers in the same time frame from Rose & Thistle back to a second Twin Dragons bank account and deposits of non-Bernstein funds to Twin Dragons. Froese stated that transfers to/from Twin Dragons and Rose & Thistle in the five-day period under review netted to $350, or "essentially that almost none of the funds traced to a Schedule C Company."

[30] In its report the Inspector made two comments in response to the Froese analysis. First, the Inspector stated:

Regarding Twin Dragons (Chart 1 of Appendix F) the $1,120,500 provided by the Applicants and deposited to the Twin Dragons bank account on October 18, 2010, most of the funds appear to have been used to close the acquisition of the Property. However, an amount of $150,000 from these funds was transferred from the Twin Dragons bank account to the Rose & Thistle bank account and was used to fund a cheque to Pointmark Real Estate in the amount of $150,000. According to Froese, this cheque relates to a deposit on the Property at 18 Wynford, which is owned by Wynford Professional Center Limited (one of the [Schedule B] Companies). The Inspector agrees with this aspect of the Froese analysis. (emphasis added)

Accordingly, this was an instance where funds advanced by the Applicants to one Schedule B Company for its use were diverted by the Waltons to another Schedule B Company in breach of the Waltons' agreements with Dr. Bernstein.

[31] The second comment of the Inspector concerned the Froese observations made in a chart he provided to the Inspector that third parties had deposited share subscription amounts into a second Twin Dragons bank account between October 27 and 29, 2010. On September 24, 2010 Dr. Bernstein Diet Clinics Ltd. entered into an agreement with the Waltons and Twin Dragons Corporation in respect of the intended purchase and development of 241 Spadina Avenue, Toronto. That agreement stipulated that the ownership of Twin Dragons would be 50% to Dr.

Bernstein and 50% to Ron and Norma Walton. Section 13 stated: “The only shares to be issued in the company will be as set out above, and neither party may transfer his or her shares to another party without the consent of all the other parties, which consent may be unreasonably withheld.” As can be seen, the agreement contemplated that there would be no third party investors in the Schedule B Company or Property.

[32] Froese provided the Inspector with a chart which recorded share subscriptions totaling $250,000 received on October 27 and 29, 2010, from third parties - Teresa and Joe Memme and Duncan Coopland.<sup>9</sup> The Inspector filed copies of the cheques for both investments: one was dated October 26 and the other October 27, 2010. Both were made out to Twin Dragons Corporation. Both were dated approximately one month after Dr. Bernstein had concluded his agreement with the Waltons in respect of Twin Dragons.

[33] Froese testified that he subsequently realized that the third party investors had been removed from Twin Dragons, and he corrected his analysis on that point.<sup>10</sup>

[34] Back on June 7, 2013, Mr. Reitan, on behalf of the Applicants, had written to Norma Walton complaining that the records disclosed third-party equity contributions into Twin Dragons following the execution of the agreement with Bernstein. Ms. Walton responded on June 13, 2013 with a very aggressive letter in which she stated:

We do not have outside investors in the properties we jointly owned with Dr. Bernstein. As Mario explained, before Dr. Bernstein became a 50% owner of Spadina and Highway 7, we had attracted investment from third parties. The moment he became an investor, we shifted all of those responsibilities over to the Rose & Thistle Group Ltd. and that is where they currently remain...

[35] That was not an accurate statement by Ms. Walton. As noted, both the Memmes and Coopland wrote share subscription cheques to Twin Dragons one month after the execution of the agreement with the Applicants. One can only conclude that they did so at the direction of Norma Walton. In its Fifth Report the Inspector stated:

The contract between the Applicants and the Respondents prohibits any third party investors in Twin Dragons and the Respondents assert that the third-party investments were deposited into the Twin Dragons bank account in error

In all, the documents reviewed and accounting treatment of the foregoing investments is not consistent with an erroneous investment in the wrong company as alleged by Ms. Walton.

[36] I accept that analysis by the Inspector. The statement made by Ms. Walton in her June 13, 2013 letter to Reitan regarding third party investors in Twin Dragons was not only inaccurate, it was misleading.

C.2 Bannockburn Lands Inc. (1185 Eglinton Avenue East)

[37] Froese stated that the Inspector's analysis of the tracing of a mortgage advance to Bannockburn Lands Inc. – the Schedule B Company which owned 1185 Eglinton Avenue East - omitted a deposit on March 28, 2011 into the Rose & Thistle clearing account from a Schedule C Company, 1780355 Ontario Inc.: "Accordingly, there was more co-mingling between Schedule B and Schedule C Companies than disclosed in the Inspector's analysis."

[38] In its Fifth Report the Inspector provided a detailed response to the comments made by Froese. The Inspector reported that after Froese had raised questions concerning Bannockburn, the Inspector conducted a further review of the banking and accounting records of Bannockburn and Rose & Thistle. The Inspector made the following points:

- (a) In dealing with Froese's questioning of how the Inspector could be certain that the funds transferred to Rose & Thistle were the Applicants' funds, the Inspector stated:

Froese indicated that their review had identified another mortgage as part of the Bannockburn transaction and suggested that the mortgage could have possibly been a source of funds for the transfer. However, this is not correct. As is set out below, the mortgage in question is a vendor take-back mortgage and no funds were advanced;

- (b) The Inspector reported that the Applicants had advanced their funds for the property by a cheque made payable to the Waltons' law firm, Walton Advocates. After dealing with closing adjustments on the acquisition of the Eglinton Avenue property, Walton Advocates transferred a net amount of $628,630.52 to Rose & Thistle on December 17, 2010. The Inspector stated:

As the mortgage referred to on the closing adjustments schedule was a vendor take-back mortgage, no cash was provided from this mortgage. Therefore, the funds of $628,630 transferred from Walton Advocates to Rose & Thistle can be directly traced to funds provided by the Applicants and this is consistent with the recording of the transaction in the accounting records of Bannockburn.

On cross-examination Froese agreed with that analysis by the Inspector;<sup>11</sup>

- (c) Although a few weeks following the acquisition of the property Rose & Thistle rendered an invoice to Bannockburn for “work completed” in respect of the property, the Inspector observed that the quantum of the invoice exactly matched the “excess” cash provided by the Applicants not required on closing in the amount of $628,632.52. The Inspector stated:

It appears, therefore, that the amounts on the invoice were calculated based on eliminating the intercompany receivable account between Bannockburn and Rose & Thistle which arose largely because of the cash transfers made from Bannockburn to Rose & Thistle.

- (d) The Inspector stated that “a major use of funds by Rose & Thistle around the time of the $628,630 transfer from Walton Advocates was for payments to 364808 Ontario Ltd. totaling $484,349”. 364808 Ontario was a Walton-owned Schedule C Company which owned a Davenport Road property purchased on July 5, 2002 by Norma and Ron Walton. Based upon the Inspector’s review of the small balance in the Rose & Thistle bank account prior to the transfer from Walton Advocates, the Inspector concluded that “the Applicants’ funds can be traced through to Rose & Thistle and were used to fund these payments to this Walton Company.”

D. Summary of conclusions on the “net transfer” analysis

[39] The evidence set out above disclosed a substantial agreement between the Inspector and Froese on the overall amounts of the net transfers from (i) Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and (ii) from Rose & Thistle to Schedule C Companies. The analysis performed by the Inspector was more comprehensive than the limited critique Froese was retained to perform. Both the Inspector (in respect of Twin Dragons) and Froese (in respect of Bannockburn) accepted certain criticisms made by the other of aspects of their respective analysis. On balance, I do not regard the specific critiques made by Froese to alter, in a material way, the findings made by the Inspector on the quantum of the net transfers. Consequently, I make the following findings of fact about the “net transfer” analysis of the movement of funds from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and from Rose & Thistle to Schedule C Companies:

- (i) The Waltons directed the transfer of $23.6 million (net) from the Schedule B Company Accounts to a bank account belonging to Rose & Thistle during the period from October 2010 to October 2013;

- (ii) During the same period, the Waltons directed transfers of $25.4 million (net) from the Rose & Thistle Account to companies that they owned without the Applicants – the Schedule C Companies; and,
- (iii) In almost all cases, some or all of the amounts advanced to the Schedule B Companies by the Applicants were transferred almost immediately to the Rose & Thistle Account.

I further find that those transfers of funds from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle constituted breaches of the agreements between the Applicants and the Respondents which required that each Schedule B Company, and the funds advanced to it, be used only to purchase, renovate and refinance the specific property owned by the Schedule B Company.

[40] Froese opined that the co-mingling of Schedule B Company funds and other funds in the Rose & Thistle account prevented, in most cases, the tracing of the Applicants' funds through Schedule B Companies to Schedule C Companies. For reasons which I will discuss in Section VI below, I do not accept Froese's opinion on that point. I also accept the point made by the Inspector that Froese did not offer an explanation of where the Waltons' Schedule C Companies otherwise sourced their funds, no doubt because he was not retained to express such an opinion. However, as will be discussed later in these Reasons, Ms. Walton has not provided a satisfactory answer to that most basic of questions.

V. Issues concerning the use of funds for Schedule B Properties

[41] From the evidence filed there is no doubt that the Respondents caused funds, including funds advanced by the Applicants, to be used to develop, renovate or construct several of the Schedule B Properties. The question raised by the evidence was: how much did the Respondents spend in the way of legitimate costs on the Schedule B Properties? As I will explain below, the Respondents have never provided a satisfactory answer to that question, notwithstanding an October, 2013 Order of this Court that they do so. Although the Respondents contended that a significant part of the funds advanced by the Applicants were used to pay invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to Schedule B Companies for legitimate construction costs, as the following review of the evidence will disclose the Respondents have not provided concrete evidence to support the validity of the construction costs billed by Rose & Thistle despite repeated requests by the Inspector.

A. The invoices for construction costs and management fees charged by Rose & Thistle to Schedule B Companies

A.1 Overview

[42] The Respondents relied heavily on invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies to provide an explanation for $12,264,158<sup>12</sup> of the $23.680 million net transfer of funds from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle. In her April 28, 2014 affidavit Ms. Walton deposed:

In my opinion, the only basis upon which the Applicants can advance a claim against my non-Bernstein assets is if I am unable to back up the invoices Rose and Thistle charged to the joint portfolio.

Because of the centrality of those invoices to the Respondents' defence, I intend to spend some time reviewing how this issue has unfolded since October, 2013.

[43] From the early stages of this proceeding the Inspector expressed concern that the Rose & Thistle invoices were not rendered on a regular basis and, instead, a significant number of invoices had been rendered just prior to and following its appointment. In his November 5 Reasons Newbould J. commented:

The frenzied attempts in the past month since the Inspector was appointed to update ledgers and manufacture invoices should never have been necessary and in light of the evidence, obviously casts doubt on what is now being done to update the records.

In her Factum Ms. Walton acknowledged, in her own way, the frailty of the Rose & Thistle invoices:

When the Inspector was appointed by the court, Walton was forced to rush through a number of invoices for work Rose and Thistle had performed for the Schedule B properties and the joint portfolio. As a result of the rush to account for all the work provided to the joint portfolio, Walton is not sure that all work done has been invoiced and Walton made mistakes in some of the invoices provided.<sup>13</sup>

<sup>12</sup> $8,500,853 by way of invoiced construction work; $1,183,013 for property management fees; and $2,580,292 in the way of property maintenance fees.

A.2 The failure of the Respondents to provide back-up documentation for the Rose & Thistle invoices

[44] Before reviewing the evidence concerning the Inspector's efforts to secure back-up documentation for the invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies, mention should be made of the Inspector's comments on the state of the accounting system maintained by the Respondents for their construction projects. In its First Report (October 21, 2013), the Inspector stated:

Ms. Walton has advised the Inspector that the books and records of the Companies are not current. Ms. Walton also advised the Inspector that, before her recent attempt to update the books and records of the Companies, they were last brought current in 2011.

The Inspector understands that Ms. Walton and Rose & Thistle have been working to bring the Companies' books and records up to date. As part of this process, Rose & Thistle has been inputting expense information into the ledgers in or around August and September 2013 relating to the period between January 2012 and August 2013. Rose & Thistle has also issued a number of invoices dated August and September 2013 for services rendered or expenses incurred by Rose & Thistle during the period from January 2012 to August 2013.

In this regard, the Inspector notes that the Companies' books and records are kept using QuickBooks accounting software. QuickBooks is a basic accounting package that is primarily marketed to small businesses. The Companies do not have any:

- (a) comprehensive financial accounting and reporting system;
- (b) cash flow forecasting, budgeting or reporting system; or,
- (c) systematic cash controls.

Prior to the October 17 all-hands meeting hosted by the Inspector, Ms. Walton would only provide the Inspector with access to general ledgers for individual Companies once she and Rose & Thistle had completed their exercise of updating the ledger and issuing invoices from Rose & Thistle to such Company. At the October 17 meeting, Ms. Walton agreed to provide the Inspector with access to the ledgers for the remaining 11 Companies in their current state. That evening, the Inspector was provided with access to seven of the remaining 11 ledgers.

[45] Turning then to the issue of the Rose & Thistle invoices to Schedule B Companies, as early as October 21, 2013 - the date of the Inspector's First Report - the Respondents had provided invoices issued by Rose & Thistle to 27 of the Schedule B Companies for which the general ledgers had been provided for an aggregate amount in excess of $32 million. At that time the Inspector requested "back-up documentation for the Rose & Thistle invoices that have been provided to date". The Inspector stated:

The Inspector has requested, but not yet received, documentation to substantiate the invoiced amounts. Once these documents are provided, further due diligence is required to confirm that the invoices from Rose & Thistle relate to services provided to, or expenses incurred on behalf of, the [Schedule B] Companies.

By October 24, 2013, the Inspector was reporting that the amount of the invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies had risen to $34.6 million, or $10.6 million more than Rose & Thistle had received from the Schedule B Companies.

[46] In its First Report the Inspector gave an example of the difficulties it was encountering in securing from the Respondents documents to support the invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to Schedule B Companies. The property at 458 Pape Avenue was owned by Riverdale Mansion Inc. Rose & Thistle provided the Inspector with invoices addressed to Riverdale for construction management fees of slightly more than $1.18 million for expenses which included “deposits for materials”, “project management services”, “site plan deposits and applications”, and “steel rebar ordered and installed”. When the Inspector asked for documentation, including third party invoices, to support the amounts invoiced:

Ms. Walton advised the Inspector that Rose & Thistle did not have third-party invoices for many of the invoiced expenses because Rose & Thistle performed much of the work itself and some of the expenses have not yet been incurred. In response, the Inspector requested that documents, such as material invoices and payroll records, be provided to validate the cost of work performed by Rose & Thistle and invoiced to Riverdale. As of the date of this report, no such documentation has been provided.

On October 18, 2013, the Inspector received a Credit Note from Rose & Thistle which showed that the invoice to Riverdale had been reversed except for $257,065.62 charged for work performed in 2011.

[47] Subsequent reports of the Inspector disclosed not only the continuing difficulties in obtaining backup documentation to support the amounts claimed in the Rose & Thistle invoices, but also questioned the accuracy of the invoices. For example, in the Inspector’s Second Report (October 31, 2013), it reported that it had been provided with an invoice issued by Rose & Thistle to Dupont Developments Ltd. (1485 Dupont Street) which included an entry for construction management services in the amount of $175,300.30. The invoice stated that the construction management fee was “10% of hard costs”. From that the Inspector reasonably assumed that Rose & Thistle had supervised construction which had cost approximately $1.75 million. However, Rose & Thistle staff provided the Inspector with project budgets that indicated Dupont Developments had spent only $385,000 on construction. The Inspector reported:

The Inspector also received a general ledger for Dupont Developments on October 24, 2013. The general ledger shows capitalized expenses of approximately $248,000, construction in progress of $36,000 and various consulting fees of approximately $563,000.

Based on the foregoing, it appears that Dupont Developments' construction budget (which is out of date), its general ledger (which was updated before being provided to the Inspector) and invoice from Rose & Thistle all show different construction expenditures in respect of the Dupont Project.

It also does not appear that Rose & Thistle is maintaining project budgets on an ongoing basis to track expenses and measure construction costs against the pro forma statement prepared when the property at 1485 Dupont was purchased.

[48] The difficulties encountered in obtaining proper accounting information from the Respondents were exemplified by the correspondence from the Respondent's former counsel, John Campion, to Applicant's counsel on October 31, 2013, in response to a request for "information about an accounting". On behalf of his client Mr. Campion responded: "I do not know what that reference is meant to encompass." Based no doubt on information provided by his clients, Mr. Campion wrote:

The Inspector has stated that they have not been provided with third-party invoices, contracts, payroll records or other contemporaneous documents. My client instructs me that other than the budgets that are being provided by Ms. Liu over the next three days, she is not aware of any request made that has not been fulfilled, as best it can be.

The Inspector keeps asking which filing cabinets he can review to obtain this information. The information he seeks can only be obtained through discussions with the staff mentioned above as all documentation is on computer and not contained in a filing cabinet.

As a result of the above, we believe that the Inspector has been given the kind of access to the Rose and Thistle documents that is available and reasonable under the order of Justice Newbould. Without wishing to criticize the Inspector, I am informed that he expects to have "physical copies of documents produced to him from a filing cabinet". This is not the way that Rose and Thistle stores its information. Upon request being made in an orderly manner, the Inspector has and will receive information and documentation as soon as it can be retrieved and ordered in a manner that meets his request.

[49] Again, no doubt based upon information provided by his clients, Mr. Campion wrote:

The Inspector has also met with Yvonne Liu, Project Manager, Construction and has provided to them information that has been requested, along with one construction budget. She is sending to the Inspector over the next three days all remaining budgets. The Inspector has spoken with and met with Mario Bucci, CFO of the Rose and Thistle Group, and Mr. Bucci has provided to the Inspector all information requested. Ms. Walton has offered to the Inspector to arrange a meeting with Carlos Carreiro, former Director of Construction of Rose and Thistle but the Inspector has not done so. Steve Williams, VP of Operations as also met with the Inspector and provided what the Inspector requested.

[50] As will be seen from the subsequent reports of the Inspector which are set out below, the Inspector never received the information it requested. As the Inspector stated in the Supplement to its Fifth Report (July 9, 2014): “Neither construction budgets nor any significant volume of third-party documentation has been provided to the Inspector.”

[51] The Inspector submitted its Third Report on January 15, 2014 in which it dealt at some length with the issue of the Rose & Thistle invoices:

The Inspector previously reported that Rose & Thistle Group Ltd. (Rose & Thistle) transferred approximately $24.2 million (net) from the Schedule B Companies to itself between September 2010 and October 2013. In support of these transactions, Rose & Thistle provided the Inspector invoices totaling approximately $30.6 million (plus HST) for management fees, maintenance fees and construction and project management. The Inspector’s current analysis of these billings is outlined below.

Construction and project management billings

Of the total $30.6 million charged by Rose & Thistle, approximately $27.6 million was purportedly charged for construction supervision, project management and other project costs. Included in this amount is $6.6 million that is explained below in the “contributed equity” section, leaving support required for $21 million. Despite the Inspector’s request, Rose & Thistle has still not provided evidence to support these billings. Therefore, the Inspector is still unable to comment on the validity of these billings at this time.

As Rose & Thistle has yet to provide evidence to substantiate more than $20 million of billings for construction and project related costs, the Inspector is expanding its work to include an analysis of funds transferred from Rose & Thistle to other non-Schedule B companies where those funds appear to have initially originated from Schedule B companies. This Inspector will report on this work as soon as it is able to do so.

Management fees

Rose & Thistle charged a management fee to Schedule B Companies based upon 4% of the gross revenues of individual properties that generated revenue. The agreements between the Applicant and the Respondents do not specifically state that the fee is to be charged. However, the agreements generally state that Walton (as defined in each agreement) is responsible for managing the properties, including all finance, bookkeeping, office administration, accounting, information technology provision. The Inspector has no comment on the legal issue of whether Rose & Thistle is entitled to charge for those services under the terms of the various agreements as they may be duly interpreted. The Inspector is of the opinion that a fee of 4% is a reasonable amount and is consistent with rates charged in the marketplace for similar services. Further, the Inspector worked with Rose & Thistle to reconcile the management fees charged on revenue producing properties. These fees amount to approximately $1 million in the aggregate.

Maintenance fees

Rose & Thistle charged maintenance fees to the Schedule B companies based upon a fixed monthly amount per property. This fee is purportedly charged to reimburse Rose & Thistle for the cost of providing maintenance employees to certain of the properties. The Inspector has no comment on the legal issue of whether Rose & Thistle is entitled to levy these charges under the terms of the various agreements as they may be duly interpreted. The Inspector is of the view that it can be appropriate for a real estate management service provider to seek reimbursement for costs that are not covered under its management fees when utilizing outside property management. However, the Inspector has not been able to verify or reconcile records of the fees charged to costs actually incurred by Rose & Thistle or for any set markup on such costs. These fees amount to approximately $2 million in the aggregate. (emphasis added)

[52] In its Fourth Report (April 23, 2014), the Inspector stated that Rose & Thistle had withdrawn some of the invoices which made up its original $30.6 million claim against the Schedule B Companies, and now was alleging that it had invoiced those companies for $27,292,722. The Inspector reported that as a result of the failure of Rose & Thistle to provide evidence to support the majority of those billings, it had expanded its work to include an analysis of the funds transferred from Rose & Thistle to bank accounts controlled by the Waltons (the “Walton Accounts”). The Inspector reported:

On February 21, 2014, counsel to the Inspector circulated a document prepared by the Inspector outlining the Inspector’s analysis of funds flowing to and from the [Schedule B] Company Accounts to the Rose & Thistle Account and from the Rose & Thistle Account to the Walton Accounts.

The spreadsheet, which is referred to below as the “Cash Transfer Analysis”, was circulated subject to the limitations noted in counsel’s email...A summary version of the Cash Transfer Analysis, which shows the total amounts transferred to and from the Rose & Thistle Account to each Company Account and each Walton Account is attached as Appendix “B”.

Neither the Applicants nor the Respondents have challenged the accuracy of the Cash Transfer Analysis...

In all, Rose & Thistle received approximately $23.6 million more from the [Schedule B] Companies than it transferred to the Companies...

... In total, the Walton Accounts received transfers totaling $64,712,258 from the Rose & Thistle account and transferred $39,247,766 to the Rose & Thistle account during the period examined. The Walton Accounts received a net transfer of $25,464,492 from Rose & Thistle. That is, Rose & Thistle transferred approximately $25 million more to the Walton Accounts than it received from the Walton Accounts during the period examined.

[53] By the time of its Fifth Report (July 1, 2014) the Inspector was still reporting the failure by the Respondents to provide appropriate backup documentation for the Rose & Thistle construction expense invoices:

The Inspector's analysis is impaired by the fact that the Respondents have not provided back-up documentation, including third party invoices, proof of payment and progress draws relating to the majority of the alleged construction expenses. Accordingly, the Inspector cannot perform a detailed reconciliation of the alleged construction expenses to the cash transfers to determine whether these transfers related to construction work that had been performed. The Respondents have instead provided reports from third-party quantity surveyors which will be addressed in a supplemental report.

Rose & Thistle provided the Inspector with invoices addressed to Riverdale (a Schedule B Company) totaling $1.18 million. The invoices listed, among other things, expenses related to "deposits for materials", "project management services", "site plan deposits and applications" and "steel rebar ordered and installed".

The Inspector asked for documentation, including third party invoices, to support the amounts invoiced to Riverdale. Ms. Walton advised the Inspector that Rose & Thistle did not have third-party invoices for many of the invoiced expenses because Rose & Thistle performed much of the work itself and some of the expenses have not yet been incurred. This would appear to be inconsistent with her statement that transfers from the Companies to Rose & Thistle were in the nature of payments for services that have been provided but not yet invoiced. The Inspector requested that documents, such as material invoices and payroll records, be provided to validate the cost of work performed by Rose & Thistle and invoiced to Riverdale. No such documentation has been provided. (emphasis added)

A.3 The Inspector's observations on the Rose & Thistle invoices

[54] In its Fifth Report the Inspector made several comments about the invoices which Rose & Thistle had rendered to the Schedule B Companies:

- (a) There was no apparent co-relation between the amount of construction work performed on a Schedule B Property and the volume of funds transferred from that property. For example, in respect of the property at Fraser Avenue, the two Fraser companies made net transfers of approximately $9.2 million to Rose & Thistle, but little or no construction work was completed on the Fraser Properties before the Manager was appointed. By contrast, Twin Dragons successfully renovated and leased 241 Spadina and received a net transfer from Rose & Thistle of approximately $1.3 million. The Fraser property is dealt with further in Section V.A.5 below;

- (b) The Inspector observed a pattern whereby the amounts invoiced by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies appeared to match the amount of cash previously transferred from the Schedule B Company to Rose & Thistle. For example, the Inspector reported that it appeared that the amounts invoiced from Rose & Thistle to Bannockburn (1185 Eglinton East) in 2010 and 2011 were calculated to match the net cash transferred from Bannockburn to Rose & Thistle during those years. The Inspector pointed to Wynford and Riverdale Mansion as other Schedule B Companies in respect of which a similar matching-invoice practice by Rose & Thistle took place. Those invoices had the effect of essentially eliminating the inter-company debt owed by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Company;<sup>14</sup> and,
- (c) In respect of the Schedule B Company, Riverdale Mansion, the Inspector reported that it had received a credit note from Rose & Thistle which showed the invoices to Riverdale had been reversed except for $257,065.62 charged for work performed in 2011. The Inspector stated: “The Credit Note was not accompanied by any return of funds. This would appear to reinforce the Inspector’s conclusion that invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to the Companies were calculated based on the net cash transferred from the Companies to Rose & Thistle rather than on the value of actual work, if any, performed by Rose & Thistle.”

[55] In its report Froese stated that any further analysis of the net unsupported or unexplained transfers from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle would require an evaluation of the quantity surveyor reports related to the Schedule B Properties to address further work performed by Rose & Thistle for those properties. Froese noted that the quantity surveyor reports were not made available to it in sufficient time to address them.

A.4 The cost consultant reports filed by Ms. Walton

[56] Ms. Walton filed reports from two cost consultants commenting on work performed by Rose & Thistle for Schedule B Properties. Intrepid Quantity Surveying Inc. prepared three reports dealing with 32 Atlantic Avenue, 241 Spadina Avenue and 18 Wynford Drive. The work on the Atlantic and Spadina properties had been fully completed; the building at 18 Wynford had been partially renovated.

[57] BTY Group prepared a set of 21 reports entitled “Audit Report On Incurred Cost To Date” for the following properties: (i) 1185 Eglinton East (Bannockburn); (ii) Cityview Drive (Cityview Industrial); (iii) 14 Dewhurst (Dewhurst Developments); (iv) 1500 Don Mills Road

<sup>14</sup> At paragraphs 66 through 69 of his affidavit sworn June 26, 2014, James Reitan provided other examples of this practice.

(Donalda Developments); (v) 65 Heward (Double Rose Developments); (vi) 1485 DuPont (DuPont Developments); (vii) 153 Eddystone (Eddystone Place); (viii) Fraser Avenue (Fraser Lands/Fraser Properties); (ix) 1450 Don Mills Road (Global Mills); (x) 14 Trent (Hidden Gem Developments); (xi) Lesliebrooke Holdings and Lesliebrooke Lands; (xii) 47 Jefferson (Liberty Village Lands); (xiii) 140 Queens Plate Crescent (Northern Dancer Lands); (xiv) 1003 Queen Street East (Queen's Corner Corp.); (xv) 875 Queen Street East (Red Door Developments); (xvi) 450 Pape (Riverdale Mansion); (xvii) Highway 7 (Royal Agincourt); (xviii) 1 Royal Gate Boulevard (Royal Gate Holdings); (xix) Skyway Drive (Skyway Holdings); (xx) 295 The West Mall (West Mall Holdings); and, (xxi) 355 Weston Road (Weston Lands).

[58] The BTY Group were not independent experts. The record disclosed that they had acted as cost consultants for progress draws on some Schedule B Properties during the course of demolition and construction work on them – 241 Spadina; 1185 Eglinton;<sup>15</sup> and 18 Wynford.<sup>16</sup>

[59] The authors of the cost consultant reports all purported to express opinions in their reports. Opinion evidence in civil cases must comply not only with the general rules of evidence, but also with Rule 53.03 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. Rule 53.03(2.1) mandates that any report of an expert witness must contain seven categories of information. In the case of the reports prepared by Intrepid Quantity Surveying they lacked the following mandatory information: area of expertise; qualifications; instructions provided to the expert; and, an acknowledgment of the expert's duty signed by the expert. Those constituted material omissions of mandated information for expert reports and, in my view, rendered the reports prepared by Intrepid Quantity Surveying inadmissible as expert evidence.

[60] As to the reports prepared by BTY Group, they also suffered from the same omissions of material mandated information. As well, they did not disclose the name of the expert who had prepared the reports – a singular omission which I have never seen before. By reason of those failures to include information mandated by Rule 53.03(2.1), I conclude that the cost consultant reports prepared by BTY Group are inadmissible as expert evidence.

[61] Even had I admitted the reports prepared by Intrepid Quantity Surveying and BTY Group as expert evidence, for the reasons set out below their probative value in respect of the issues in dispute on these motions would have been quite minimal.

The reports prepared by Intrepid Quantity Surveying

[62] The three Intrepid Quantity Surveying (“IQS”) reports possessed a similar structure, so let me use the March 10, 2014 report on 32 Atlantic Avenue as an example of the limited probative value of the opinions expressed in those reports. First, it was difficult to discern the purpose of the report. Rule 53.03(2.1)(3) requires a report to contain “the instructions provided to the expert in relation to the preceding”; none appeared in the body of the report. Rule 53.03(2.1)(4) requires a report to contain “the nature of the opinion being sought and each issue in the proceeding to which the opinion relates”; none was provided in the report.

[63] From the report it appears that Ms. Walton had asked IQS to review the budget for the 32 Atlantic Avenue project. IQS reported that they had reviewed the file and had “provided our comments here for your reference.” At the end of the report, IQS stated:

In our opinion, we believe the work in place for the construction work is reasonable based on information and invoices received to substantiate the cost to date.

[64] The IQS report focused on two aspects of the project’s budget: construction costs of $3.045 million and management fees of approximately $150,000.

[65] The IQS review of the construction costs was based upon an undated Vendor Transaction List provided by the Respondents. IQS requested copies of invoices to substantiate the items booked to the accounting system. Although it was provided with 89% of the overall hard costs booked to the Respondents’ accounting system, it was not provided with the Rose & Thistle construction invoice for $216,330.57.

[66] The Vendor Transaction document attached to the IQS report recorded amounts incurred for various types of work from various suppliers. The legend for that document identified which invoices had been reviewed (presumably by the Rose & Thistle management) and which invoices remained outstanding. In its report for the Atlantic Avenue property, IQS noted that it had only been provided with proof of 20% expended by way of an invoice and that it was relying primarily on the accounting summaries prepared by the Respondents’ accounting system, not on the actual underlying invoices.

[67] IQS reported that the Respondents had provided timesheets which confirmed 20% of the Rose & Thistle construction fees of $216,330.57, but it identified significant limits placed on its review of those Rose & Thistle construction fees. In particular, IQS could only rely upon “accounting summaries” provided by the Respondents when reviewing the Rose & Thistle construction fees. Although the accounting summaries confirmed 88% of the $216,330.57, IQS reported:

These costs may have been incurred by [Rose & Thistle Properties] and entered into their accounts system, but we only have proof of 20% expended by way of an invoice.

We have been provided with partial bank account records and cancelled cheques. A full review to ensure that the amounts booked have cleared the [Rose & Thistle Properties] bank account was not part of the IQS scope of work.

The IQS report made clear that it lacked adequate backup documentation for most of the $216,333.57 in construction fees charged by Rose & Thistle. In my view, those limitations identified by IQS severely limited the utility of their reports in verifying the amounts Rose & Thistle was recorded as charging the Schedule B Company which owned the project, Liberty Village.

[68] IQS reported that the budget identified management fees charged by Rose & Thistle of approximately $150,000. IQS stated:

We have not reviewed backup invoices to date, however we have been provided a summary breakdown of the fees.

These costs may have been incurred by [Rose & Thistle Properties], but we do not have proof of the expenditure by way of an invoice.

The management fee is for time spent by [Rose & Thistle Properties] employees to coordinate the construction activities and the consultants.

IQS also noted in respect of the management fees that it had not been provided with timesheets or accounting backup. IQS calculated that the management fee charged had amounted to 4.5% of the total hard construction costs for the project which appeared to be reasonable based on the scope of work and a standard industry range of 2.5% to 4.5% for management fees.

[69] Similar limitations were contained in the other two IQS reports. IQS' report on the Twin Dragons project - 241 Spadina<sup>17</sup> - noted that it had not been asked to review construction costs, so it had not reviewed copies of invoices to substantiate the items booked to the Respondents' accounting system "as this was outside our scope of work. Costs booked to the vendor transaction list are assumed to be valid." IQS also observed, regarding the $133,209 management fee charged, that it had not reviewed the internal Rose & Thistle Properties back-up for the fee. The only opinion expressed by IQS in respect of the 241 Spadina budget was that the management fee of 3.47% was reasonable based upon the scope of work and industry practices.<sup>18</sup>

<sup>18</sup> Carlos Carreiro filed an affidavit in support of the Respondents, his former employer, attesting, in a descriptive way, to the work his company had performed for Rose & Thistle at 241 Spadina, 32 Atlantic Avenue and 450 Pape. No documentation supporting the work performed or invoiced was attached to his affidavit. Yvonne Liu filed a

[70] In its report concerning 18 Wynford Drive, IQS noted that it had been provided with two invoices for construction costs from Rose & Thistle totaling $3.55 million, but IQS stated:

Both of the above two invoices can be traced back to the vendor transaction list. However the co-relation is not indicative of actual costs incurred as further details to substantiate actual backup to the costs incurred are not available.<sup>19</sup>

[71] As to the management fee of $355,000 charged by Rose & Thistle for 18 Wynford, IQS opined that the management fee of 6.95% was “in a higher range of what is expected based on the scope of work and industry standards”. IQS ventured that industry standards of between 2.5% and 4.5% “would be more reasonable”.

[72] In sum, the IQS reports did not assist the Respondents in explaining or justifying the construction costs invoiced by Rose & Thistle to the examined Schedule B Companies. The reports did not fill in the evidentiary gap identified by the Inspector. Instead, they highlighted the unwillingness of the Respondents to produce the back-up documentation needed to test and verify the amounts charged by Rose & Thistle to Schedule B Companies for both construction costs and management fees.

The reports prepared by BTY Group

[73] The BTY Group reports disclosed that Rose & Thistle had asked it to provide an opinion on the validity of the hard construction, soft construction and Rose & Thistle management costs for a number of properties “in comparison to other projects”. Although the reports were styled as “audit reports”, they disclosed that the information provided by Rose & Thistle to BTY Group consisted of the budgets, ledgers and summary of management fees for each project. The BTY Group relied on those Rose & Thistle accounting documents and summaries. BTY Group did not review any invoices or cancelled cheques to substantiate the payments noted in the accounting records of Rose & Thistle.

[74] In the case of its analysis of the management fees charged by Rose & Thistle to the projects, BTY Group recorded their understanding that no accounting records existed to substantiate the information provided by Rose & Thistle with respect to the management fees incurred on a project. As a result, the opinions of the BTY Group about the reasonableness of the management fees were based solely on its review of the summary of management costs similar type of affidavit describing work her personal company had performed for Rose & Thistle at 32 Atlantic, 241 Spadina, 1485 Dupont, 153 Eddystone, 450 Pape Avenue, 18 Wynford, 14 Dewhurst, Highway 7 West, 1 Royal Gate, 3765 St. Clair Avenue East, and 1003 Queen Street East.

<sup>19</sup> Emphasis added. In the Supplemental Report to its Fifth Report (July 9, 2014), the Inspector noted that not all of the amounts spent by Rose & Thistle on construction at 18 Wynford were relevant to the tracing analysis because some of them may have been funded by Rose & Thistle drawing on 18 Wynford's condominium reserve fund.

provided by Rose & Thistle for a project as a percentage of the project budget. For example, as noted in its report of the management fee review for the 1185 Eglinton East (Bannockburns) project:

We have not been privy to the calculation of the costs noted in this section and we acknowledge that there are no accounting records in place to justify the costs noted as being incurred on the project. Our opinion as to the reasonableness of the costs incurred to date is based on our experience of working on projects of a similar type and nature across several provinces in Canada.

The BTY Group, using its knowledge of other similar projects in the market, performed a comparative analysis which ranked each category of costs identified in the project's accounting summaries as either "not in line with", "in line with", or "below" current market conditions for those types of costs.

[75] As can be seen, the BTY Group reports did not examine whether costs recorded in the Respondents' accounting records for a project were in fact incurred, including whether costs included in invoices from Rose & Thistle to a Schedule B Company had been incurred. Put another way, the BTY Group reports assumed the accuracy of the accounting records of Rose & Thistle and the Schedule B Companies.

[76] In the Supplement to its Fifth Report, the Inspector offered the following comments on the cost consultant reports prepared by the BTY Group:

[T]he fundamental question relating to the Rose & Thistle Invoices is whether Rose & Thistle actually performed the invoiced work and is entitled to the claimed payment. All but one of the cost consultant reports offered by the Respondents does not address this issue at all. The exception relates to the property at 32 Atlantic...

In particular, the BTY reports essentially compared the costs in Rose & Thistle's budget and accounting ledgers to the work that Rose & Thistle said it performed. BTY appears to have assumed that Rose & Thistle performed the relevant work and incurred the costs associated with it...

Since all of BTY's information appears to originate in the books and records of Rose & Thistle, the BTY reports do not contribute anything meaningful to the analysis of whether those books and records are accurate. BTY compares the assumed cost of the work against its understanding of market rates for the same work but it does not assess whether the work was actually performed. As a result, in the Inspector's view, the BTY reports do not assist the Inspector's analysis of what work Rose & Thistle performed on each property and what payment it is entitled to for that work.

[77] Based upon my review of the reports prepared by the BTY Group, I accept the Inspector's conclusion that the reports do not contribute anything meaningful to the analysis of whether the books and records of Rose & Thistle are accurate nor do they contribute anything meaningful to the inquiry into the accuracy, validity or reasonableness of the invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies. As was the case with the IQS reports, the BTY Group reports did not fill in the evidentiary gap noted by the Inspector. That rendered the BTY Group reports of little probative value to the issues in dispute.

A.5 Issues raised in cost consultant reports on specific Schedule B Properties

[78] The frailty and unreliability of the invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle were illustrated by the analysis of the invoices rendered for three specific Schedule B Properties.

Bannockburn (1185 Eglinton)

[79] Bannockburn acquired the property at 1185 Eglinton Avenue East on December 17, 2010. The Bannockburn development was intended to consist of two residential condominium towers with a block of townhouses. Demolition of the previous property on the site was performed, but no other work took place.

[80] BTY Group reviewed the Rose & Thistle accounting ledger for hard construction costs on the project. The Inspector reported that on December 31, 2010 Rose & Thistle issued an invoice to Bannockburn in the amount of $467,719.60 for services provided between December 7 and 31, 2010 – i.e. the invoice included the 10 day period prior to the acquisition of the property. The Rose & Thistle invoice included items for demolition disposal, development approval expenses and project management fees. In the Supplement to its Fifth Report the Inspector stated:

The amount of this invoice matched exactly the amount transferred to Rose & Thistle from Bannockburn. Moreover, Bannockburn did not purchase 1185 Eglinton Avenue until December 17, 2010, ten days after the invoice shows that work commenced. In her email commenting on the Fifth Report, Ms. Walton explained that Rose & Thistle engaged consultants and began work on a property before the purchase of that property closed.

The amounts listed on the December 31, 2010 invoice from Rose & Thistle to Bannockburn cannot be reconciled to the transaction list appended to the [BTY Group] Bannockburn Report. In particular, there are no demolition costs and less than $25,000 in development costs recorded on the ledger provided to BTY for the period prior to December 31, 2010.

30 Fraser Avenue; 7-15 Fraser Avenue

[81] Fraser Properties Corp. owned land located at 30 Fraser Avenue in Toronto; Fraser Lands Ltd. owned the adjacent property at 7-15 Fraser Avenue. Dr. Bernstein made an equity contribution of $16,024,960 to Fraser Properties. As early as its First Report, the Inspector had reported:

Fraser Properties transferred $10,281,050 to Rose & Thistle and received transfers of $1,215,100 from Rose & Thistle. Rose & Thistle retained $9,065,950 paid by Fraser Properties.

[82] In its report the BTY Group stated that the Fraser Avenue properties housed existing one and two story buildings, with the plan being to renovate the existing buildings and construct two new commercial buildings. The BTY Group reviewed and reported on the accounting ledgers of Rose & Thistle. In the Supplement to its Fifth Report the Inspector stated:

Rose & Thistle provided the Inspector with invoices to Fraser Lands Ltd. totaling $300,896 and invoices to Fraser Properties Ltd. totaling $1,598,580...

It appears that the ledger provided by Rose & Thistle to BTY does not support the amounts invoiced to Fraser...

Rose & Thistle received transfers of $9,080,850 from the Companies that own the Fraser Property, issued invoices totaling $1,899,477 with respect to alleged work performed on the Fraser Property and provided BTY with records showing that it had actually incurred expenses totaling $395,532 in respect of the Fraser property.

1485 Dupont

[83] In its report on the property at 1485 Dupont (Dupont Developments) the BTY Group stated that the accounting ledgers provided by Rose & Thistle showed hard construction cost bill payments to contractors of $805,036.20 and soft construction costs payments to contractors of $113,383.91. As was the case in all of its reports, the BTY Group stated that it had not undertaken a review of invoices or cancelled cheques to substantiate the payments noted in the ledger as paid. In the Supplement to its Fifth Report the Inspector stated:

The Inspector also notes that Ms. Walton's construction cost figure does not appear to account for amounts that are owed to contractors but not paid. For example, the Respondents delivered an affidavit of Yvonne Liu stating that Rose & Thistle completed various construction work on the property at 1485 Dupont Avenue ("the DuPont Property"). Construction liens in the aggregate amount of $821,297 have been registered against the DuPont Property. The Inspector has not evaluated the validity of these lien claims. However, the existence of substantial lien claims in respect of DuPont undermines the assertion that funds transferred to Rose & Thistle from the [Schedule B] Companies were used to pay for construction at DuPont.

A.6 Ms. Walton's comments on the cost consultant reports

[84] In her June 21, 2014 affidavit, Ms. Walton commented on each of the reports prepared by the cost consultants and she gave general descriptions of the work performed on each property. Notwithstanding that Ms. Walton spent extensive time in her affidavit dealing with each property, she did not append to her affidavit the back-up documentation to support the amounts charged by Rose & Thistle to each project which the Inspector had been requesting since last October.

A.7 Conclusion on the Rose & Thistle invoices

[85] Ms. Walton deposed that “as confirmed by the third party cost consulting reports, the value of all work completed by Rose and Thistle has been confirmed”. In her Factum she pointed to the cost consultant reports as establishing that Rose & Thistle had spent specific amounts on construction costs. The IQS and BTY Group cost consultant reports do not allow any such conclusion to be drawn – they dealt only with the amounts which were recorded in the books and records provided by Rose & Thistle to the cost consultants without providing any independent audit or verification of the accuracy or validity of those amounts.

[86] In paragraph 10 of the October 25, 2013 Order of Newbould J. the Respondents were required to “provide forthwith a full accounting of all monies received, disbursed, owed to and owed from the Schedule B Corporations and The Rose & Thistle Group Ltd. since September, 2010 to the present.” That order required the Respondents to account for all monies owed by Schedule B Companies pursuant to invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle. The Waltons have failed to do so. The Waltons have left unanswered the repeated demands of the Inspector for documentation to back-up and support those invoices, and Ms. Walton has filed cost consultant reports which assumed the accuracy of those invoices, instead of providing an independent audit of their accuracy.

[87] Rose & Thistle no doubt provided some construction and maintenance work for the Schedule B Companies, but the Waltons bore the burden of establishing the validity and accuracy of the invoices which Rose & Thistle rendered for those services. Not only have they failed to do so, but one can only conclude from the refusal of the Waltons over the past nine months to provide back-up for the Rose & Thistle invoices – both to the Inspector and to their own cost consultants - that back-up for the full amounts of those invoices simply does not exist.

[88] I therefore accept the view of the Inspector expressed in its Fifth Report, and I find that the Respondents have not produced the documentation needed to perform a detailed reconciliation of the alleged construction and maintenance expenses to the cash transfers to determine whether those transfers related to construction and maintenance work that Rose & Thistle actually performed for Schedule B Companies.

[89] I make a similar finding in respect of the management fees charged by Rose & Thistle. Those fees were charged as a percentage of the construction costs incurred. Without an accounting of the accuracy of the construction costs actually incurred, an assessment of the reasonableness of the management fees is not possible. However, I will accept the reconciliation of management fees in the amount of $1 million reached by the Inspector with the Respondents for revenue-producing properties as reported in the Inspector’s Third Report.

[90] Taken together, those two findings mean that of the $30.6 million in invoices rendered by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies, the Respondents have established the validity and reasonableness of only $1 million of them – i.e the reconciliation relating to management fees for revenue-producing properties. The Respondents have failed to prove, on the balance of probabilities, that the remaining invoices covered work or services actually performed by Rose & Thistle for Schedule B Companies, notwithstanding that the information needed to do so remained in the possession and control of the Respondents.

B. Placing two mortgages on the Don Mills Road Schedule B Properties without the Applicants' consent

[91] On July 31 and August 1, 2013, two mortgages of $3 million each were registered against the Schedule B Properties at 1450 Don Mills Road and 1500 Don Mills Road. Notwithstanding that the agreements between the parties for these properties required that any decisions concerning the refinancing of the properties required the approval of Dr. Bernstein, Norma Walton did not tell Dr. Bernstein that the mortgages were placed on the properties. In his November 5 Reasons appointing a receiver, Newbould J. dealt with those mortgages:

[10] This was a matter raised at the outset and was one of the basis for my finding of oppression leading to the appointment of the Inspector. Mr. Reitan learned as a result of a title search on all properties obtained by him that mortgages of $3 million each were placed on 1450 Don Mills Road and 1500 Don Mills Road on July 31, 2013 and August 1, 2013. Dr. Bernstein had no knowledge of them and did not approve them as required by the agreements for those properties. At a meeting on September 27, 2013, Ms. Walton informed Mr. Reitan and Mr. Schonfeld that the Waltons were in control of the $6 million of mortgage proceeds (rather than the money being in the control of the owner companies), but refused to provide evidence of the existence of the $6 million. Ms. Walton stated that she would only provide further information regarding the two mortgages in a without prejudice mediation process. That statement alone indicates that Ms. Walton knew there was something untoward about these mortgages.

[11] In his first interim report, Mr. Schonfeld reported that the proceeds of the Don Mills mortgages were deposited into the Rose & Thistle account. Rose & Thistle transferred $3,330,000 to 28 of the 31 companies. The balance of the proceeds of the Don Mills mortgages totalling $2,161,172, were used for other purposes including the following:

1. $98,900 was paid to the Receiver General in respect of payroll tax;
2. $460,000 was deposited into Ms. Walton's personal account;
3. $353,000 was apparently used to repay a loan owed by Rose & Thistle in relation to Richmond Row Holdings Ltd.; and,

4. $154,600 was transferred electronically to an entity named Plexor Plastics Corp. and $181,950 transferred electronically to Rose and Thistle Properties Ltd. Ms. Walton advised the Inspector that she owns these entities with her husband.

[12] In her affidavit of October 31, 2013, Ms. Walton admits that $2.1 million was “diverted” and used outside the 31 projects. She admits it should not have been done without Dr. Bernstein’s consent. She offers excuses that do not justify what she did. What happened here, not to put too fine a point on it, was theft. It is little wonder that when first confronted with this situation, Ms. Walton said she would only talk about it in a without prejudice mediation.

[13] In her affidavit of October 4, 2013, Ms. Walton said she had made arrangements to discharge the $3 million mortgage on 1500 Don Mills Rd on October 21, 2013 and to wire money obtained from the mortgage on 1450 Don Mills Road into the Global Mills account (one of the 31 companies) by the same date. Why the money would not be put into the 1450 Don Mills account was not explained. In any event, no repayment of any of the diverted funds has occurred.

[46] I do not see the picture as now being less clear. To the contrary, it seems much clearer. I have referred to the concerns above in some detail. They include the following:

1. $2.1 million was improperly taken from the proceeds of the $6 million mortgages that never had Dr. Bernstein’s approval, $400,000 of which was taken by Ms. Walton into her personal bank account. Ms. Walton was well aware that this was wrong. She is a lawyer and the agreements were drawn in her office. Her initial reaction when confronted about the mortgages by Mr. Reitan, who at the time did not know what had happened to the mortgage proceeds, that she would only discuss it in a without prejudice mediation is a clear indication she knew what she did was wrong and contrary to Dr. Bernstein’s interests.

[92] The Respondents appealed the November 5 Order to the Court of Appeal; Norma Walton represented herself on the appeal. She submitted to the Court of Appeal that Newbould J. had erred in describing her involvement in the two unauthorized Don Mills mortgages as “theft”. In rejecting that argument the Court of Appeal stated:

We also do not accept that the application judge’s use of the word “theft” is necessarily a mischaracterization of some of the conduct of Ms. Walton. However, even if the word “theft” is considered inappropriate given its criminal connotation, Ms. Walton’s own affidavit acknowledges a knowing misappropriation of funds in respect of at least one property. Whatever one might choose to call that conduct, it provided powerful evidence that Dr. Bernstein's interests in the property were being unfairly prejudiced by the conduct of the Waltons. The application judge's use of the word "theft" does not, in our view, taint his factual findings or the manner in which he exercised his discretion.<sup>20</sup>

[93] In her Factum on these motions Ms. Walton stated that "there is no question that the borrowing of $6 million from the Don Mills properties was contrary to the contracts between Walton and Bernstein". However, she filed an affidavit in which she sought to correct "a fundamental misconception that has pervaded this litigation from the beginning concerning my knowledge of the payment of funds from the $6 million of mortgages." Ms. Walton deposed:

What I want to make clear, though, is that I never knew the sum of $2,161,172 had been ultimately paid out to me and my companies from that $6 million until after the Inspector completed his work. That complete lack of knowledge or intention was not made clear in the October 31 affidavit I filed and as such I am correcting that now...

In her affidavit Ms. Walton blamed the inadequacy of the Respondents' accounting software at the time, and she contended that at the time of the Don Mills Road mortgages she made "the assumption that the Bernstein-Walton properties were funding the Bernstein-Walton properties and the non-Bernstein properties were funding the non-Bernstein properties."

[94] For several reasons I do not accept Ms. Walton's explanation.

[95] First, Ms. Walton offered no new evidence on the point that was not before Newbould J. or the Court of Appeal, apart from her denial that she knew about the payments out.

[96] Second, Ms. Walton's contention that she had assumed the Bernstein properties were only funding Bernstein properties flies in the face of the overwhelming evidence presented by the Inspector that when most funds were advanced into the Schedule B Companies by the Applicants, the Respondents immediately transferred them out to Rose & Thistle and, in many cases, to Schedule C Companies. Throughout these proceedings Norma Walton has presented herself to the Court, through her affidavits and through her submissions, as the person who was in charge of the entire enterprise, whether it be the operation of Schedule B Companies, Rose & Thistle or the Schedule C Companies. In paragraph 38 of her June 21, 2014 affidavit, Ms. Walton clearly acknowledged that she was the one who had managed the jointly owned portfolio of Schedule B Properties. On her cross-examination Ms. Walton admitted that she had authorized the transfer of monies out of the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle, including by getting on the computer and making electronic transfers herself.<sup>21</sup>

[97] Her husband, Ronauld Walton, did not file an affidavit in these proceedings, nor did the Chief Financial Officer of the Rose & Thistle group of companies, Mario Bucci.<sup>22</sup> Their failure to file evidence is most significant, and I infer from that failure that neither Ronauld Walton nor Mario Bucci could offer evidence which would assist the Respondents in establishing a defence to the Applicants' allegations. Nor have they stepped forward to contend that the improper transfers of monies out of the Schedule B Companies were the result of directions or orders given by someone other than Norma Walton.

[98] Third, on her July 8, 2014 cross-examination Ms. Walton admitted that she was the one who had provided the Devry Smith Frank law firm with instructions on the two Don Mills Road mortgage transactions,<sup>23</sup> including directing that the proceeds from the Don Mills mortgages be paid into the Rose & Thistle bank account.<sup>24</sup> Those admissions support a finding, which I make, that Ms. Walton knowingly directed the proceeds from the two Don Mills mortgages to be paid into the Rose & Thistle bank account and that she did so knowing that such payments would be in breach of the obligations of the Waltons to Dr. Bernstein.

[99] Fourth, Ms. Walton failed to appreciate that in her efforts to remove the moniker of "theft" from her conduct in respect of the two $3 million mortgages, she only compounded the difficulty of her legal position vis-à-vis the Applicants. In her affidavit Ms. Walton deposed that "every single day transfers between our companies were occurring and there was no visibility with our accounting software as to each company's position vis-à-vis the transfers of funds". Yet, over the course of three years from September 24, 2010 until June 27, 2013, Ron and Norma Walton entered into a series of agreements with the Applicants which contained provisions representing that (i) monthly reports would be made - which implied that the accounting systems used by the Schedule B Companies would be adequate to provide accurate, detailed monthly accountings of the funds advanced to the Schedule B Companies – and (ii) that the Schedule B Company would only be used to purchase, renovate, lease, and refinance the specified property. Also, on an ongoing basis, Norma Walton was representing to Dr. Bernstein that she was able to calculate his financial position in Schedule B Property projects. For example, her April 15, 2012 email to Dr. Bernstein represented that "Spadina will net you $6.66 million plus accrued interest to repay your mortgages; plus $1.12 million to repay your capital; plus $754,000 to pay your profits, for a total of $8.534 million."

[100] If, as Ms. Walton now deposed, the Respondents' accounting system was inadequate to ascertain the position of each Schedule B Company vis-à-vis the transfers of funds, then by entering into a series of agreements with the Applicants containing those representations, and by

making such specific representations about financial returns in her periodic updates to Dr. Bernstein, Norma Walton would have engaged in a pattern of deceitful misrepresentation leading the Applicants to believe that the Respondents knew what was happening with the monies advanced, when they did not because of the lack of visibility within their accounting system. In trying to concoct an implausible excuse for her conduct concerning the two Don Mills mortgages, Norma Walton ended up damning her own position.

[101] Fifth, as part of the Don Mills Road mortgage transaction documents Ms. Walton falsely certified that only she and her husband were the shareholders of Global Mills Inc. In fact Dr. Bernstein's company, DBDC Global Mills Ltd., was a 50% shareholder. Ms. Walton testified that Dr. Bernstein had instructed her not to disclose his shareholding interest in Schedule B Companies.<sup>25</sup> Ms. Walton produced no documents to support that allegation,<sup>26</sup> and I reject it.

[102] Sixth, in paragraph 101 of her Factum Ms. Walton submitted, in respect of the two $3 million Don Mills mortgages, that "there was no attempt to hide this and everything was completely transparent on the books and records of our companies. The Inspector found it easy to trace exactly what had happened to this money given that transparency." That was a breathtaking statement by Ms. Walton, and it demonstrated her continued willingness to distort the truth. In fact, Ms. Walton had given no prior notice to Dr. Bernstein about her intention to place the two mortgages on the Don Mills properties. She hid that transaction from Dr. Bernstein. There was no transparency. The transaction only came to light as a result of Mr. Reitan's searches of title as part of a larger concern by the Applicants over the Respondents' lack of transparency about what they were doing with the Applicants' funds. Even then, the true facts about the two mortgage transactions did not emerge until Ms. Walton was compelled to disclose them in the early stages of this proceeding. For Ms. Walton to now attempt to spin those facts in her favour shows her complete lack of understanding about what it means to tell the truth. There really is no other way to put the matter.

[103] Her distortion of the facts in respect of the Don Mills Road mortgages echoed her conduct which I described in a June 20, 2014 decision regarding the dispute between two mortgagees on 875 and 887 Queen Street East. I found that Norma Walton had materially misrepresented the true state of affairs to one of the mortgagees, RioCan:

Norma Walton's representation that the lender had deposited the certified cheque - a representation which was re-transmitted to RioCan with the intention that RioCan rely upon it - was misleading in a very material respect. Why? Because the lender,

Woodgreen, which had deposited the cheque, had immediately returned the funds to Red Door Lands, ostensibly taking the position that its deposit of the cheque had not constituted an acceptance of payment against principal of the mortgage. That sequence of events can be gleaned from the communications which had flowed back and forth between Walton and Kesten about which RioCan knew nothing.<sup>27</sup>

[104] In sum, I do not accept Ms. Walton's continued protestations that she had a complete lack of knowledge that funds from the two $3 million mortgages on the Don Mills Road properties had been misappropriated to the use of Walton and her companies. The voluminous evidence placed before me on this motion leads me to have absolutely no doubt that Norma Walton not only knew, in detail, what was taking place with the transfer of funds from those two mortgages, but that those transfers took place at the direction of, and under the control of, Norma Walton. Norma Walton knowingly put in place the two Don Mills Road mortgages of $3 million each without the required approval of Dr. Bernstein and she knowingly misappropriated some of the proceeds of those mortgages to her own personal use and the use of companies which she owned, but in which Dr. Bernstein had no ownership interest.

[105] Unfortunately, Ms. Walton's continued efforts to repair her reputation in respect of the Don Mills Road mortgage transactions by distorting the truth makes it clear to me that it will never be possible to secure from her a true accounting of what happened to the funds advanced by the Applicants.

VI. Issues concerning the Waltons using the Applicants' funds for Schedule C Properties

[106] The Applicants seek relief against what are called the Schedule C Properties - i.e. properties owned by, or controlled by, Ron and Norma Walton, usually through a company in which Dr. Bernstein had no ownership interest. At the hearing the Respondents disputed including some of the properties in the Applicants' list of Schedule C Properties, contending that they did not own them. I will address that issue in Section XI.B of these Reasons. Suffice it to say, at this point of time, that the reason the Applicants included a property in the list of Schedule C Properties against which they sought relief was because the Rose & Thistle website represented that the property was owned by the Waltons or Rose & Thistle.

[107] In its Fourth Report the Inspector identified seven properties owned by Walton Schedule C Companies for which it could ascertain that funds transferred from a Schedule B Company to Rose & Thistle were transferred, in turn, to the Schedule C Company to acquire the property. Froese addressed the Inspector's findings in his report. Froese's high level comment was:

We reviewed the tracing performed by the Inspector and agree that some funds from the applicants can be traced through the Rose & Thistle clearing account to Schedule C Companies and that these funds were used for the purchase of properties. However, the tracing performed by the Inspector does not address other funds received by the Schedule C Companies and transferred to Rose & Thistle or transferred through Rose & Thistle to Schedule B Companies.

The net result is that, in relation to the seven properties, approximately $2 million of funds flowed from Dr. Bernstein through the Rose & Thistle clearing account to the Schedule C Company account, where the funds were available at the time the properties were purchased. It should be noted that no funds trace to the purchase of the properties owned by Academy Lands and Front Church, and that less funds trace to the College Lane property than are determined by the Inspector as a result of co-mingling of funds.

I shall consider Froese's comments on the analysis performed by the Inspector for specific properties below.

[108] Mr. Reitan, in his affidavit sworn June 26, 2014, deposed that the following amounts of the Applicants' funds were used to purchase or refinance some of the Schedule C Properties:

- (i) $330,750 for the purchase of 14 College Street and $987,165 for the refinancing of 14 College Street;
- (ii) $1.032 million for the purchase of 3270 American Drive;
- (iii) $1.6 million for the purchase of 2454 Bayview Avenue;
- (iv) $937,000 for the purchase of 346E Jarvis Street<sup>28</sup> and the repayment of Dr. Bernstein's mortgage on 346F Jarvis Street;
- (v) $2.337 million for the purchase of 44 Park Lane Circle, the personal mansion of Norma and Ronauld Walton;
- (vi) $221,000 for the purchase of 2 Kelvin Street and $115,950 for the purchase of 0 Luttrell Avenue; and,
- (vii) $371,200 for the purchase of 26 Gerrard Street East.

A. 14 College Street

Inspector

[109] College Lane Ltd. was a Walton Schedule C Company. On July 5, 2011, College Lane purchased 14 College Street, Toronto, for $5.6 million, financed largely by a mortgage in the amount of $5.5 million. The Inspector conducted two tracing analyses on this property: the first focused on the acquisition of the property in July, 2011, and the second dealt with the discharge of a mortgage on July 4, 2012.

[110] In its Fourth Report the Inspector reported that on June 30, 2011, five days prior to the acquisition of 14 College Street, the opening balance in the Rose & Thistle account was $18,266. The Inspector reported that the Applicants made equity or mortgage advances to several Schedule B Companies shortly before that date which were quickly followed by transfers from the Schedule B Companies' accounts to the Rose & Thistle account: (i) $220,650 on June 30 from Bannockburn; (ii) $223,150 on June 30 from Twin Dragons; (iii) $91,350 from Riverdale; and (iv) $56,550 from Wynford Professional Center Limited. The Inspector also noted that on June 30, 2011, $216,250 was transferred from two Walton Companies to Rose & Thistle, and on June 30, 2011, several transfers out occurred to various Schedule B Companies and Walton Companies from Rose & Thistle. The Inspector reported that it had traced $330,750 of the Applicants funds into the purchase of the College Lane property on July 5, 2011.

[111] In its April 25 Supplement to the Fourth Report the Inspector reported on its further analysis for this property which led it to conclude that approximately $983,475, primarily sourced from funds paid to Schedule B Companies by the Applicants (Donalda Developments Ltd. and Fraser Properties Corp.), were transferred to Rose & Thistle and then forwarded to College Lane which, in turn, used the funds to discharge a mortgage which had been granted to Windsor Bancorp on July 4, 2012.

Froese

[112] In respect of Inspector's report that it had traced $330,750 of the Applicants funds into the purchase of the College Lane property, Froese stated:

The co-mingling of Schedule C Company funds and Schedule B Company funds does not permit a direct tracing of the $330,750 to College Lane, although a portion is traceable, depending on the assumptions applied to the tracing. (emphasis added)

I accept the Inspector's analysis on this issue. Although there was co-mingling in Rose & Thistle at the time of funds from Schedule B and C Companies, the vast majority of the funds had originated with Schedule B Companies which the Inspector could trace to specific advances of the Applicants' funds.

[113] Froese stated, in respect of the Inspector's report that $983,475 of Applicants' funds had been transferred to College Lane, that a third-party financing of $715,650 partially offset that amount and that further post-acquisition (July 5, 2011) transfers between College Lane and Rose & Thistle resulted in a net balance of $1,070,536 owing from College Lane to Rose & Thistle as at December 31, 2013:

In our view the $1,070,536 net amount is the appropriate amount owing to Rose & Thistle from Academy Lands (sic). This includes funds co-mingled in the Rose & Thistle clearing account, some of which were funds deposited from Dr. Bernstein to Schedule B Companies.

As I will discuss below, I do not accept giving precedence to the post-acquisition net transfer state of accounts advocated by Froese.

B. 3270 American Drive (United Empire Lands)

Inspector

[114] On March 11, 2013, United Empire Lands, a Walton Schedule C Company, purchased 3270 American Drive, Toronto, for $6.7 million, with mortgages totaling $5.67 million registered against title.

[115] The Inspector reported that funds totaling approximately $1.032 million, primarily sourced from funds advanced by the Applicants to a Schedule B Company – West Mall Holdings Ltd. - were transferred to the Rose & Thistle account on March 8, 2013 and, that same day, transferred to United Empire Lands. Those funds could be tied to a $1.649 million March 7 Applicants' equity investment in West Mall which was transferred in three installments on March 7 and 8 to the Rose & Thistle account. One of those installments was the $1.032 million transferred on March 8 from Rose & Thistle to United Empire Lands.

Froese

[116] In his report Froese stated:

The Inspector identified a March 8, 2013 transfer of $1,032,000 from West Mall Holdings Ltd. to Rose & Thistle that he concluded was sourced from the Applicants funds. On the same day, a transfer of $1,032,000 of funds from Rose & Thistle to United Empire Lands Ltd. provided the funds to United Empire to close the purchase of the 3270 American Drive property on March 11, 2013.

We do not disagree with this analysis. However, it does not take into account funds received from Christine DeJong Medical Professional Corporation for an investment in United Empire that were used in part to fund Schedule B Companies and which were being repaid to United Empire through the $1,032,000 transfer. (emphasis added)

Christine DeJong brought her own cross-motion and filed an affidavit. She deposed that she thought the payments she was making to United Empire Lands would be used to acquire the American Drive property.

[117] Froese also stated in his report:

Based on the above information, United Empire funds of $706,850 were transferred to Rose & Thistle and used in part to fund Schedule B Companies. Schedule B funds of $1,046,000 were transferred through Rose & Thistle to United Empire, in part as repayment of the $706,850.

C. 2454 Bayview Drive (Academy Lands Ltd.)

Inspector

[118] Academy Lands Ltd., a Walton Schedule C Company, purchased property at 2454 Bayview Avenue, Toronto, on December 21, 2011 for $8 million, with a charge in the amount of $6.2 million registered in favour of Business Development Bank of Canada. Accordingly, $1.8 million had to be otherwise financed in order to acquire the Bayview property.

[119] The Inspector reported that on December 12, 2011, the amount of $1.6 million was transferred from the Rose & Thistle Account to Academy Lands.

[120] A week earlier, on December 6, 2011, the closing balance in the Rose & Thistle Account had been only $97,880. The Inspector reported that on December 5, 2011, the Applicants paid into the account of Royal Agincourt Company, a Schedule B Company, an equity investment in the amount of $1.782 million. Between December 5 and December 13, 2011, the amount of $1.73 million was transferred out of that account into the Rose & Thistle bank account. On December 8, 2011, the Applicants made a mortgage advance of $706,050 to Tisdale Mews Inc., another Schedule B Company, which, on the same day, was transferred from that bank account to the Rose & Thistle bank account.

[121] The Inspector expressed the view that the transfers from the Royal Agincourt account and the mortgage advance from the Tisdale Mews account to Rose & Thistle were the primary sources of the funds for the transfer of $1.6 million to Academy Lands on December 12 which, in turn, funded the acquisition of 2454 Bayview on December 21, 2011.

Froese

[122] Froese made several comments about the Inspector's analysis. First, Froese stated:

We agree that $1.6 million and $110,350 traced to Academy Lands. However, these funds were fully returned to Rose & Thistle during the period of the Inspector's analysis in the following two days. This is an example of a "snapshot" tracing being accurate in and of itself but not reflecting relevant transactions within several days of the period selected by the Inspector. (emphasis added)

Froese concluded: “Accordingly Academy Lands did not retain any funds from Dr. Bernstein in December 2011 when it purchased 2454 Bayview.”

[123] I am not prepared to accept that statement. Gaps in the evidence do not permit the making of such a forceful assertion. Let me explain why.

[124] A review of the Academy Lands bank account statement for the month of December, 2011 certainly shows that the December 12 “transfer in” of $1.6 million from Rose & Thistle was the main source of the $1.986 million balance which existed on December 20, the day before the acquisition of the Bayview property. The $1.986 million was withdrawn by way of a certified cheque on December 20. The next day – the day of closing - an identical amount was deposited “at the counter” back into the Academy Lands account. The identity of amounts of the December 20 withdrawal and December 21 deposit back-in would support an inference, which I draw, that the same money withdrawn on December 20 was re-deposited the following day into the Academy Lands account.

[125] On December 21 – the day of closing - there was a transfer of $322,800 from the Academy Lands account to the Rose & Thistle account. Unfortunately, neither the Inspector’s report nor the Froese report investigated the specific use of those funds. The Froese Report did attach the Rose & Thistle bank statement which showed that the $322,800 deposit was the source for over a dozen payments of various amounts over the course of that day which reduced the account’s balance to just slightly more than $30,000. I was not pointed to evidence which would explain those various transfers out of the Rose & Thistle account, specifically whether they had anything to do with payments made on the closing of the purchase of the Bayview property.

[126] Froese also stated that they had been informed that the vendor of the Bayview property, Dibri Inc., had provided $1.75 million of financing to Academy Lands in an unregistered vendor take-back mortgage that was not registered until 2014: “As a result, little or no funds were required to close the purchase of the property.” On this point, I have reviewed Exhibit 2 to the Froese Report. It does not contain a statement of adjustments for the closing of the acquisition of Academy Lands and the copy of the charge is obviously a mere draft. The other closing documents contained in Exhibit 2 did not refer to a vendor take back mortgage.

D. 346 Jarvis, Unit E (1780355 Ontario Inc.)

Inspector

[127] The tracing analysis performed by the Inspector in its Fourth Report traced parts of two April 15, 2013 advances by the Applicants – $1.286 million into Dewhurst and $1.452 million into Eddystone – into the bank account of Rose & Thistle ($641,500 and $866,700 respectively).

The Inspector reported that transfers to Schedule C Companies and Ms. Walton from Rose & Thistle around that time amounted to $1.194 million consisting of $937,000 to 1780355 Ontario, $111,550 to Plexor Plastics (a Walton company) and $110,000 to Norma Walton.

[128] The Inspector reported that shortly after the transfers totaling $937,000, Norma and Ron Walton purchased a property at 346E Jarvis, Toronto, using 1780355 Ontario Inc.

Froese

[129] Froese stated that he agreed with the Inspector that $937,000 traced through the Rose & Thistle clearing account to 1780355 Ontario. Froese stated that as of December 31, 2013 the net amount owing to Rose & Thistle by 1780355 Ontario was $496,897. That led Froese to state:

In summary, we agree with the Inspector's tracing of $937,000 of Dr. Bernstein's funds through Schedule B Company accounts to the Rose & Thistle clearing account and to 178 Inc. In our view, however, the $496,897 net amount owing from 178 Inc. to Rose & Thistle is the appropriate amount to consider owing to Rose & Thistle from 178 Inc. (emphasis added)

E. 44 Park Lane Circle

Inspector

[130] The Waltons own a large mansion in the Bridle Path area of Toronto on 44 Park Lane Circle which they acquired on June 26, 2012 for $10.5 million. Two mortgages totaling $8 million were registered against title that day.

[131] On June 25, 2012, Rose & Thistle transferred $2,584,850 into Ms. Walton's personal account and that day she transferred $2.5 million to acquire 44 Park Lane Circle. The $2,584,850 transfer was largely sourced from (i) a June 15 equity investment by the Applicants of $2,320,963 into Red Door Developments (875 Queen St. East) which was transferred that same day to Rose & Thistle and (ii) a June 25 $675,000 equity investment made by the Applicants in respect of 1450 Don Mills which was deposited directly into the Rose & Thistle account.<sup>29</sup>

[132] Froese did not dispute the Inspector's analysis concerning the use of the Applicants' advance to Red Door Developments; Froese did not address the advance to 1450 Don Mills.

<sup>29</sup> On June 25, 2012, two of the deposits made into the Rose & Thistle bank account were for $675,000 and $1.662 million; they were followed immediately by a transfer out of $2.337 million.

Evidence of Ms. Walton about the acquisition of the property

[133] In her June 21, 2014 affidavit, Ms. Walton explained how she and her husband came to own the property at 44 Park Lane Circle. She deposed:

We purchased the 6.2 acre property at 44 Park Lane Circle in June 2012 for $10.5 million with the intention of making money on the property, similar to our last house we bought at 92 Truman<sup>30</sup> and similar to the commercial properties we purchase on a regular basis. It was never our intention to remain in the residence long-term, and we lived there with our four children through major renovations to save living costs and expenses.

Looking at the marketing brochure prepared by a realtor retained by the Respondents for a potential sale of 44 Park Lane Circle – Exhibit SS to Ms. Walton’s June 21, 2014 affidavit – it is difficult to be moved by Ms. Walton’s protestations of the hardship of living through renovations. The pictures of the house show a palatial mansion finished to the highest standards with only the best of luxury amenities.

[134] Ms. Walton candidly admitted that she and her husband had used some of the money provided by Dr. Bernstein for the 875 Queen Street East property to acquire their residence at 44 Park Lane Circle:

We used the proceeds of sale provided by Dr. Bernstein to us when he bought into our 875 Queen Street property. We had a cost base of $6.65 million and he bought in at a price of $9.5 million. The $2.215 million he invested to purchase 50% of the shares in 875 Queen Street East was used by us to fund the purchase of 44 Park Lane Circle, as this money was due to us, such money representing the equity we had created in the property and disclosed to Dr. Bernstein prior to his purchase. This money was not to be used to complete the Queen Street project as it was part of the purchase price for Dr. Bernstein to buy in.

As Ms. Walton clarified in her July 3, 2014 affidavit, they had invited Dr. Bernstein to buy into that project “many months after we had contracted to buy” the property, not after they had actually bought the property. In fact, as her June 8, 2012 email to Dr. Bernstein disclosed, Ms. Walton only had the property under “conditional contract” at the time she solicited an investment from him.

[135] In its Third Report dated January 15, 2014, the Inspector set out the explanation it had received from Walton for the 875/887 Queen Street East transaction:

From June 15 to 25, 2012, Rose & Thistle transferred the $2.3 million paid by Dr. Bernstein to itself and established an inter-company receivable due from Rose & Thistle to Red Door in that amount. Ms. Walton subsequently delivered an invoice dated June 30, 2012... that purported to charge fees to Red Door in the amount of approximately $2.1 million effectively offsetting the inter-company debt. Ms. Walton subsequently advised the Inspector that the purpose of the transaction was to adjust her equity to draw and the agreed-upon increase in value between the time she purchased the company and Dr. Bernstein's buy-in. An adjustment to Ms. Walton's equity account on the books of the company has been recommended by the company's external accountant. The Inspector questioned the propriety of Rose & Thistle delivering an invoice purportedly charging fees as a mechanism to reflect a distribution of equity to a shareholder. Upon being challenged by the Inspector, Ms. Walton reversed the invoice and reinstated the receivable due from Rose & Thistle. In addition, an increase was recorded to Ms. Walton's equity on the balance sheet adding approximately $2.2 million as a fair market value adjustment. The Inspector notes that paragraph 13 of the agreement between the parties provides that equity is to be distributed to the shareholders only after the property is developed and sold. The receivable due from Rose & Thistle remains outstanding and Ms. Walton has yet to explain the basis upon which Rose & Thistle removed cash from this company to create the receivable in the first place.

[136] I do not accept Ms. Walton's contention that they were entitled to use Dr. Bernstein's equity contribution to 875 Queen Street East to fund the acquisition of their Park Lane Circle residence. Her explanation does not accord with the representations which were made in the June 25, 2012 agreement between Norma Walton and Ron Walton, on the one part, and Dr. Bernstein, on the other, for the Queen Street East properties. Attached to that June 25, 2012 agreement was a table setting out the capital required for the project. The table recorded total capital required of $11.64 million. Included in that required capital was $2.215 million for "development monies invested to date". The chart represented that three sources of funds would be used to satisfy the required capital: (i) a $7 million mortgage; (ii) $2.32 million from Dr. Bernstein; and, (iii) $2.32 million from Ron and Norma Walton.

[137] In her evidence, Ms. Walton seemed to suggest that the reference to the required capital of $2.215 million for "development monies invested to date" somehow signaled to Dr. Bernstein that when he signed the agreement he knew, or should have known, that the Waltons would extract some "earned equity" from the project. Ms. Walton canvassed this point with Dr. Bernstein on her cross-examination of him which led to the following exchange:

Q. 1811. Ms. Walton: I'm going to suggest to you that this email, coupled with this statement, shows that your buy-in to the Queen Street property was at a price that was higher than the cost base because of the work that the Walton Group had done on the property in the two years prior that they had it under contract?

A. Dr. Bernstein: My agreement to purchase in was at the cost of purchasing the properties and the cost out-of-pocket of monies spent or to be spent to get to the closing. That is what it was for.

Q. 1812: Dr. Bernstein, I know you're saying that now, but did you ever say, "Norma, I like the project, but I want to be in at the purchase price and I don't want to pay any development monies of 2.215 million?"

A: No, because I took this to say that you spent $2.215 million in bringing the property to where it was.

Q. 1813: Did you do any due diligence on that 2.215 million?

A: I trusted you and your comments and your documentation that you spent that money.

Q. 1814: Okay, but you...

A: Did I ask you to verify it? No. Did I trust you? Yes, I did.

Q. 1815: So you bought into the property understanding that there was already $2.215 million of value inherent in the purchase price?

A. Absolutely not. I bought into the property because it says here you spent $2.215 million to that point or that will have been spent with the closing, along with legal fees and land transfer tax, municipal and Ontario land transfer tax and other fees and disbursements of $65,000. That's what I bought into.

Q. 1817: Let me rephrase. Are you unhappy that you agreed to buy in at nine and a half million dollars?

A: If the circumstances are all in place... Are you asking me about today?

Q. 1818: Yes

A: From my understanding today, you didn't spend $2.215 million. From my understanding today, you did not secure Red Door to do anything and move value. From my understanding today, what you told me here is not true.

[138] Dr. Bernstein testified that when he invested in the Queen Street East project he was not aware that he was not buying in at the original cost base of the property, as contended by Ms. Walton.<sup>31</sup> stipulated that “[T]he company will issue sufficient shares such that Bernstein has 2,320,963 and Walton has 2,320,963 voting shares of the same class”. Section 4 stipulated that Dr. Bernstein would receive shares issued from the company’s treasury, not acquire shares from the Waltons which were already issued and outstanding. Both Ron and Norma Walton are lawyers; I have no doubt that they understand the basics of corporate law.

[139] Section 4 of the Queen Street East agreement provided that Dr. Bernstein wished to own 50% of the shares in the companies, Red Door Developments Inc. and Red Door Lands Ltd., in exchange for providing 50% of "the equity required to complete the project". Section 4

[140] Section 7 of the agreement dealt with the equity contributions - Dr. Bernstein was required to provide his by June 20, 2012, and the Waltons were required to provide theirs “in a timely manner as required as the project is completed”.

[141] Section 15 of the agreement specifically dealt with the use of funds advanced to the Red Door Companies:

The Company will only be used to purchase, renovate and refinance the property at 875 and 887 Queen Street East, Toronto, Ontario or such other matters solely relating to the Project and the Property.

[142] As to the ability of the parties to extract their capital from the Queen Street East project, Section 13 stated:

Once the Project is substantially completed to the point that all of the Property has been sold, both parties will be paid out their capital plus profits and Walton will retain the company for potential future use.

[143] Norma Walton deposed in paragraph 51 of her June 21, 2014 affidavit that the money she and her husband had extracted out of the Red Door Companies following Dr. Bernstein’s advance of equity was money which “was due to us, such money representing the equity we had created in the property and disclosed to Dr. Bernstein prior to his purchase”. In her July 3, 2004 affidavit she contended that “the increase in value from the time we contracted to purchase to the time we invited Dr. Bernstein to partner with us was ours alone as we were the sole owners of the company at that time.” Those assertions are flatly contradicted by the plain language of the agreement with Dr. Bernstein to which Ron and Norma Walton put their signatures. Also, the plain language of the agreement flatly contradicted her statement that Dr. Bernstein’s “money was not to be used to complete the Queen Street project as it was part of the purchase price for Dr. Bernstein to buy in.”

[144] Moreover, in her June 8, 2012 email to Dr. Bernstein soliciting his investment in the property, Norma Walton made no mention of her intention to use his investment to fund the Waltons’ “extraction of equity” so that they could buy a home on Park Lane Circle.

[145] Based upon Norma Walton’s June 21, 2014 evidence, I can only conclude that when Norma and Ron Walton signed the June 25, 2012 agreement with Dr. Bernstein for the 875/887 Queen Street East project, they fully intended to use the funds advanced by Dr. Bernstein to fund, in part, their own acquisition that day of their 44 Park Lane Circle personal residence. They did not disclose to Dr. Bernstein their intended use of his funds. To the contrary, in the agreement they signed with him on June 25, 2012, they led Dr. Bernstein to believe that the funds he advanced would be used solely for the project at 875/887 Queen Street East and that neither he nor his co-venturers, Norma and Ron Walton, would be able to withdraw their capital from that project until it had been sold. By signing the agreement with Dr. Bernstein on June 25, 2012, and then proceeding immediately to appropriate the funds he advanced to their own use later that day to acquire their mansion at 44 Park Circle Park Lane Circle, Norma and Ron Walton deceived Dr. Bernstein and unlawfully misappropriated Dr. Bernstein's funds to their own personal use. In short, the Waltons defrauded Dr. Bernstein.

Evidence of Norma Walton about the ownership interests of others in 44 Park Lane Circle

[146] Ms. Walton deposed that she and her husband currently were in the process of severing the 44 Park Lane Circle property into two separate parcels. In her December 17, 2013 affidavit Ms. Walton deposed that the property was owned by her husband and herself and that no shareholders owned an interest in the property. However, on the net worth statement attached as Exhibit "MM" to her June 26, 2014 affidavit, Ms. Walton had divided the property into two parts – 44a and 44b – and listed $5.77 million in preferred shares invested in "44b" Park Lane Circle. On December 18, 2013 Newbould J. ordered that the Respondents could not deal with 44 Park Lane Circle without further order of the Court.

[147] Mr. Reitan deposed that Ms. Walton must have sworn false evidence on December 17, 2013, or the Waltons were in breach of Justice Newbould's order of December 18, 2013 or Exhibit MM to Ms. Walton's June 26, 2014 affidavit was false.

[148] Based upon a review of the entire record, I think the answer lies in a fourth explanation. In her evidence and at the hearing Ms. Walton went to considerable pains to state that she intended to take care of all of her creditors – except Dr. Bernstein – because she had promised to make good on their investments as preferred shareholders in various Schedule C Companies which no longer possessed any equity to pay their shareholders. Many of the affidavits and statements filed by the preferred shareholders stated that they had agreed with Ms. Walton that she could pay them from the proceeds of sale from other Walton properties, even though the Schedule C Corporations in which they had invested lacked any equity to pay them out as preferred shareholders. I conclude that Ms. Walton's reference in her net worth statement to $5.77 million of preferred shareholders in "44b" Park Lane Circle was her way of saying to the preferred shareholders that she would protect them out of the proceeds of the severed "44b" portion of the Park Lane Circle property once it was sold. That evidence demonstrates that if Ms. Walton thinks it fit to pay a creditor, she will work to do so; if she does not, she won't. In Ms. Walton's worldview, her discretion is absolute, and her creditors must abide by the exercise of her discretion and the preferences she accords certain creditors.

Renovations to 44 Park Lane Circle

[149] The evidence also disclosed that funds originating in a Schedule B Company, Tisdale Mews, were used to fund $268,104.57 in renovations to the Waltons' 44 Park Lane Circle home. Ms. Walton justified the use of those funds by stating that "Rose & Thistle funded 100% of the $268,104.57 purchases before any cheques were sent out of the Tisdale Mews account" and, overall, Rose & Thistle transferred more money to Tisdale Mews than it had received from that Schedule B Company. In his November 5 Reasons Newbould J. considered that evidence from Ms. Walton and concluded that "no reasonable explanation has been provided" for the use of the Tisdale Mews funds.

F. 2 Kelvin Street and 0 Luttrell Avenue

Inspector

[150] 6195 Cedar Street Ltd., a Walton Schedule C Company, purchased 2 Kelvin Street, Toronto, on April 17, 2012, for $1.8 million, with a mortgage in the amount of $1.44 million registered against title.

[151] The Inspector reported that funds totaling approximately $221,000, primarily sourced from funds paid by the Applicants to a Schedule B Company, were transferred to the Rose & Thistle account on April 17, 2012 and, in turn, transferred that day to Cedar. The opening balance in the Rose & Thistle account on April 17 was $10,285. A $700,000 equity investment made by the Applicants to Fraser Lands Ltd. that day was transferred out of that Schedule B Company's account to the Rose & Thistle account.

Froese

[152] Froese stated: "We agree with the Inspector that $221,000 traces through the Rose & Thistle clearing account to 6195 Cedar, with a limited amount of co-mingling in the clearing account in or around April 17, 2012."

Applicants' evidence

[153] Mr. Reitan deposed that the property at 0 Luttrell was adjacent to the one at 2 Kelvin Street. A Walton company, Bible Hill Holdings Ltd., purchased the Luttrell property on November 15, 2012. Norma Walton did not disclose the Respondents' ownership interest in that property in her affidavit sworn December 17, 2013; she only later admitted that ownership interest as a result of inquiries from Applicant's counsel. Mr. Reitan also deposed, in paragraph 164 of his June 26, 2014 affidavit, that up to $152,950 of a $318,392 November 13, 2012 contribution by Dr. Bernstein to Salmon River Properties Ltd. in respect of 0 Trent Avenue was transferred through the Rose & Thistle account to Bible Hill Holdings Ltd. to finance the acquisition of O Luttrell. Having reviewed the supporting documents filed by Reitan to reach that conclusion, I accept his analysis.

G. 26 Gerrard Street (Gerrard House Inc.)

Inspector

[154] Gerrard House Inc., a Schedule C Company, purchased 26 Gerrard Street, Toronto, on December 20, 2011, for $5.5 million, at which time two charges were registered totaling $4.95 million.

[155] The Inspector reported that it appeared that funds totaling approximately $371,200, primarily sourced from funds paid by the Applicants to the Schedule B Companies, were transferred to the Rose & Thistle account on December 20, 2011 and, that same day, were transferred to Gerrard House.

[156] The opening balance in the Rose & Thistle account on December 20 was $40,369. Most of three mortgage advances made by the Applicants that day to three Schedule B Companies were transferred to the Rose & Thistle account: $278,200 from Liberty Village Properties Ltd.; $39,900 from Riverdale; and, $120,400 from Wynford.

Froese

[157] Froese agreed with the Inspector that “$371,200 traces through the Rose & Thistle clearing account to Gerrard House, with a very limited amount of co-mingling in the clearing account on December 19 and 20, 2011.”

H. The Froese critique of the Inspector’s “snapshot” approach

[158] In its report Froese criticized the Inspector’s tracing analysis because it was a “snapshot” tracing which, while accurate in and of itself, did not reflect the history of other transfers into and out of Rose & Thistle and a Schedule C Company. Froese expressed the view that the determination of the amount owing to or from Rose & Thistle to a Schedule C Company should be based upon the net amount owing as at December 31, 2013.

[159] The Inspector responded to this criticism in its Fifth Report emphasizing that “the tracing charts at Appendix F are intended to provide a snapshot of activity at a particular point of time. Funds transferred to or from the relevant company outside of the time period are not captured.”

[160] Let me comment on two principles which guided Froese’s analysis – one implied; the other stated. First, Froese made no comment on the propriety of the Respondents’ pooling funds advanced by the Applicants with other Schedule B Company funds, Rose & Thistle funds, Schedule C Company funds, and amounts advanced by third party investors in respect of Schedule C Companies. Second, Froese was of the view that the appropriate way to approach the issue of who owed whom what involved looking at the state of the various net balance accounts amongst the Schedule B Companies, Rose & Thistle and Schedule C Companies at a particular point of time. In his report Froese frequently used December 31, 2013 as that point of time.

[161] While I understand the technical reasons why Froeses followed those principles when conducting his analysis, the principles did not take into account the critical feature of the context surrounding all of those inter-company transfers of the Applicants' funds – they should never have happened. The contracts between the Applicants and the Respondents contained provisions designed to ensure that funds advanced by the Applicants to a Schedule B Company did not leak out from that company's account and that third-party investment funds did not leak into the Schedule B Companies. The Waltons utterly ignored those contractual obligations, with several consequences:

- (i) Funds advanced by the Applicants to Schedule B Companies in fact ended up going to Walton-owned Schedule C Companies, a fact acknowledged by Froese;
- (ii) The pooling of the Applicants' funds with others by the Respondents has caused significant difficulties in ascertaining precisely what happened with all of the funds advanced by the Applicants. That difficulty was caused by the Respondents systematically ignoring their contractual obligations. The Respondents had complete control over all of the funds. The co-mingling of the Applicants' funds with others was a problem solely of the Waltons' making; and,
- (iii) To contend that one should look at the net balances owed between Rose & Thistle and a Schedule C Company at a more recent point of time, rather than focusing on transfers which made available Applicants' funds for Schedule C Companies to acquire properties, ignored the fact that the transfer of Schedule B Company funds to Schedule C Companies at times when a Schedule C property was acquired should never have happened in the first place and that "but for" the transfer of Applicants' funds to Schedule C Companies, the latter would not have been able to acquire the Schedule C Property.

In my view, for the Respondents to use an expert's report to argue that the Inspector's analysis of the tracing of Applicants' funds into Schedule C Companies lacked absolute precision does not help the Respondents' case at all. It amounted to nothing more than chipping away at the edges of inter-company transfers which the Waltons should never have made. It also reinforced the utter failure of the Waltons to discharge the onus on them of explaining precisely what had happened with the Applicants' funds. For the Waltons to be able to rely on net inter-company balances at, say December 31, 2013, in opposition to the Applicants' claims for relief against Schedule C Companies, they would have to demonstrate that all of the Applicants' funds which were transferred at an earlier point of time into a Schedule C Company to fund its acquisition of a property ultimately found their way back into the Schedule B Company from which they originated and were used only by that Schedule B Company. That the Respondents have not done, or even tried to do. As a result, I do not accept the opinion proffered by Froese that the better way of assessing transfers to Schedule C Companies is to ascertain the net balance owing by or to a Schedule C Company at some point of time long after the Applicants' funds had been made available to the Schedule C Company to acquire a property – a benefit to the Waltons and a detriment to Dr. Bernstein.

I. The “trending up” of transfers to the Schedule C Companies

[162] The Inspector performed an overall analysis of the net amounts transferred from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and from Rose & Thistle to Schedule C Companies during the period October, 2010 to December, 2013. The net amount transferred from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle was $23.68 million and the net amount transferred from Rose & Thistle to Schedule C Companies was $25.37 million. The Inspector stated, in its Fifth Report:

The Inspector's analysis shows a consistently increasing net transfer from the [Schedule B] Companies to Rose & Thistle. In other words, even if some amounts were transferred to the Companies by Rose & Thistle, these returns did not keep pace with the steady flow of funds from the Companies to Rose & Thistle and from Rose & Thistle to the Walton Companies.

[163] In its Fifth Report the Inspector included a chart and graph which compared the net amount of transfers from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle with the net amount of transfers from Rose & Thistle to Walton Companies for each month from October, 2010, when the Applicants made their first investment, to December, 2013. The Inspector reported:

The graph depicts the net amount transferred as at the end of each month. The graph indicates a steady trend upwards. That is, the net amount transferred from [Schedule B] Companies increased, on a month over month basis for most months. The transfers from Rose & Thistle to Walton Companies increased in most months in a similar ratio....

The timing and quantum of the transfers described above is not consistent with the Respondents' contention that the transfers to Rose & Thistle represent payment for, among other things, more than $20 million worth of construction work performed by or on behalf of Rose & Thistle for the benefit of the Companies.

If the transfers had been related to construction work, a substantial portion of the funds taken from the Companies would have to have been used to pay construction costs, including contractors (if the work was subcontracted) or suppliers and labor (if the work was performed by Rose & Thistle). Only the profit earned by Rose & Thistle on the construction would have been available for transfer to the Walton Companies. However, throughout the period examined, the amount transferred to the Walton Companies and the amount transferred from the Companies increased at approximately the same pace. In every month examined, the amounts transferred to the Walton Companies represented a significant percentage of the amount transferred from the Companies. There is no evidence that the Respondents had sufficient resources to fund both the transfers to the Walton Companies and the work shown on the invoices that they have proffered to justify those transfers.

J. Preferred Shareholders of some Schedule C Companies

[164] What evidence was filed on these motions to explain the sources of funding available to the Schedule C Companies other than the funds of the Applicants which were transferred by the Waltons out of the Schedule B Companies? Ms. Walton deposed that there was $14,107,876 of 42 “innocent third party investors’ money” in the Schedule C Companies consisting of preferred shareholders, common shareholders and debtors. A chart summarizing those investments - Exhibit MM to her June 21, 2014 affidavit - only recorded $7.7 million in investments and it did not provide any back-up documentation to verify the investments.

[165] Ms. Walton also filed affidavits or statements from 30 preferred shareholders in five Schedule C Companies: Front Church Properties, Academy Lands, The Rose & Thistle Group, Cecil Lighthouse and 1793530 Ontario. Each shareholder deposed to the “value” of his or her preferred shares (or in some cases loans) in Schedule C Companies. The particulars are set out in Appendix “B” to these Reasons.

[166] I am not prepared to accept that the “value” each shareholder attributed to his or her shares reflected that actual amount invested by the shareholder. Some of the affidavits strongly suggested that shareholders were including capital appreciation and accrued dividends or distributions in the “value” of their investments. For example, Christine DeJong deposed that she had advanced $716,906 to United Empire, a Schedule C Company, in January, 2013, and stated that the value of her shares, according to the Respondents, was now $992,750. However, taking that “value” evidence from preferred shareholders at its highest, it disclosed a “value” of $8,780,817 attributed by those shareholders to their investments in the five Schedule C Companies.

K. Summary of findings on transfers of funds to Schedule C Companies

[167] I accept, in large part, the tracing analysis performed by the Inspector on the Schedule C Companies described above. I find that in the instances identified by the Inspector, in a brief period of time the Waltons directed the transfer of funds advanced by the Applicants from a Schedule B Company to a Walton-owned Schedule C Company, through Rose & Thistle, and the Schedule C Company used those funds to purchase a property. In the result, I find that the following amounts of the Applicants’ funds were used to purchase or discharge encumbrances on Schedule C Properties:

- (i) 14 College Street: $1,314,225 ($330,750 + $983,475);

- (ii) 3270 American Drive: $1.032 million;
- (iii) 2454 Bayview: $1.6 million;
- (iv) 346E Jarvis St.: $937,000;
- (v) 44 Park Lane Circle: $2.5 million;
- (vi) 2 Kelvin Street: $221,000;
- (vii) 0 Trent: $152,900; and,
- (viii) 26 Gerrard Street: $371,200.

[168] I also accept the following conclusion of the Inspector:

[T]he Inspector has concluded that the Respondents used new equity invested in, and mortgage amounts advanced to, the [Schedule B] Companies by the Applicants to fund the ongoing operations of other Companies and the Walton Companies. Almost every time the Applicants advanced funds to one of the Companies, a significant portion of those funds was transferred to Rose & Thistle. In some instances, funds could be traced directly into a Walton Company. In other instances, funds could not be traced directly because the Applicants' funds were co-mingled with other funds in the Rose & Thistle account. However, the Inspector has concluded that the Applicants' investment in the Companies was a major source of funds for the Walton Companies.

C. Other issues concerning Schedule C Properties

C.1 Galloway Road

[169] Highland Creek Townes Inc., a Walton company, owned the property at 232 Galloway Road, Toronto. On May 18, 2011, Dr. Bernstein, through his company 368230 Ontario limited, advanced a mortgage loan to Highland Creek. The principal amount of the mortgage was $4.05 million, advanced in two tranches. The mortgage matured on June 30, 2012. It was guaranteed by Norma and Ron Walton.

[170] Mr. Reitan deposed that his review of the title for the property disclosed that Ms. Walton had caused the discharge of Dr. Bernstein's mortgage in August, 2012 notwithstanding that the full amount of the principal had not been repaid. There was no dispute that the discharge was done without Dr. Bernstein's knowledge, consent or approval. When this discharge was discovered, Dr. Bernstein pressed Ms. Walton to pay out his mortgage on Galloway. Dr. Bernstein emailed Ms. Walton on October 1, 2013, asking what she had done with the $6 million in mortgages on the Don Mills Road properties and he continued:

You promised to pay out the Galloway mortgage by September 30. I do require, and I did expect the funds. When can this be paid out?

[171] Ms. Walton's email response of the same date ignored that question and, instead, pressed Dr. Bernstein to stop his public litigation and move their dispute into "a private setting immediately". That prompted the following response from Dr. Bernstein:

Dear Norma;

And the $6M is located ____ ?? ____

And the Galloway mortgage is being paid out on ____ ?? ____

I cannot get answers asking you directly – what other options do I have?

[172] On his July 9, 2014 cross-examination Dr. Bernstein testified that he still had not been paid out on the Galloway mortgage.<sup>32</sup>

[173] Ms. Walton's unilateral discharge of Dr. Bernstein's mortgage on the Galloway property without the payment in full of the amount due under the mortgage provided another example of Ms. Walton's pattern of breaching her contracts with Dr. Bernstein, as well as a pattern of oppressive conduct by Norma and Ronald Walton, as directors and officers of corporations, against the interests of Dr. Bernstein as a corporate creditor.

C.2 30/30A Hazelton

[174] The Respondents seek court approval to sell 30 Hazelton, a Schedule C Property, to 1659770 Ontario Inc., the corporate profile for which lists Jennifer Coppin as the director and officer. George Crossman, a lawyer at Beard Winter LLP, deposed that in 2009 he had been involved in a real estate transaction in which Jennifer Coppin offered to purchase his client's condominium unit through 1659770 Ontario Inc. Ms. Coppin was charged criminally in respect of that transaction, it being alleged that she had altered the agreement of purchase and sale to inflate the purchase price to secure higher financing. Mr. Crossman deposed that he understood it was a term of Ms. Coppin's probation that she not engage in any further real estate dealings.

VII. Explanations Proffered by Ms. Walton for the Use of the Applicants' Funds

[175] Ms. Walton proffered several explanations for the Respondents' use of the Applicants' funds, some of which I have already considered. Nonetheless, this section will summarize and consider each proffered justification.

A. Dr. Bernstein was a silent partner and did not insist on the strict observance of the agreements

[176] A major theme of Ms. Walton's affidavits was that Dr. Bernstein wanted to be a silent partner with the result that over the years he did not insist upon strict compliance with the agreements' reporting obligations. That led Ms. Walton to contend in her factum: "Bernstein acquiesced to Walton managing the portfolio in Walton's sole discretion".

[177] The evidence did disclose that during the initial two years of the parties' business relationship, Dr. Bernstein appeared to be content with receiving only periodic reports from Ms. Walton or answers to specific questions which his accountants posed. As Dr. Bernstein stated on his cross-examination, "I just assumed you were following protocols for our agreements..."<sup>33</sup>

[178] By September, 2012 Dr. Bernstein and his accountants were beginning to ask more pointed questions, including requesting financial statements for the Schedule B Companies. By March, 2013, Dr. Bernstein was requiring the Respondents to secure his approval for payments over $50,000 from Schedule B Companies as stipulated by the agreements. In June, 2013 Mr. Reitan requested detailed information about Dr. Bernstein's investments and raised specific concerns with Ms. Walton. Although this course of conduct would prevent Dr. Bernstein from relying on the Respondents' failure to provide monthly reports in the early part of their relationship as an event of default under the agreements, Dr. Bernstein most certainly did not waive his entitlement to receive any reports under the agreements. When Dr. Bernstein began to request them, he was entitled to receive them.

[179] The evidence also disclosed that even in September, 2013, as the relationship between the parties was breaking down and Dr. Bernstein was becoming quite vocal in his demand for a proper accounting of his money, Norma Walton was not prepared to adhere to the terms of her agreements with Dr. Bernstein. Those agreements stipulated that no refinancing of a property would take place without his approval. On September 20, 2013, Ms. Walton emailed Dr. Bernstein advising that the $3.27 million mortgage on 140/150 Queen's Plate Drive was coming due at the end of the month and that she had arranged a new mortgage for $3.35 million which would close in early October. Ms. Walton had signed the term sheet for the replacement mortgage on September 18, 2013, without first securing Dr. Bernstein's approval. Dr. Bernstein emailed her on September 23 insisting that she comply with the terms of their agreement and obtain his approval for any decisions regarding refinancing before they were made. Ms. Walton's response was telling because it revealed her complete unwillingness to follow the contractual terms which bound her:

We are up against a deadline such that if we do not refinance, Carevest will call our loan. I have been working hard to arrange refinancing and initially we tried to get BDC on board but they won't provide funds without site plan approval. Hence I arranged for Stephen to provide the mortgage. I would assume that is agreeable given the alternative is calling the loan, no?

Even when Dr. Bernstein subsequently agreed to refinance on the basis of a new $3.27 million mortgage, Ms. Walton proceeded to put in place a mortgage for an increased amount, $3.35 million.<sup>34</sup> [180] From this I conclude that Ms. Walton was prepared to ignore not only the contractual language which bound her, but also the express instructions of her co-investor. Instead, Ms. Walton simply did as she saw fit irrespective of her legal obligations.

B. The pooling of funds was permissible or at least not wrongful

[181] Ms. Walton deposed that when she was managing the jointly-owned portfolio of companies, she used Rose & Thistle “as a clearinghouse account to smooth cash flow across the portfolio.” In its First Report the Inspector recorded the explanation Ms. Walton had provided for the pooling of funds:

Ms. Walton confirmed to the Inspector that equity contributions to, and income received by, the [Schedule B] Companies were centralized and co-mingled in the Rose & Thistle account, which Ms. Walton described as a “clearing house”. Ms. Walton provided the following explanations for this practice:

- (a) Since the Properties are at various stages of development, some are cash flow positive and others cash flow negative. The transfers to and from the Rose & Thistle account “smooth out” the cash flow of the companies; and,
- (b) Rose & Thistle does not bill for services that it provides on a regular basis and some transfers were in the nature of payments for services that have been provided but not yet invoiced.

[182] In its Fifth Report (July 1, 2014) the Inspector reported:

The Respondents provided the Applicants with a pro forma setting out the anticipated cost of completing planned development and/or construction on each project. The Applicants invested 50% of the budget shown on the pro forma but these funds were dispersed among the [Schedule B] Companies and Walton Companies. Accordingly, the funds invested by the Applicants in a Company did not remain available to that Company.

Since the Companies did not retain the amounts that the Applicants invested, almost every Company required outside funding in order to complete the work shown on the relevant pro forma. These funds appear to have been drawn in some cases (including those illustrated in Appendix F to the Fourth Report) from new equity investments and mortgage advances by the Applicants. In other words, new advances to one Company appear to have been used to fund the existing obligations of other Companies or Walton Companies.

[183] On his cross-examination Froese stated that the companies managed by the Respondents did not have any controls in place designed to prevent the co-mingling of funds or the movement of funds from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and on to Schedule C Companies. Froese stated that depending on the arrangement between the parties and the companies, you would expect controls to be in place if the arrangements called for that.<sup>35</sup>

[184] In its Fifth Report the Inspector discussed the consequences of the pooling or co-mingling of funds advanced to the Schedule B Companies by the Applicants:

The Inspector notes that the Respondents' position that they are owed funds by the [Schedule B] Companies is premised on the assumption that every Company is responsible for every other Company's debts to Rose & Thistle. The Respondents assert that if Company A owed Rose & Thistle $1 million and Company B had $1 million in its bank account, they were entitled to take payment from Company B for the debt owed by Company A. This is significant since the contract governing investment into each Company provided that the Respondents were to provide equity funding once the Applicants' equity investment was exhausted. The co-mingling of funds therefore had two important consequences: (i) the Applicants' equity investments were exhausted much more quickly because they were used to fund alleged obligations across the portfolio and not only to fund one Company; (ii) the Respondents were able to delay their own equity contributions by transferring funds from other Companies instead of injecting new equity into the relevant Company. (emphasis added)

[185] Notwithstanding the voluminous email correspondence from Ms. Walton to Dr. Bernstein reporting on the progress of projects, it was not until June 13, 2013 that she told him that the funds he was advancing to the Schedule B Companies were being pooled amongst those companies, transferred to Rose & Thistle and also transferred to Schedule C Companies, when she responded to Mr. Reitan's June 7, 2013 complaint letter.

[186] The pooling or co-mingling of funds was a critical breach of the obligations which Norma and Ron Walton owed to Dr. Bernstein under their agreements. In her factum Ms. Walton submitted: “It never occurred to Walton that Bernstein would object to the pooling of funds”. I completely reject that submission; it is not in the least credible. One would have thought that the “specific-purpose” clauses contained in each of the agreements for the Schedule B Companies which the Waltons – both lawyers – had signed over the course of three years would have provided Ms. Walton with good reason to think that Dr. Bernstein would object to the pooling of funds since such pooling contravened those agreements. Ms. Walton’s protestation of innocent, but mistaken, belief on this issue simply was not credible.

[187] In addition, based on the evidence adduced I find that:

- (i) The Applicants were not aware that the Respondents were withdrawing funds from the Schedule B Companies’ bank accounts for any purpose other than the costs of the associated property;
- (ii) The Applicants did not know that funds from Schedule B Companies were transferred or diverted to the Rose & Thistle “clearing house” bank account because the Respondents, in particular Ms. Walton, deliberately hid those transfers from the Applicants; and,
- (iii) The Waltons deliberately did not tell the Applicants that they were using funds advanced by the Applicants to Schedule B Companies for their own personal purposes and benefit and for the benefit of the Schedule C Companies which they owned or controlled.

C. Production of the general ledgers of the Schedule B Companies

[188] As an exhibit to her June 21, 2014 affidavit Ms. Walton produced the detailed general ledgers for each of the Schedule B Companies. She viewed the production of the general ledgers as amounting to a full accounting of the Applicants’ funds as previously ordered by this Court. It was not. Those general ledgers had been produced to the Inspector last October. They did not enable an analysis of the Applicants’ funds transferred from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle, and then to the Schedule C Companies, so they did not satisfy the Respondents’ obligation to provide a full accounting of how the Respondents had used the Applicants’ funds.

D. The Respondents previously had provided a full accounting

[189] Ms. Walton submitted that the Respondents had provided a full accounting of the use of the Applicants’ funds and sought a declaration to that effect. This was an argument which Ms. Walton had made on several other occasions, as summarized in my Reasons of May 20, 2014:

To date the respondents have failed to comply with orders of this Court requiring them to provide an accounting of monies received from the applicants. The trail starts with the October 25, 2013 order of Newbould J. where, at paragraph 10, he ordered “that the Respondents shall provide forthwith a full accounting of all monies received, disbursed, owed to and owed from the Schedule “B” Corporations and The Rose & Thistle Group Ltd. since September, 2010 to the present”.

In her affidavit sworn December 17, 2013, Walton deposed, in response to the applicants’ allegation that she had failed to provide a full accounting, that “I have provided all information/documentation to the Receiver/Manager”, and she proceeded to give some details, concluding: “The Receiver/Manager is in possession and control of all financial documents held by the Walton Group in relation to the Schedule B Companies, and all documents related to the Rose and Thistle Group have been provided to him.” In his endorsement made January 20, 2014, Newbould J. rejected Walton’s contention that the respondents had provided a full accounting. He concluded they had not, and he ordered:

Ms. Walton is to provide the accounting ordered in paragraph 10 of the order of October 25, 2013 no later than January 31, 2014. Delivering records to the Manager is not an accounting.

Notwithstanding that clear finding and further order by Newbould J., in her notice of motion dated March 31, 2014, Walton sought an order that the applicants “clarify what is meant by the term ‘a full accounting of all monies received, disbursed, owed to and owed from Schedule ‘B’ Corporations and The Rose and Thistle Group Ltd. since September 2010 to the present’ as found in the October 25, 2013 Order.” In her affidavit of that date Walton deposed:

I have heard the Applicants complain a number of times to the Court that I have not provided an accounting as ordered on October 25, 2013. I have sworn an affidavit wherein I explain what I provided by October 28, 2013 to fulfill this requirement.

As noted, back on January 31 Newbould J. held that the respondents had not delivered the ordered accounting and directed them to do so. They have not done so. Moreover, it is not for the applicants to explain the meaning of an order of this Court; that job falls to the judges of this Court. When Walton raised this point at a recent hearing before me, I informed her that a full accounting would involve explaining what had happened to every penny of the money invested by Dr. Bernstein with the respondents. That has not occurred, and that most serious failure by the respondents weighs heavily in considering what part, if any, of the net proceeds of the sale from the Gerrard Street Property should be made available to them for their personal use or benefit.<sup>36</sup>

[190] Finally, on this point, in his order dated November 1, 2014, Newbould J. directed the Respondents to pay the Inspector's fees. They failed to do so. In a March 21, 2014 Order Newbould J. directed the Inspector to examine the Respondents about their non-payment of fees. The Inspector commenced his examination of Norma Walton on April 11, 2014. Prior to the examination Ms. Walton had not produced documentation relating to her financial situation; at the examination Ms. Walton gave numerous undertakings to produce such documentation. As of the date of the Inspector's Fifth Report (July 1, 2014), Ms. Walton had fulfilled or partially fulfilled 8 of the 39 undertakings given at her examination. According to the Inspector, the remaining 31 undertakings remained entirely unsatisfied, including the important undertaking to provide copies of bank statements relating to the Walton Schedule C Companies. In its Fifth Report the Inspector stated that Ms. Walton had advised she would answer the balance of her undertakings once she had filed her evidence for the July 16 hearing. At the hearing I inquired whether Ms. Walton had delivered those outstanding undertaking answers. She had not.

E. The charts attached to the June 21, 2014 Norma Walton affidavit

[191] In paragraphs 10 through to 14 of her June 21, 2014 affidavit, Norma Walton attempted to account for the $23.68 million in net transfers from Schedule B Companies to the Rose & Thistle Group, and in paragraph 49(l) of her Factum Ms. Walton argued that "everything that was transferred from the jointly owned properties to Rose and Thistle had been accounted for as monies used by Rose and Thistle to purchase, renovate or manage the joint portfolio."

E.1 Construction work billed by Rose & Thistle

[192] The chart contained in paragraphs 11 and 13 of her affidavit, as well as Tab A to her Factum (which I will call the "Reconciliation Chart"), recorded that $8.5 million of construction work had been performed by Rose & Thistle for Schedule B Companies between January, 2011 and February, 2012, specifically for the Spadina, Eglinton, Wynford and Atlantic properties. Ms. Walton stated that she had prepared the Reconciliation Chart with the assistance of Mr. Bucci, the CFO of Rose & Thistle; she did not explain why Mr. Bucci had failed to provide any evidence in this proceeding, especially evidence which would provide an accounting of the Applicants' funds.

[193] Ms. Walton deposed that she was unable to complete the analysis for the construction work performed on projects after February, 2012 because she was still awaiting the reports prepared by her cost consultants. That explanation made no sense and I do not accept it. As described above, the cost consultants simply relied upon accounting summaries provided to them by Rose & Thistle. Put another way, the cost consultants merely used information already in the possession of Rose & Thistle to prepare their reports. It therefore makes no sense that Rose &

Thistle would be unable to use information already in its possession to explain the total amount of construction costs which it contended it had incurred on behalf of the Schedule B Companies.

[194] In her Factum Ms. Walton argued that Rose & Thistle was entitled to up to an additional $17.070 million for construction costs based on the cost consulting reports.<sup>37</sup> I give no credence whatsoever to that argument. On the contrary, I found earlier in these Reasons that the Respondents had failed to account for and to justify the amount of the construction costs invoiced by Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies.

E.2 Management fees

[195] Ms. Walton explained that $1.183 million of the net transfer could be explained by management fees which Rose & Thistle had billed to the Schedule B Companies. Earlier in these Reasons I accepted the reconciliation between the Inspector and the Respondents of $1 million in management fees.

E.3 Property maintenance costs

[196] Ms. Walton's Reconciliation Chart also recorded $2.58 million in property maintenance costs performed by Rose & Thistle. In the Supplement to its Fifth Report the Inspector stated:

Ms. Walton's chart includes property maintenance fees charged to the Properties. The Inspector understands that these costs represent costs incurred by Rose & Thistle on behalf of the [Schedule B] Companies with respect to maintenance of the various Properties. The Inspector has not been provided with back-up documentation in respect of these fees.

I find that the Respondents have not established, on a balance of probabilities, that they incurred such maintenance costs on behalf of Schedule B Companies.

E.4 Deposits paid by Rose & Thistle for Schedule B Properties

[197] The Reconciliation Chart also recorded $6.657 million in deposits paid by Rose & Thistle for the purchase of Schedule B Properties. The Inspector, in the Supplement to its Fifth Report, stated:

The Inspector understands that in some cases Dr. Bernstein funded the deposits by payments directly into the Rose & Thistle account. Accordingly, Ms. Walton appears to state that the Waltons funded their share of deposits on some properties by drawing funds out of other [Schedule B] Companies. These transfers do not appear to represent payment

Put simply, Ms. Walton's chart, if correct, appears to indicate that Dr. Bernstein funded his share of the listed deposits directly and the Walton's share of those deposits indirectly (since the Waltons used funds that Dr. Bernstein had previously contributed to another company).<sup>38</sup>

[198] Let me express my profound displeasure and frustration at the way the Waltons' "evidence" on this point was developed. Last year the Waltons were ordered to provide a full accounting of the funds advanced by Dr. Bernstein. They failed to do so, as was found by both Newbould J. and myself in earlier reasons. Yet, in her June 26, 2014 Affidavit and her Factum filed July 15, 2014, Ms. Walton, for the first time, argued, through her Reconciliation Chart that Rose & Thistle had paid for $6.657 million in deposits for Schedule B Properties for which accounting recognition previously had not been given. That spawned a flurry of responding submissions from other parties on the point, both before and after the hearing, ultimately culminating with Ms. Walton massaging a reply chart put in by the Applicants (Mr. Reitan's Schedule "E") to contend that the Waltons in fact had injected $8.933 million in equity into the Schedule B Companies, an assertion for which the Waltons had adduced no concrete, forensically verifiable evidence!

[199] That is no way in which to perform an accounting.

[200] Since last October the Waltons have been subject to an order of this Court requiring them to account. For eight months they ignored that order. Frankly, what appears on Ms. Walton's Reconciliation Chart should have been put before the Inspector last October so that proper consideration could have been given to the arguments set out in it. I am thoroughly unimpressed by Ms. Walton's last minute effort to "jam through" an accounting. Her breach of the previous accounting order, together with the last minute nature of her accounting attempt, combine to justify a high degree of skepticism towards the arguments embedded in the Reconciliation Chart.

[201] Returning to the property purchase deposits, I would observe that the "back-up" Ms. Walton provided for these deposits at Exhibit B to her June 26, 2014 affidavit in large part consisted of Rose & Thistle bank account statements, certain entries on which bore handwritten asterisks, unaccompanied by any other explanation. I infer that the asterisked entries corresponded with the deposits recorded on Schedule A to her Factum. Her Exhibit B also contained copies of a number of Rose & Thistle cheques, only some of which seemed to have anything to do with deposits for purchases of land. However, Ms. Walton failed to show how those payments made by Rose & Thistle were recorded on the books and records of Rose & Thistle and the relevant Schedule B Company, a most material omission in her argument.

[202] In any event, I do not accept Ms. Walton's argument on this point. In Appendix E to its Fourth Report the Inspector reported that for the period under review it had identified $78.42 million in transfers from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle and $54.739 million in transfers from Rose & Thistle to Schedule B Companies, for a net transfer of $23.68 million from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle. Ms. Walton contended, in her July 15, 2014 Factum, that the $23.68 million in net transfers from Schedule B Companies should be reduced by, or could be partially accounted for by, $6.657 million in deposits made by Rose & Thistle in respect of Schedule B Properties. According to her Reconciliation Chart, those deposits spanned the period from September, 2010 (Eglinton) to April, 2013 (620 Richmond). Had Rose & Thistle transferred to Schedule B Companies funds for deposits on Schedule B Properties – whether Bernstein funds or non-Bernstein funds - one reasonably would expect that those deposits would have been taken into account in the transfers from Rose & Thistle to Schedule B previously reported by the Inspector because the books and records of Rose & Thistle would have recorded such inter-company transfers. To take them into account again, as Ms. Walton seemed to argue, would amount to double-counting or, as put by the Inspector in the Supplement to his Fifth Report, it would mean that “Dr. Bernstein funded his share of the listed deposits directly and the Walton's share of those deposits indirectly (since the Waltons used funds that Dr. Bernstein had previously contributed to another company)”. In sum, I do not accept Ms. Walton's submission that deposits of $6.657 million should be recognized to reduce the net transfer amount due from Rose & Thistle to the Schedule B Companies as found by the Inspector.

E.5 Equity withdrawals

[203] The Reconciliation Chart also recorded $3.615 million representing a December 2011 and June, 2012 “Dr. Bernstein purchase from Walton in the schedule B” [Tisdale and 875 Queen Street East] of $1.4 million and $2.215 million respectively. Ms. Walton deposed that those amounts related to Dr. Bernstein “buying into a company after we had already owned the company for a period of time”. That “earned equity”, according to Ms. Walton, further reduced the net transfers from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle. I do not accept Ms. Walton's submission on that point. I will turn now to the Respondents' “earned equity” argument in which two properties figured prominently – the property at 875/887 Queen Street East held by Red Door Developments Inc. and Red Door Lands Inc. (which I discussed earlier in the context of 44 Park Lane Circle), as well as the Tisdale Mews property at 78 Tisdale Avenue.

875/887 Queen Street East

[204] In Section VI.E of these Reasons I rejected Ms. Walton's argument that she had been entitled to withdraw $2.32 million in “earned equity” from funds advanced by Dr. Bernstein for 875/887 Queen Street East and, instead, found that the Waltons had misappropriated to their own personal use on June 25, 2012 funds advanced by Dr. Bernstein to acquire their personal residence at 44 Park Circle Park Lane Circle and, by so doing, Norma and Ron Walton had deceived Dr. Bernstein and engaged in fraud.

78 Tisdale Avenue

[205] In his Third Report dated January 15, 2014, the Inspector set out the explanation it received from Ms. Walton for the Tisdale transaction:

In the case of Tisdale, Ms. Walton purchased the property for approximately $1.4 million. Rose & Thistle performed development work on the property before Dr. Bernstein invested in it. In the relevant agreement between the parties dated January 11, 2012... Dr. Bernstein bought 50% of the shares of Tisdale based on an agreed-upon value of approximately $6.7 million. Ms. Walton therefore had one half of that amount, approximately $3.35 million in equity in Tisdale immediately after Dr. Bernstein's investment. Rose & Thistle delivered an invoice to Tisdale dated January 1, 2012... that purported to charge fees to Tisdale in the amount of approximately $4.4 million. Ms. Walton subsequently advised the Inspector that the purpose of the transaction was to effectively adjust her equity to draw out the increase in value between the time she purchased the company and Dr. Bernstein's buy-in. An adjustment to Ms. Walton's equity account on the books of the company has been recommended by the company's external accountant. The Inspector questioned the propriety of Rose & Thistle delivering an invoice purportedly charging fees as a mechanism to reflect a distribution of equity to a shareholder. Upon being challenged by the Inspector, Ms. Walton reversed the invoice and an increase was recorded to Ms. Walton's equity on the balance sheet adding approximately $4.4 million as a fair market value adjustment. The Inspector understands that Ms. Walton relies upon this increase in her equity account as a basis to explain several expenses that she caused Tisdale to pay. The Inspector notes the paragraph 13 of the agreement between the parties provides that equity is to be distributed to the shareholders only after the property is developed and sold.

[206] I do not accept Ms. Walton's explanation that she was entitled to treat funds advanced by Dr. Bernstein for Tisdale as a return of equity to her. Again, the agreement the Waltons signed with Dr. Bernstein did not permit such conduct. Section 7(a) stated that Dr. Bernstein would provide $1.48 million of his 50% share of the joint $3.342 million equity investment upon signing, while section 7(b) stated that "Walton has already provided the bulk of their equity and they will provide another $191,000 in a timely manner as required as the Project is completed". Section 13 did not permit the payment out of capital until the project was "substantially completed". Consequently, the Waltons' extraction of some of the funds advanced by Dr. Bernstein on the basis that they were entitled to a return of capital or payment out of their equity was in breach of their clear contractual obligations to Dr. Bernstein. They had no right to do so.

[207] Further, as in the case of 875/887 Queen Street East, the Waltons did not inform Dr. Bernstein that they intended to treat some of his equity injection as a return of capital to them.<sup>39</sup> By failing to so inform Dr. Bernstein, at a time when they represented to Dr. Bernstein that no capital would be withdrawn until the substantial completion of the project, the Waltons deceived and defrauded Dr. Bernstein.

Comments by Froese on equity contributions

[208] In its report Froese stated:

Based on information attached to each Agreement, over the period from 2010 to 2013, expected funding available at the date of purchase of the Bernstein properties exceeded the funds required to purchase the properties by approximately $55.5 million. That is, the pro forma information showed that there was significant excess funding available to commence work on the projects. As well, Walton was to initially advance approximately $14.5 million as compared to the $75.2 million to be advanced by Dr. Bernstein as an equity investment (plus mortgage financing for certain properties).

The co-mingling of funds through the Rose & Thistle clearing account resulted in a portion of the $55.5 million of excess funding at the date of purchase to carry the properties without further funding requests of the shareholders, and also without the immediate need for Walton contributions.

As previously noted, the agreements between Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons contained clauses which provided that the Schedule B Company would “only be used to purchase, renovate and construct, and sell” the specified property or “such other matters solely relating to the Project and the Property.” While Froese’s comments about the co-mingling of funds reflected a theoretical view about how funds could be used, they ignored the specific provisions in each of the agreements between Bernstein and the Waltons about how the funds had to be used.

[209] Froese also stated:

This analysis supports the position of Norma Walton that Dr. Bernstein expected, or reasonably should have expected, there to be a significant disparity in the initial investment in the Bernstein properties, with Walton to fund future costs required to complete each project.

With respect, such an assertion fell outside the proper scope of the opinions which Froese was in a position to express, especially because there was no evidence to support such an assertion.

E.6 Conclusion

[210] In conclusion, I find that the Reconciliation Chart filed by Ms. Walton did not assist her in accounting for the net transfers from the Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle. At the end of the day, the Respondents have only justified an adjustment of $1 million to the Inspector's net transfer figure based upon the reconciliation of management fees reached with the Inspector.

F. It was the receivership which caused the Applicants financial harm

[211] On several occasions during this proceeding Ms. Walton has contended that it was the Applicants' decision to seek the appointment of receiver which caused them financial harm. She argued that had the Applicants allowed the Waltons to deal with the portfolio, everyone would have been financially happy. In her June 21, 2014 affidavit, Ms. Walton again stated that a valuation of the portfolio of Schedule B Properties the Respondents had commissioned from Colliers right after the receivership order was made showed an appraised value of the portfolio of $328.34 million. That appraisal was not placed before me in evidence; I am unable to comment upon it.

[212] Moreover, Ms. Walton's submission on this point ignored the simple fact that it was the conduct of the Respondents in breaching the agreements by co-mingling funds and applying some of the Applicants' funds for unintended purposes, including self-dealing in favour of the Respondents' personal interests, that lies at the root of the current situation. The receivership order was designed to mitigate the harm caused by the Respondents' wrongful conduct.

VIII. Analysis: Overview

[213] I intend to proceed with the analysis of the parties' claims by considering the groups or packages of relief sought by them. The relief sought by the Applicants has evolved since the service of their initial February Notice of Motion. Much of the relief requested by the Applicants at the July hearing originated in their Consolidated Notice of Cross-Motion/Notice of Motion dated February 14, 2014, which was originally returnable on March 5, 2014. For a variety of reasons that hearing was adjourned until this past July. In their June 13, 2014 Fresh as Amended Consolidated Notice of Motion, Notice of Cross-Motion and Notice of Return of Application the Applicants expanded the scope of the relief to include some not requested by the Applicants in their initial February Notice of Motion.

[214] At the hearing the Applicants amended and expanded the relief sought in two further respects. First, the Applicants advised that they had reached an understanding with the mortgagees of some of the Schedule C Properties, as a result of which they were amending the relief requested in respect of those properties. Second, the Applicants submitted a form of draft order which went through three iterations during the course of the hearing and which further expanded the relief they sought. Ms. Walton took issue with what she described as the “creeping” amendments the Applicants sought to make to their claims.

IX. Motion to amend the Notice of Application

[215] The Applicants sought an order granting them leave to issue and serve the Fresh as Amended Notice of Application attached to their June 13, 2014 Consolidated Notice of Motion. Ms. Walton submitted that it was inappropriate for Dr. Bernstein to continually seek to amend his application to claim ever-expanding relief. She submitted that apart from any “ancillary matters” flowing from the orders last year appointing the Inspector and the Manager, Dr. Bernstein should not be entitled to assert additional claims. Ms. Walton submitted:

This is Bernstein’s seventh proposed amendment to the application. He is not entitled to continue to amend the application every time he decides he wants something further from Walton. The proper route for him now is to come back through the receivership for anything he wants within the receivership, and to launch a statement of claim if he intends to sue for damages after the Schedule B accounting is completed. It is improper form to claim damages through the seventh amendment to an application when the relief originally sought has been finally determined.

[216] I do not accept Ms. Walton’s submission. The Respondents have ignored the October, 2013 Order to account. As a result, the Inspector had to expand the scope of its work, and only through the Inspector’s investigations did a clearer – albeit still incomplete - picture emerge about how the Respondents had dealt with the Applicants’ funds.

[217] As I read the Applicants’ proposed Fresh as Amended Notice of Application, they are making the amendments in light of the evidence which has emerged through the Inspector’s reports. That is a proper basis upon which to amend, and I therefore grant the Applicants leave to issue and serve their proposed Fresh as Amended Notice of Application.

X. Analysis: Relief involving Schedule B Companies/Properties and the Individual Respondents

A. The relief sought

The Applicants

[218] Both the Applicants and Ms. Walton sought relief in respect of the Schedule B Companies and Properties. On their part, the Applicants sought the following relief in their Notice of Motion in respect of the Schedule B Companies and against the Individual Respondents:

- (i) An order that the issued and outstanding shares in the Schedule “B” Companies held by the Waltons be cancelled where shareholder equity had not been contributed by them;
- (ii) An order for restitution and repayment to the Applicants by the Respondents in the amount of $78,420,418 for breach of contract, unlawful misappropriation and unjust enrichment;
- (iii) An order for restitution and repayment by the Respondents to the Applicants and/or the Schedule B Companies, as appropriate, in respect of the fees of Schonfeld Inc., in its capacity as Inspector and Manager in this proceeding, and of its counsel Goodmans LLP;
- (iv) An interim order directing the Respondents to disclose any agreements not heretofore disclosed to cross-collateralize any obligations of the Schedule B Companies, the Schedule C Properties or 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario; and,
- (v) An order that Schonfeld Inc. be appointed as Receiver over the Respondents, Norma Walton and Ronauld Walton, for the purpose of ensuring payment in accordance with any judgment of the Court in this proceeding.

[219] In the third iteration of the draft judgment and order filed by the Applicants at the July hearing, they sought orders granting the following additional relief:

- (i) the continuation of the Orders of Newbould J dated October 4, 2013, October 25, 2013, November 5, 2013, December 18, 2013 and March 21, 2014, except as modified by any order made by these Reasons;
- (ii) holding the Respondents jointly and severally liable for restitution payable to the Applicants in the amount of $78,420,418 for all funds diverted from the Schedule B Companies and payment to the Applicants of the balance of those funds not otherwise recovered by the Applicants from the sale of the Schedule B Properties;
- (iii) indemnification by the Respondents of the Schedule B Companies and Applicants for all principal amounts, plus interest, costs and penalties incurred by or on behalf of the Schedule B Companies, in respect of unauthorized mortgages registered on the Properties, with that amount to be fixed;
- (iv) indemnification by the Respondents of the Schedule B Companies and Applicants for all amounts due and owing to creditors and lien claimants of the Schedule B Properties and Companies, including costs, penalties and interest, of the Schedule B Companies, with that amount to be fixed;

- (v) declaring that the Applicants had priority over any unauthorized interests in the Schedule B Companies; and,
- (vi) allowing the Applicants to elect to treat funds advanced by them to the Schedule B Companies, or any of them, as shareholder loans for the purposes of enforcement of their remedies.

Ms. Walton

[220] On her part, Ms. Walton requested orders containing the following relief:

- (i) a declaration that the Respondents had provided a full accounting of Dr. Bernstein's invested funds in the Schedule B Companies in full satisfaction of the October 25, 2013 Order;
- (ii) removal of The Rose and Thistle Group Ltd. from the operation of paragraphs 3(b) and (c) of the October 25, 2013 Order; and,
- (iii) a determination by the Court, by way of the trial of an issue, of the amount of money due from the Schedule B Companies to The Rose and Thistle Group Ltd. for work done and not yet paid and an Order that the amount due be paid from sale proceeds of the Schedule B properties.

B. Analysis

B.1 Accounting

[221] I have found above that the Respondents have not provided the accounting mandated by this Court's October 25, 2013 Order.

[222] Ms. Walton sought to remove from the ambit of the October 25 Order the Respondent, The Rose & Thistle Group Ltd., on the basis that the company was owned jointly by her husband and herself and "no longer has any banking relationship with the Bernstein-Walton portfolio of properties." Since the Respondents have failed to provide the Court-ordered accounting, and since Rose & Thistle was the conduit through which funds of the Applicants were directed by the Waltons from the Schedule B Companies to Schedule C Companies, there is no basis to remove Rose & Thistle from the operation of paragraphs 3(b) and (c) of the October 25, 2013 Order. On the contrary, it is necessary that Rose & Thistle remain subject to that order so that tracing efforts can continue.

[223] Accordingly, I dismiss those portions of Ms. Walton's motion.

[224] The Applicants' request for an order that the Respondents disclose any cross-collateralization agreements not already disclosed is necessary for the proper performance of the accounting order, and I grant it.

B.2 Transfers between Rose & Thistle and Schedule B Companies

[225] I have found that of the $23.6 million in net transfers from Schedule B Companies to Rose & Thistle identified by the Inspector, the Respondents had only justified a reduction of $1 million in that number by reason of management fees billed. It follows that I dismiss Ms. Walton's audacious – but forensically unsupported – request for a trial of an issue of the amount of money the Schedule B Companies owed to Rose & Thistle. While in sports the best defence sometimes might be a good offence, that strategy does not work when parties who are subject to a court accounting order fail to comply with it. Ms. Walton seems to fail to appreciate the gravity of the situation in which she and her husband find themselves.

B.3 Restitution and damages

[226] The Applicants sought an order for restitution and repayment to them by the Respondents in the amount of $78,420,418 for breach of contract, unlawful misappropriation and unjust enrichment, which they translated in their draft order into a request for an order that the Respondents were jointly and severally liable for restitution payable to the Applicants in the amount of $78,420,418 for all funds diverted from the Schedule B Companies and that they pay to the Applicants the balance of those funds not otherwise recovered by the Applicants from the sale of the Schedule B Properties

[227] I am not prepared to grant such an order at this time because I am not satisfied that adequate argument was placed before the Court on this issue. Applying the different measures of damages for breach of contract, unlawful misappropriation and unjust enrichment could result in quite different damage awards on the facts of this case. I think the Court requires more assistance on this point than was provided by the parties at this hearing, and I therefore defer to a later date consideration of this part of the Applicants' claim. For the same reason I am not prepared to grant, at this time, the Applicants' related request for an order that the Respondents indemnify the Schedule B Companies and the Applicants for all amounts due and owing to creditors and lien claimants of the Schedule B Properties and Companies, with that amount to be fixed.

[228] However, I think the evidence justifies granting two forms of relief which relate to the entitlement as between the parties to sale proceeds.

[229] First, the Applicants sought an order that the issued and outstanding shares in the Schedule B Companies held by the Respondents be cancelled where they had not contributed shareholder equity. Ms. Walton submitted that the Respondents had paid $100 for their shares in the Schedule B Companies,<sup>40</sup> as a result of which, she contended that the Waltons were entitled to an accounting of monies from the joint portfolio in the same way that Dr. Bernstein was.<sup>41</sup> Ms. Walton further submitted that Dr. Bernstein's claim to cancel the shares owned by the Waltons in Schedule B Companies was premature because the Inspector had not yet provided confirmation of the equity invested in the Schedule B Companies by Ms. Walton. Accordingly, Ms. Walton submitted that there was no basis for the cancellation of the shares.

[230] I reject Ms. Walton's argument. The various agreements Dr. Bernstein entered into with the Waltons stipulated that shares in a Schedule B Company would be issued on the basis of one share for each dollar of equity invested. For example, the October 4, 2012 agreement concerning Fraser Properties Corp. and Fraser Lands Ltd. (7-15 and 30 Fraser Avenue) provided that 16,572,063 shares would be issued to each of Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons, with Section 7 stating that the $33,144,124 of equity would be paid at stipulated times, with the Waltons' $14,107,062 payable "to the Company in a timely manner as required as the Project is completed". The payment of $100 by the Waltons to the Fraser companies would not support the issuance to them of 16,572,063 shares in those companies, but only the issuance of 100 shares. I therefore order that the Waltons' shareholder interests in each of the Schedule B Companies be calculated by reference to the equity contribution provisions contained in each Schedule B Company agreement and that the shares issued to the Waltons be limited to those for which they have actually paid; any other shares should be cancelled. From the evidence filed to date, that will result in de minimis shareholdings of the Waltons in most Schedule B Companies and therefore limit – quite properly – their ability to participate in any distributions from those companies once all creditors have been paid.

[231] Second, I grant the Applicants' request for an order appointing Schonfeld Inc. as Receiver over the Respondents, Norma Walton and Ronauld Walton, but with a somewhat different scope than that requested. The net worth statement filed by Ms. Walton on these motions represented that the only source of net worth available to the Waltons consisted of their equity in Schedule B and C Properties and Companies. Ms. Walton made it quite clear in her evidence that she wished to dispose of the Schedule C Properties in order to prefer her non-Bernstein creditors. In Section XI.D below I find that the Applicants have demonstrated a strong prima facie claim of unjust enrichment against the Waltons in respect of certain Schedule C Properties up to a possible claim of $22.6 million. Until proper consideration can be given to those claims and the respective interests of all creditors of the Waltons, it is necessary to ensure that the Waltons cannot dispose of their Schedule C Property. A receiver is required for that purpose.

[232] The Waltons have not complied with this Court's accounting order and, as I noted earlier in these Reasons, Ms. Walton failed to answer key undertakings about her personal finances, including failing to provide copies of her bank account statements. It is necessary to appoint a receiver over the books and records of the Waltons both to preserve information about their financial affairs and to make such information available to their creditors for tracing purposes who are faced with sorting out the mess created by the Waltons.

[233] Consequently, I appoint Schonfeld Inc. as receiver of all the property of the Waltons, of whatever kind, as well as of their books and records. However, the appointment of Schonfeld shall be on an interim basis only. In my view, a court officer, such as a receiver, should only be allowed to wear so many hats, otherwise unworkable conflicts of interest inevitably arise. Dr. Bernstein is not the only creditor of the Waltons. Accordingly, I order that Schonfeld Inc. be replaced as receiver of the Waltons within 120 days of the date of this order but, until then, Schonfeld Inc. can exercise the full powers of such a receiver.

B.5 Unauthorized mortgages indemnification request

[234] In respect of the Applicants' request for orders requiring the Respondents to indemnify them and the Schedule B Companies in respect of "unauthorized mortgages", insufficient specific evidence and argument was provided on this point to enable its consideration.

B.6 Priority of claims/shareholder loans

[235] I am not prepared to grant, at this point of time, the Applicants' request for an order that they have priority over "any unauthorized interests in the Schedule B Companies". The request was too vague, and the evidence and argument on this point was not adequately developed. As well, it was not clear whether any person who might be claiming such an "unauthorized interest" had been given notice of the motion.

[236] The Applicants sought an order that they be permitted to elect to treat funds advanced by them to the Schedule B Companies as shareholder loans for the purposes of enforcement of their remedies. Again, this point was not adequately developed. There were references in the evidence to the Applicants already having converted their equity advances into shareholder loans. If that in fact occurred, the need for a Court order is not apparent. In any event, the relief sought might affect the priority of claims by creditors of Schedule B Companies, and that issue is better left to the claims process administered by the Manager.

B.7 Inspector's fees

[237] Previous orders of this Court required the Waltons to pay for the costs of the Inspector. Save for a partial payment from the proceeds of the recent sale of one Schedule C Property, the Waltons have failed to do so. The Applicants have been left to fund the activities of the Inspector, a position they should not have been put in. Accordingly, I grant an order for restitution and repayment by the Respondents to the Applicants and/or the Schedule B Companies, as appropriate, in respect of the fees of Schonfeld Inc., in its capacity as Inspector in this proceeding, and of its counsel Goodmans LLP.

[238] As to the Applicants' request for a similar order in respect of the fees of the Manager and its counsel, I see no need to vary the terms of the Appointment Order at this time. The Applicants may renew their request, if the need arises, as the realization process conducted by the Manager comes closer to completion.

B.8 Continuation of prior orders of this Court

[239] Finally, for the sake of clarity, the Orders of Newbould J. dated October 4, 2013, October 25, 2013, November 5, 2013, December 18, 2013 and March 21, 2014 shall continue in full force and effect, except as otherwise modified by the specific orders made in these Reasons.

XI. Analysis: Relief involving Schedule C Companies and Properties*A. The relief sought*Applicants

[240] In their Notice of Motion the Applicants sought the following relief in respect of Schedule C Properties:

- (i) An order that the Orders of this Court dated December 18, 2013 and March 21, 2014 be amended to add all the properties listed in Schedule C of the Notice of Motion;
- (ii) An interim Certificate of Pending Litigation and a blanket charge respecting the property municipally known as 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario and the Schedule C Properties in which the Respondents have an interest;
- (iii) A declaration that the property at 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario and the Schedule C Properties in which the Respondents have an interest and/or the proceeds from the sale of 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario and/or the Schedule C Properties in which the Respondents have an interest are subject to a constructive and/or resulting trust from the date of purchase in favour of the Applicants;

- (iv) An order tracing the funds from the Applicants to and through the accounts of the Schedule B Companies, the accounts of Rose & Thistle, the personal accounts of Norma and Ronauld Walton, the trust account of Walton Advocates, the trust account of Devry Smith Frank LLP, former real estate counsel for the Waltons, and otherwise into 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario and the Schedule C Properties;
- (v) An order declaring 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario and the Schedule C Properties in which the Respondents have an interest as the proceeds of the funds from the Applicants;
- (vi) An order that the Applicants may seize and sell 44 Park Lane Circle, Toronto, Ontario and the Schedule C Properties in which the Respondents have an interest, subject to the enforceable rights of prior registered charges and liens on the properties;
- (vii) An order that Schonfeld Inc. be appointed as Manager of the Schedule C Properties in which the Respondents have an interest for the purposes of the relief sought; and,
- (viii) An order that the Respondents are jointly and severally liable for restitution in the amount of $1,518,750, plus interest at the rate set out in the relevant mortgage documents and costs on a full indemnity basis as set out in the relevant mortgage documents, in respect of the mortgage discharge from title of the property at 232 Galloway Road and payment of that amount to the Applicants

[241] In the third iteration of the draft judgment and order submitted by the Applicants at the July hearing, the Applicants requested the following additional relief:

- (i) The amendment of the Orders of this Court dated December 18, 2013 and March 21, 2014 nunc pro tunc to include 26 specified Schedule C Properties, save and except those properties that have been sold pursuant to an order of this Court;
- (ii) a declaration that the Respondents had not transferred the following Schedule C Properties to arm's-length third parties, but had retained an interest in 346C and D Jarvis Street, 14/17 Montcrest, 19 Tennis Crescent and 646 Broadview Avenue;
- (iii) an order specifying that in respect of any Schedule C Property for which leave is granted to issue a certificate of pending litigation, a charge would be registered on title to those properties in favor of the Applicants, in subsequent priority to any security interests, trusts, liens, charges and encumbrances, statutory or otherwise in favor of any person validly registered on title as of the date of the order;
- (iv) an order that the certificates of pending litigation and charges sought did not apply to ten Schedule C Properties in respect of which the Applicants had reached an understanding with the mortgagees of those properties;

- (v) the imposition of a constructive trust on the following Schedule C Properties in favour of the applicants as at the date of purchase of the properties for the proportionate share of the purchase price that the following amounts represented and for any proportionate share of the increase in value to the date of realization:
  - a. 2454 Bayview Avenue: $1.6 million
  - b. 346E Jarvis Street: $937,000
  - c. 14 College Street: $1,314,225
  - d. 26 Gerrard Street: $371,200
  - e. 2 Kelvin Avenue: $221,000
  - f. 3270 American Drive: $1,032,000; and,
  - g. 44 Park Lane Circle: $2,337,850, save and except those properties which had been sold pursuant to court order, and that the constructive trust so ordered in favour of the Applicants was subordinate only to bona fide secured creditors with valid registered security interests on title of the property;

- (vi) the Respondents and the Schedule C Companies/Properties in which the Respondents had any interest as at July 16, 2014, the date of the hearing, were jointly and severally liable for all losses suffered by the Applicants in respect of funds advanced by the Applicants to the Schedule B Companies;
- (vii) the Respondents and the Schedule C Companies/Properties in which the Respondents currently have an interest are jointly and severally liable in the amount of $23,680,852 for net proceeds diverted from the Schedule B Companies and received by the Schedule C Companies/Properties and shall pay to the Applicants the balance of those funds not otherwise recovered by the Applicants from the sale of the Schedule B Properties.

[242] As mentioned, at the July hearing the Applicants advised they were amending the relief sought in respect of certain Schedule C Properties based upon an understanding they had reached with the mortgagees of those properties: 19 Tennis Crescent; 1 William Morgan Drive; 44 Park Lane Circle; 346 Jarvis Street, Unit 2; 346E Jarvis Street; 777 St. Clarens Avenue; 260 Emerson Avenue; 3270 American Drive; 2454 Bayview Avenue; and, 30 and 30A Hazelton Avenue. Under the agreement, the Applicants would not pursue against those properties their requests for (i) certificates of pending litigation, (ii) the power to seize and sell those properties, and (iii) the appointment of Schonfeld Inc. as Manager of those properties. In return, the draft provisions stipulated that the mortgagees would provide written notice to the Applicants forthwith upon receiving from the owner of the property a letter of intent, agreement of purchase and sale or a request to deliver a discharge statement of any applicable mortgages. The proceeds of the sale of any property sold by the owner and approved by the Court first would be paid to the mortgagee in such amounts necessary to satisfy all claims that the mortgagee might have on the property pursuant to the terms of the mortgage, with the balance to be paid to the Manager to be held in trust pending further order of the Court. Where a mortgagee sold the property, the proceeds would be paid out to satisfy any encumbrances, usual costs and expenses of the sale and all claims of the mortgagee, with the balance of the net proceeds of sale to be paid to the Manager.

Respondents

[243] Norma Walton sought orders containing the following relief in respect of the Schedule C Properties:

- (i) The vacating of the second Order of March 21, 2014, in its entirety, and the Order of December 18, 2013, as they related to any restrictions being placed on the Respondents' ability to sell their Schedule C Properties;
- (ii) in the alternative, an order approving the sales of the following Schedule C Properties in accordance with the agreements of purchase and sale attached to Ms. Walton's motion record: 2 Kelvin Avenue; 24 Cecil Street; 66 Gerrard Street East; 2454 Bayview Avenue; 3270 American Drive; 30 Hazelton Avenue; and 30A Hazelton Avenue;
- (iii) payment of the net proceeds from sale of those Schedule C Properties to the shareholders of the Respondents and the creditors of the Respondents, as the Respondents may direct, until those shareholders and creditors are paid in full;
- (iv) if the Court considered it to be helpful, an order that Froese Forensic Partners Ltd. be appointed as Monitor to review the Schedule C Properties and to provide oversight of the sales process on behalf of the Court, with its costs to be paid by the Respondents from sale proceeds; and,
- (v) an order amending Schedule "C" in this proceeding nunc pro tunc to remove from Schedule "C" the following properties: 620 Richmond Street West; 875 Queen Street East; 3775 St. Clair Ave. E.; 14/17 Montcrest; 185 Davenport Road; 1246 Yonge Street; 17 Yorkville; 19 Tennis Crescent; 646 Broadview Avenue; 3 Post Road; and 2 Park Lane.

B. Which properties fall into the category of “Schedule C Properties”?

[244] The Applicants sought relief against properties in which they alleged the Waltons had an interest based on the Respondents’ representation that those properties were Rose & Thistle projects on the website of that company. Disputes arose as to whether the Waltons had interests in certain properties. Before proceeding with the analysis of the requests for substantive relief in respect of Schedule C Properties, an identification of the properties against which relief should be granted must first be made.

B.1 Properties in respect of which there is no dispute

[245] In their initial February Notice of Motion the Applicants sought relief against 25 Schedule C Properties. Three of those properties were sold pursuant to Court order: 65 Front Street East; 26 Gerrard Street East; and 14 College Street. The Waltons were permitted by Court order to refinance 66 Gerrard Street East.

[246] There was no dispute that the Respondents possessed an interest in the following unsold Schedule C Properties: 3270 American Drive, Mississauga; 2 Kelvin Avenue; 346 Jarvis Street, Suites A, B and E; 1 William Morgan Drive; 324 Prince Edward Drive; 24 Cecil Street; 30 and 30A Hazelton Avenue; 777 St. Clarens Avenue; 252 Carlton Street and 478 Parliament Street; 66 Gerrard Street East; 2454 Bayview Avenue; 319-321 Carlaw; 0 Luttrell Ave.; 260 Emerson Avenue; and, 44 Park Lane Circle.

B.2 Removal of 16 Montcrest Blvd. and 346D Jarvis Street from the Applicants’ request

[247] By letter dated July 25, 2014, counsel advised that the Applicants would not be pursuing relief against 16 Montcrest Blvd. and 346D Jarvis Street: the Applicants had agreed to discharge the certificates of pending litigation registered against those properties pursuant to my Interim Order.

B.3 No evidence of Walton interest in property

[248] At the hearing the Applicants advised that to date they had not discovered any interest held by the Waltons in the following properties which had been identified by them as Schedule C Properties: 3775 St. Clair Avenue East; 185 Davenport Road; 1246 Yonge Street; 17 Yorkville; 3 Post Road; and 2 Park Lane Circle Road.

B.4 Disputed properties

[249] The Applicants sought relief against the following three Schedule C Properties in respect of which disputes existed as to whether the Waltons continued to possess an interest in them: 346 Jarvis Street, Unit C; 646 Broadview Avenue; and 19 Tennis Crescent.

19 Tennis Crescent

[250] The title register for 19 Tennis Crescent listed 1673883 Ontario Inc. as the owner, as a result of a May 22, 2009 transfer of title from the Waltons and Carreiros. The corporate profile for 1673883 Ontario Inc. showed Ron Walton as a director and officer. Although it appears that he was the first director at the time of incorporation in September, 2005, Ron Walton has continued as a director and officer notwithstanding the subsequent appointment of other directors in 2011.

[251] Ms. Walton deposed that in 2011 they sold the holding company which owned that property and “if the purchasers have not changed the corporate records to remove my husband as a Director, that is news to me. Neither of us has had any ownership or management of that property since it was sold.” That assertion is very difficult to reconcile with the inclusion of the 19 Tennis Crescent property on the December, 2013 list of “Our Investment Portfolio” shown on the Rose & Thistle website.

646 Broadview Inc.

[252] 646 Broadview Inc. is shown as the registered owner of 646 Broadview Avenue as a result of an April 29, 2014 transfer from 1636483 Ontario Inc. I accept the evidence of Mr. Reitan that the Waltons enjoyed functional control over 1636483 Ontario,<sup>42</sup> but I have no evidence that they continued to possess an interest in the property following the April, 2014 sale.

346 Jarvis Street, Unit C

[253] The parcel register for 346 Jarvis Street, Unit C, lists Carlos and Colette Carreiro as owners. Carlos Carreiro worked for Rose & Thistle for a period of time and was a co-director with Ms. Walton in a few companies – Urban Amish Interiors Inc., Loft Raum Inc. and Carcol. Mr. Carreiro filed an affidavit in support of the Respondents on these motion in which he listed his place of residence as 18 Sword Street, Toronto.

[254] In his affidavit Mr. Carreiro did not address the issue of the ownership of 346 Jarvis Street, Unit C. The parcel registers showed that the Carreiros acquired the unit on November 5, 2010 from the Waltons’ company, 1780355 Ontario Inc., for the consideration of $666,514. A charge was then registered against title that same day in favor of the Equitable Trust Company in the amount of $559,872. On her cross-examination Ms. Walton undertook to produce any document showing the consideration paid for 346C Jarvis.<sup>43</sup> She did not fulfill that undertaking,

Order regarding disputed properties

[255] The evidence concerning these three properties disclosed that the Waltons at one point owned or controlled the properties and it was unclear whether the properties subsequently were transferred to bona fide arm’s-length purchasers for value. I therefore intend to include the three properties within the ambit of the orders I make below concerning “Schedule C Properties”, but I direct the Manager to give notice of this Order to the registered owners of those three properties within 15 days of the date of this Order. If, within 60 days of the date of this Order, the registered owner of a property provides the Manager with evidence that it acquired the properties from the Waltons for fair market value and that the Waltons no longer have any kind of interest in the property, then the property shall be released from the operation of this Order.

B.5 Conclusion

[256] For the balance of these Reasons, any reference to “Schedule C Properties” means those properties which are listed on Appendix “A” to these Reasons. As set out below, I will grant relief against those Schedule C Properties. As well, I vary the Orders of this Court made December 18, 2013 and March 21, 2014 to include all such Schedule C Properties.

C. Specific constructive trust claims

C.1 Governing legal principles

[257] Unjust enrichment claims have three elements: (i) an enrichment of the defendant; (ii) a corresponding deprivation of the plaintiff; and, (iii) the absence of a juristic reason for the enrichment. Enrichment involves the conferral of a tangible benefit – a payment or an avoidance of an expense – on the defendant. In Garland v. Consumer Gas Co. the Supreme Court of Canada set down a two-part approach to considering the element of want of juristic reason. First, the plaintiff must show that no juristic reason from an established category exists to deny recovery. The established categories which can constitute juristic reasons include a contract, a disposition of law, a donative intent, and other valid common law, equitable or statutory obligations. If there is no juristic reason from an established category, then the plaintiff has made out a prima facie case under the juristic reason component of the analysis. The prima facie case is rebuttable, however, where the defendant can show that there is another reason to deny recovery. Here, the court can look to all of the circumstances of the transaction in order to determine whether there is another reason to deny recovery. Courts generally have regard to two factors: the reasonable expectations of the parties and public policy considerations.<sup>44</sup>

[258] The constructive trust is a remedial device available where an unjust enrichment has occurred and also as a remedy for oppressive conduct.<sup>45</sup> The remedial constructive trust is a broad and flexible equitable tool used to determine beneficial entitlement to property. In nature it is a proprietary remedy: where a claimant can demonstrate a link or causal connection between his or her contributions and the acquisition, preservation, maintenance or improvement of the disputed property, a share of the property proportionate to the unjust enrichment can be impressed with a constructive trust in his or her favour. The claimant must demonstrate a "sufficiently substantial and direct" link, a "causal connection" or a "nexus" between the plaintiff's contributions and the property which is the subject matter of the trust. The primary focus is on whether the contributions have a "clear proprietary relationship". The plaintiff must also establish that a monetary award would be insufficient in the circumstances, and in this regard the court may take into account the probability of recovery, as well as whether there is a reason to grant the plaintiff the additional rights that flow from the recognition of property rights. The extent of the constructive trust interest should be proportionate to the claimant's contributions.<sup>46</sup>

[259] Tracing is an identification process which can assist in ascertaining property over which a constructive trust may be imposed or property which represents the proceeds of other property subject to a constructive trust. Tracing is the process by which the plaintiff traces what has happened to his property, identifies the persons who have handled or received it, and justifies his claim that the money which they handled or received can properly be regarded as representing his property.<sup>47</sup> Accordingly, a claimant must demonstrate that the assets being sought in the hands of the recipient are either the very assets in which the claimant asserts a proprietary right or a substitute for them.<sup>48</sup> If there is confusion in the tracing, the onus is on the fiduciary to identify his own funds.<sup>49</sup>

[260] Finally, a remedial constructive trust is a discretionary remedy. Two consequences flow from that. First, a constructive trust will not be imposed where an alternative, simpler remedy is available and effective. Second, a constructive trust will not be imposed without taking into account the interests of others who may be affected by the granting of the remedy. On this point, it is well-established that the beneficiary of a constructive trust cannot assert its proprietary interest against a person who came into possession of the property bona fide and for value.<sup>50</sup>

C.2 Application to the facts

[261] The Applicants rested their claim for the imposition of constructive trusts on two main grounds. First, the Applicants submitted that the Respondents had received benefits from the diversion of the Applicants' equity contributions by acquiring value in 44 Park Lane Circle and the Schedule C Properties without contributing their own funds. According to the Applicants, the Respondents' benefits corresponded directly with the Applicants' deprivation and no juristic reason existed for the Respondents' retention of the benefits conferred by the Applicants.

[262] Second, the Applicants submitted that the Waltons were directors of each of the Schedule B Companies, managed those companies' day-to-day affairs and exercised complete control over the funds invested by the Applicants in the Schedule B Companies. Under such circumstances, according to the Applicants, the Waltons owed fiduciary duties to the Schedule B Corporations to use the funds invested by the Applicants in the best interests of the corporations. Since those were closely-held, specific-purpose corporations, their best interests were shaped, in large part, by the terms of the agreements between the Applicants and Respondents. According to the Applicants, the diversion of funds out of the Schedule B Company by the Waltons for their own purposes was a breach of their fiduciary duties and constituted conduct which was oppressive to the Applicants' interests as shareholders.

[263] Ms. Walton opposed this part of the Applicants' claim on several grounds. First, Ms. Walton submitted that before the Applicants could seek such relief against the Schedule C Properties, including 44 Park Lane Circle, they should name as parties the companies which owned those properties and serve the companies' shareholders, mortgagees and lien holders. I disagree. The Waltons own or control the companies which own the Schedule C Properties, save perhaps for three properties for which I have made special provision in Section X1.B.4. So, the companies are on notice. The Applicants do not seek to prime existing interests registered against title to the Schedule C Properties. As to the preferred shareholders, many obviously have had notice of these motions since they filed affidavits and statements in support of the Waltons and the DeJongs made submissions opposing the relief sought by the Applicants. More importantly, I regard the issue of the priority of claims against a specific Schedule C Property as an issue for determination in the receivership which I intend to order over those properties.

[264] I accept the arguments made by the Applicants. The Waltons breached their contractual obligations to Dr. Bernstein and their fiduciary duties to the Schedule B Companies by pooling the funds advanced by the Applicants to the Schedule B Companies with Rose & Thistle and Schedule C Company funds. I have accepted, in large part, the tracing analysis performed by the Inspector and I have found that in the instances identified by the Inspector, in a brief period of time the Waltons directed the transfer of funds advanced by the Applicants from a Schedule B Company to a Walton-owned Schedule C Company, through Rose & Thistle, and the Schedule C Company used those funds in respect of a Schedule C Property. I specifically found that the following amounts of the Applicants' funds were used to purchase or discharge encumbrances on Schedule C Properties:

- (i) 14 College Street: $1,314,225;
- (ii) 3270 American Drive: $1.032 million;
- (iii) 2454 Bayview: $1.6 million;
- (iv) 346E Jarvis St.: $937,000;
- (v) 44 Park Lane Circle: $2.5 million;
- (vi) 2 Kelvin Street: $221,000;
- (vii) 0 Trent: $152,900; and,
- (viii) 26 Gerrard Street: $371,200.

The use by the Waltons of those funds of the Applicants to acquire those Schedule C Properties or to discharge registered encumbrances resulted in the unjust enrichment of the Waltons. There was absolutely no juristic reason for that use of the Applicants' funds. On the contrary, such use of the funds breached the Waltons' contractual obligations to the Applicants; in some cases I have found it amounted to fraud.

[265] The DeJongs argued that Dr. Bernstein did not suffer any detriment in respect of his funds used to acquire 3270 American Drive because in return for advancing those funds to a Schedule B Company – West Mall Holdings – Dr. Bernstein got what he had bargained for – issued shares of West Mall Holdings with its property encumbered as represented in the capital requirements terms of his agreement with the Waltons. I do not accept that submission. Dr. Bernstein did not get what he bargained for, which was the obligation of the Waltons only to use those funds for the development of the West Mall Holdings property. Instead of so doing, the Waltons stripped the funds out of West Mall Holdings to acquire 3270 American Drive, an unauthorized use of the funds which benefitted them.

[266] The DeJongs also opposed the granting of a constructive trust over 3270 American Drive on the basis that they were bona fide purchasers without notice of Dr. Bernstein's claim. I do not accept that submission. In January, 2013, the DeJongs advanced funds to United Empire Lands to purchase commons shares in the company. The Waltons transferred the Applicants' funds to United Empire Lands after the DeJongs had acquired their shares in United Empire Lands and just three days before that company acquired 3270 American Drive, with the result that the Applicants' constructive trust interest in the property arose after, not before, the DeJongs purchased their shares in United Empire Lands.

[267] Consequently, I grant constructive trusts in favour of the Applicants in respect of each of the Schedule C Properties listed above for the proportionate share of the purchase price that those amounts represented as at the date of purchase of the properties and for any proportionate share of the increase in value to the date of realization, except that no such trust shall attach to a property already sold and where no proceeds of sale remain in the hands of the Manager. I do not consider any other remedy to afford an effective alternative in the circumstances; the evidence disclosed that the potentially exigible assets of the Waltons were limited to their interests in the Schedule C Companies and related properties.

D. Claims for a receivership order and certificates of pending litigation

[268] The state of the evidence at this point of time does not permit the making of constructive trust orders for fixed amounts in respect of other Schedule C Properties. The Inspector's tracing analysis was limited to the properties above. However, two aspects of the evidence support making a finding, which I do, that the Applicants have demonstrated a strong prima facie case of unjust enrichment of up to a possible claim of $22.6 million against the Waltons in respect of the other Schedule C Properties.

[269] The first aspect of the evidence consists of the Inspector's findings, which I accepted, that during the period from October 2010 to October 2013 the Waltons directed the transfer of $23.6 million (net) from the Schedule B Company Accounts to a bank account belonging to Rose & Thistle and transfers of $25.4 million (net) from the Rose & Thistle Account to companies that they owned without the Applicants – the companies which owned the Schedule C Properties. The second aspect is the Inspector's conclusion, which I accepted, that the Waltons used new equity invested in, and mortgage amounts advanced to, the Schedule B Companies by the Applicants to fund the ongoing operations of Rose & Thistle and the Schedule C Companies and that the Applicants' investment in the Schedule B Companies was a major source of funds for the Walton Schedule C Properties/Companies.

[270] That evidence is sufficient to support an order, which I make, granting leave to the Applicants to issue certificates of pending litigation against all Schedule C Properties. Under section 103 of the Courts of Justice Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. C.43, a certificate of pending litigation may be issued by the court where a proceeding is commenced in which an interest in land is in question. A court must exercise its discretion by looking at all of the relevant matters between the parties in determining whether or not to issue the certificate. If reasonable claims are put forward in an action for a constructive trust in respect of a property, a certificate of pending litigation may issue pending trial. The party seeking the certificate need not prove its case at this point. The test is met where there is sufficient evidence to establish a reasonable claim to an interest in the land based upon the facts and on which the plaintiff could succeed at trial.<sup>51</sup> The Applicants have met that test.

[271] As well, that evidence is sufficient to support an order, which I make, appointing Schonfeld Inc. as receiver – or “Manager”, as in the case of Schedule B Properties – over all Schedule C Properties. While at this point of time the tracing analysis has not progressed to the stage to enable the granting of specific, fixed amount constructive trusts over the other Schedule C Properties, the evidence justifies the appointment of a receiver over all Schedule C Properties in order to sell them and deal with the competing claims against the proceeds of sale, including the Applicants’ strong claims of constructive trusts over the remaining Schedule C Properties.

[272] Ms. Walton opposed the appointment of a receiver over the Schedule C Companies in part arguing that the money of innocent third parties, the preferred shareholders of the Schedule C Companies, should be protected by other means. Ms. Walton submitted that it was clear from the affidavits and statements filed by the preferred shareholders that “those 34 people are due money from the Waltons and those 34 people are trusting the Court not to permit Bernstein to take their money”. Ms. Walton continued:

None of those 34 people nor the DeJongs are supportive of the receivership over the Walton properties. All of those 36 people are familiar with the Waltons’ real estate expertise, being investors with the Waltons. All of them have indicated they want the Waltons to be able to sell their properties themselves to garner from the properties maximum value to increase the amount of money available to pay them back their monies. The Waltons have already negotiated sales of a number of their properties, pending court approval for those transactions.

Ms. Walton also opposed the appointment of receiver over, or the issuance of a certificate of pending litigation against, any Schedule C Property because that could trigger a default in mortgages registered against those properties.

[273] I do not accept those arguments. The Waltons caused the current problems by ignoring their contractual obligations with, and fiduciary duties owed to, investors by co-mingling investment funds and appropriating some of the funds to their own benefit. The task now facing the Court is, in part, to put in place a process which will minimize the damage caused by the

Waltons unlawful conduct and which will deal fairly with all competing interests. Ms. Walton, in her evidence, disclosed her intention to prefer improperly the interests of other creditors over those of Dr. Bernstein, for it was her position that the claims of preferred shareholders and debtors of Schedule C Companies should rank first in priority over any claim which Dr. Bernstein might have in the proceeds of sale from any Schedule C Property. As Ms. Walton put it, Dr. Bernstein should not be “permitted to leapfrog over the claims of the innocent third party investors”. In paragraph 86 of her Factum Ms. Walton also stated that she intended to apply all proceeds of sale from the severed Park Lane Circle properties to pay her “investors and debtors”, except for Dr. Bernstein. Further, quite unnecessary problems arose when Ms. Walton arranged the sale of the Gerrard Street and Front Street properties earlier this year; those problems resulted in parties incurring unnecessary expenses. In light of those circumstances, I see no basis upon which to allow Ms. Walton to exercise any control over the future operation of the Schedule C Properties. She and her husband must be removed from dealing with Schedule C Properties and that task put in the hands of a court-appointed receiver who will take into account the interests of all claimants against the properties.

[274] It follows from that conclusion that I do not grant that part of Ms. Walton’s motion seeking court approval of contracts for the sale of the following Schedule C Properties: 24 Cecil; 66 Gerrard; 2 Kelvin Avenue; 2454 Bayview Avenue; and 30A Hazelton. The power to list and sell those properties now is placed in the hands of the Manager, Schonfeld Inc.

[275] The Applicants also seek an order tracing their funds through the accounts of the Schedule B Companies, the accounts of Rose & Thistle, the personal accounts of Norma and Ronauld Walton, the trust account of Walton Advocates, the trust account of Devry Smith Frank LLP concerning transactions involving the Waltons, and otherwise into 44 Park Lane Circle and the other Schedule C Properties.

[276] Ms. Walton opposed that request for several reasons. First, she submitted that Dr. Bernstein lacked the standing to bring a tracing claim on behalf of the Schedule B Companies because he was merely a shareholder in those companies. In her submission, only the Manager had such authority on behalf of the jointly owned companies. Second, Ms. Walton submitted:

Dr. Bernstein’s companies provided money to buy into the jointly owned properties in accordance with the pro forma and deal terms on offer. In exchange he received 50% of the equity and a shareholders loan back. He got what he bargained for. His shareholdings in the Schedule B Companies and properties have not yet been accounted for.

Bernstein’s tracing claim appears to assert that the jointly owned companies did not get what they bargained for and that they are entitled to their money back from the Waltons. That is not a claim he can bring on their behalf because he does not control those companies; the Receiver does.

I reject those submissions. Dr. Bernstein advanced the funds to the Schedule B Companies; he is entitled to know what happened to his money which the evidence showed the Waltons had mis-used and mis-appropriated.

[277] Ms. Walton advanced a third ground in opposition to the granting of a tracing order, drawing upon the analysis of Froese. Ms. Walton submitted that one should look at the totality of the inter-company transfers, rather than one point in time, because often within a few weeks of certain transfers there were transfers back which eliminated any debt or tracing claim over all. Ms. Walton submitted that the analysis performed by Froese disclosed that, at most, the maximum amount of the tracing claim available to the Applicants was $1.968 million. She proposed that that sum could be paid into Court from the sale Schedule C Properties pending a trial of the issue. Ms. Walton continued:

Walton submits that the best way to address these tracing issues is to prepare an accounting once all Schedule B Properties are sold showing what if anything is due from any of those companies to Rose and Thistle and vice versa. At that time monies due from Schedule B Companies to Rose and Thistle can be used to satisfy monies due from Rose and Thistle to other Schedule B Companies. Otherwise the risk of double counting and double recovery is significant. If Bernstein receives money from Walton's properties and then receives the same money back from the Schedule B Properties when the accounting is completed, that provides him with a double recovery.

I reject that argument. I have accepted, in large part, the tracing analysis performed by the Inspector and I have not accepted the criticism made by Froese of the Inspector's "snapshot" tracing analysis. Further, it was always open to the Waltons to provide the accounting directed by this Court last October, yet they failed to do so. Their failure to do so requires the granting of further relief.

[278] I conclude that it is necessary to grant the tracing order sought by the Applicants in order to gain, if possible, a better understanding of how the Waltons used the Applicants' funds. I therefore grant the order sought. To which I add that the order appointing Schonfeld Inc. as Manager of the Schedule C Properties shall also include a specific provision that the Schedule C Companies which own those properties provide to the Manager, within 15 days of the date of this Order, full access to all their books and records. That will ensure that all entities which were part of the system created by the Waltons to circulate and mis-use the Applicants' funds are subject to an obligation to make full disclosure of all their books and records so that a full tracing of the Applicants' funds can occur.

[279] Finally, as noted above, the Applicants reached an understanding at the hearing with the mortgagees of certain Schedule C Properties, identified in paragraph 3 of the draft order submitted to the Court on July 18, 2014. Although I have appointed a receiver over all those properties, I will give effect to part of the understanding reached by ordering that the standard stay of proceedings shall be lifted as against the mortgagees of those properties in respect of which the understanding was reached – and any other mortgagee in respect of which a similar understanding may be reached hereafter - but only on the basis that the net proceeds of the sale of any such Schedule C Property sold by a mortgagee, or a private receiver appointed by a mortgagee pursuant to the rights available to it under its respective mortgage, shall be paid out as follows:

- (i) to discharge any valid encumbrance, including any liens or other mortgages, registered in priority to any mortgage held by a mortgagee that is registered against the property;
- (ii) to satisfy all usual costs and expenses of the sale of the property, including but not limited to real estate commissions and legal fees;
- (iii) to any mortgagee on that property in such amounts as are necessary in order to satisfy all claims that such mortgagee may have on that property pursuant to the terms of their respective mortgages; and,
- (iv) the balance of the net proceeds of sale of any property shall be paid to the Manger, to be held in trust, pending further order of the Court.

Lifting the stay of proceedings on those terms should enable those mortgagees which are prepared to co-operate with the Manager to exercise their rights under their mortgages, while ensuring an orderly and fair realization of those properties.

E. The discharged Galloway mortgage

[280] There is no dispute that the Waltons discharged the Applicants' mortgage on the Galloway property without paying it off in full. Up until the eve of this litigation Ms. Walton was assuring Dr. Bernstein that she would pay the balance of the mortgage. She never did. Consequently, the Applicants are entitled to an order that the Respondents are jointly and severally liable for restitution in the amount of $1,518,750, plus interest at the rate set out in the relevant mortgage documents and costs on a full indemnity basis as set out in the relevant mortgage documents, in respect of the mortgage discharged from the title of the property at 232 Galloway Road, and the Respondents shall pay that amount to the Applicants.

F. The cross-motion by the DeJongs

F.1 Background and relief sought

[281] Christine DeJong Medical Professional Corporation ("CDJ"), C2M2S Holding Corp. ("C2M2S") and DeJong Homes Inc. brought a cross-motion for an order that the issued and outstanding shares of the Waltons in United Empire Lands (3270 American Drive, Mississauga), in which CDJ was a co-owner, be canceled because the Waltons had not contributed shareholder equity or, alternatively, an order approving the transfer of the Waltons' interest in United Empire Lands to the DeJongs, free and clear of any claim by the Applicants, in accordance with a June, 2014 settlement agreement reached with the Waltons.

[282] Christine DeJong is an obstetrician and gynecologist whose practice is operated through CDJ. She and her husband, Michael DeJong, through their respective corporations, have been investing with the Waltons for the better part of a decade. Like Dr. Bernstein, CDJ had entered into agreements with the Waltons which contemplated equal shareholdings in corporations incorporated for the specific purpose of holding a particular piece of property. According to Ms. DeJong, CDJ holds common shares in United Empire Lands Ltd., Prince Edward Properties Ltd. and St. Clarens Holdings Ltd./Emerson Developments Ltd., as well as preferred shares in Lesliebrook Holdings Ltd. and Academy Lands Ltd. Ms. DeJong deposed that the value of the CDJ investments, based upon information provided by the Waltons, totaled $3.691 million. Ms. DeJong attached the share certificates issued to CDJ; she did not attach copies of the cheques or wire transfers recording her investment in the companies (save for a deposit receipt for an investment in United Empire Lands).

[283] Michael DeJong, through a February 25, 2013 cheque from C2M2S to Front Church Properties Ltd., invested with the Waltons and received, in return, preference shares in Academy Lands issued to C2M2S and DeJong Homes. According to information provided by the Waltons, the "value" of the original $617,000 investment was now $786,776.47.

[284] According to Ms. DeJong, in January, 2013, CDJ made a capital contribution of $992,750 to United Empire Lands to obtain 50% of the common shares in the corporation, the sole asset of which was to be the property at 3270 American Drive, Mississauga. CDJ infused $716,906 in new capital and, according to Ms. DeJong, transferred $275,844 from an existing investment in a Walton company which owned 2 Park Lane Circle and 3 Post Road. Evidence of the deposit of the $716,906 CDJ cheque into United Empire Lands' bank account was adduced. CDJ had entered into a February, 2013 agreement with the Waltons concerning that investment which was substantially similar in form and content to the agreements the Waltons used for Dr. Bernstein's investments. Christine and Michael DeJong became officers and directors of United Empire Lands on December 20, 2013.

[285] Ms. DeJong deposed that in January, 2014, Norma Walton, without consulting the DeJongs, exchanged the preferred shares held by CDJ in Lesliebrook Holdings (1131 and 1131A Leslie Road) for preferred shares in Academy Lands (2454 Bayview Avenue) and exchanged shares held by C2M2S and DeJong Homes in Front Church Properties (54 Front Street East) for shares in Academy Lands.

[286] Ms. DeJong deposed that in May, 2014, Mario Bucci, the CFO of the Rose & Thistle Group, provided her with bank statements for United Empire Lands which showed that no sooner had her investment of $716,906 been deposited into the United Empire Lands bank account, than it was transferred out to the Rose & Thistle Group over the course of three days. Ms. DeJong complained that the Waltons had breached their agreement concerning the United Empire Lands because the Waltons had failed to make the capital contribution stipulated in that agreement. For that reason, Ms. DeJong sought the cancellation of the Waltons' shares in United Empire Lands.

[287] In May, 2014, the DeJong's counsel pressed Ms. Walton for an explanation about the use of the funds invested in United Empire Lands. Ms. Walton commissioned Froese Forensic Partners to prepare a May 23, 2014 report which reviewed the use of funds received from CDJ for investment in United Empire Lands. In the summary portion of its report Froese stated:

DeJong proceeds of $716,906 were deposited to United Empire's credit union account on January 28, 2013 and $706,850 was transferred from that account to Rose & Thistle over the four-day period from January 28 to 31, 2013... The use of these funds by Rose & Thistle is summarized in Schedule 1. In summary, these funds were co-mingled with $230,850 from Schedule B Companies (companies owned jointly by Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons) and $25,610 from other sources. Of these co-mingled funds, $746,775 was transferred to Schedule B Companies.

Assuming that deposits from Schedule B Companies were used to fund disbursements to Schedule B Companies, which is consistent with the timing of deposits and disbursements through the Rose & Thistle account, approximately $515,000 of the DeJong funds were transferred to Schedule B Companies and the balance to Walton-related companies.<sup>52</sup>

[288] The Waltons have offered to transfer their shares in the capital of United Empire Lands to the DeJongs in exchange for a release of the DeJongs' claims respecting the property at 3270 American Drive, Mississauga. The DeJongs have sought court approval for that June 20, 2014 settlement agreement. The DeJongs are concerned that should the settlement not be approved, the mortgagee of the property may exercise power of sale rights which would severely prejudice the interest of the DeJongs and their corporations. The DeJongs have completed an application to obtain takeout financing from Manulife.

F.2 Analysis

[289] I am not prepared to grant the relief sought by the DeJongs. The proposed settlement agreement would prefer the DeJongs' interests as creditors of the Waltons over other creditors in respect of 3270 American Drive and, in the circumstances, I conclude that such a preference would be unfair to other creditors including, but not limited to, Dr. Bernstein. The legal entitlement, if any, of the DeJongs, as preferred shareholders, to the proceeds from the sale of 3270 American Drive should be dealt with in the claims process for that property.

[290] Although I dismiss the DeJongs' motion, I will not order any costs against them. Like others, they stand at the receiving end of the Waltons' misconduct.

XII. Other relief sought

[291] Finally, the Applicants sought an order that the application commenced in Court File No. CV-14-501600 be transferred to the Commercial List and combined with the within application. Details of the application were not provided, save that the Notice of Motion described it as a "companion" application. Nevertheless, all proceedings as between Dr. Bernstein and the Waltons, and their respective companies, as well as any litigation involving Schedule B Companies/Properties and Schedule C Companies/Properties, should be managed together by one judge on the Commercial List. I therefore transfer Court File No. CV-14-501600 to the Commercial List and direct that steps be taken to transfer any other such kind of proceeding to the Commercial List. The parties should contact Newbould J. for the appointment of a new case management judge.

XIII. Conclusion

[292] For the reasons set out above, I have granted, in large part, the motions brought by the Applicants, and I have dismissed the motion brought by Ms. Walton. I have also dismissed the DeJongs' motion.

[293] I will not be returning to my office until September 3, 2014. However, I am prepared to review and issue the order implementing these Reasons before that date. Counsel and the parties shall consult on the form of order and send an electronic copy for my consideration through Mr. DiPietro at the Commercial List Office. If the parties are unable to settle the order, I am prepared to hold a brief telephone conference call to deal with the matter.

[294] Since the Applicants substantially succeeded on these motions, they may serve and file, to my attention through Judges' Administration, 361 University Avenue, written cost submissions by Wednesday, August 20, 2014. Ms. Walton may serve and file responding written cost submissions by Friday, August 29, 2014. The cost submissions shall not exceed 10 pages in length, excluding Bills of Costs.

[295] Finally, I wish to thank the parties for providing electronic copies of all materials filed on these motions. I cannot overstate the assistance which electronic copies bring to the judgment writing process, including the portability of the materials.

Mark Dunn, for Schonfeld Inc., Manager and Inspector

Heard: September 10, 2015

On appeal from the judgment of Justice David M. Brown of the Superior Court of Justice, dated August 12, 2014.

ENDORSEMENT

[1] Ms. Walton appeals the judgment and order of Brown J. dated August 12, 2014 (the “Judgment”). At para. 12 of the Judgment, the motions judge ordered constructive trusts over certain properties.

[2] At the oral hearing of this appeal, Ms. Walton advised the court that she would pursue only the issues she had raised in respect of the constructive trusts. She asked that para. 12 of the Judgment be set aside and that the constructive trust matter be remitted for trial of an issue. Her wide-ranging attack on the validity of the constructive trusts included the submissions that the matter was too complex to be decided without the benefit of hearing oral evidence and that the motion judge erred by accepting the Inspector’s report because he failed to understand that the methodology in that report created the potential for double recovery on the part of the Bernstein applicants. She spoke of the commingling of funds and the failure to properly trace monies in and out of the various properties.

[3] We do not accept these submissions.

[4] The motions judge correctly articulated the applicable legal principles in respect of constructive trusts. He imposed them based on the conduct of the Waltons and their companies, namely, their fraud, deceit and misappropriation of the Bernstein applicants’ funds for their own personal use and in contravention of their agreements.

[5] We wholly reject the suggestion that the motions judge failed to appreciate the evidence. His reasons are a hundred pages in length. They are cogent and thorough. In them, the motions judge demonstrates a full appreciation of the issues, relevant legal principles and extensive evidentiary record.

[6] In respect of the attack on tracing, we begin by observing that the motion judge was entitled to prefer the Inspector's report and its methodology over that of Mr. Froese, the Waltons' expert. Further, it is important to note that the motion judge imposed constructive trusts over only those properties in which the Bernstein applicants' monies could be traced and commingling was not an issue.

[7] The claims process provides a mechanism to prevent double recovery, as both counsel for the Inspector and for the Bernstein applicants acknowledged.

[8] For these reasons, the appeal is dismissed with costs to the respondent fixed at $35,000, inclusive of applicable taxes and disbursements.

THE WALTONS' MISCONDUCT IS REVEALED

- (s) A review in June 2013 of Dr. Bernstein's equity investments in the Schedule B Companies revealed that:
  - (i) The Waltons were not making their portion of the equity investments into the Schedule B Properties;
  - (ii) The Waltons appeared to be taking on third party investors in the Schedule B Companies;
  - (iii) The Waltons were engaged in significant related party transactions in respect of the Schedule B Companies and/or Properties;
  - (iv) Dr. Bernstein's approval was not being sought for any the matters set out in subparagraph (p)(viii) above; and
  - (v) Dr. Bernstein was not receiving any of the required reporting, as set out in paragraph subparagraph (p)(ix) above; and
  - (vi) As a result of the Waltons not making their portion of the equity investments in the Schedule B Properties, many of Dr. Bernstein's content, to interest bearing shareholder loans;
- (t) Dr. Bernstein caused a letter to be sent to Ms. Walton on June 13, 2013 setting out these concerns;
- (u) Following an unresponsive letter from Ms. Walton, further requests were made, but not responded to or only partially responded to;

- (v) Dr. Bernstein caused title searches to be run on all the Schedule B Properties. Those title searches revealed that additional mortgages totaling $6 million had been placed on two of the Schedule B Properties, 1450 and 1500 Don Mills Rd., without Dr. Bernstein's knowledge or consent. Ms. Walton had failed to provide sufficient further information regarding the mortgages, including the loan documentation and information about the whereabouts of the funds;
- (w) Ms. Walton stated that she would provide information regarding the mortgages only in the context of a without prejudice mediation;
- (x) On September 17, 2013, Peter Griffin, counsel for Dr. Bernstein, DBDC Spadina Ltd. and the corporations listed on Schedule A to the Notice of Application, sent a letter to Ms. Walton requesting further information regarding the Projects. Among other things, he requested information regarding two additional mortgages of approximately $3 million each that had been taken out on 1450 Don Mills Rd. and 1500 Don Mills Rd., without Dr. Bernstein's knowledge or approval. Mr. Griffin also requested access to the information The Waltons are contractually obliged to provide to Dr. Bernstein;
- (y) On September 20, 2013, Jim Reitan, Director of Accounting and Finance at Dr. Bernstein Diet and Health Clinics, attended at the offices of Rose & Thistle, along with Harlan Schonfeld and Jim Merryweather of Schonfeld Inc. Schonfeld Inc. was appointed by Dr. Bernstein to conduct a review of the various Schedule B Companies, in which Dr. Bernstein has an interest. Among the matters Schonfeld

Inc. was tasked with reviewing were the two $3 million mortgages on 1450 Don Mills Rd. and 1500 Don Mills Rd.;

- (z) Ms. Walton sent various correspondence purporting to support her explanation for the additional mortgages. That correspondence did not respond fully or satisfactorily to the information requested;
- (aa) Schonfeld Inc. traced the proceeds of the $6 million in mortgages to the Waltons, the Rose & Thistle's other businesses, various other investments held by the Waltons and various other Schedule B Companies;
- (bb) Monies have been traced from Schedule B Companies to the Waltons' home and various Schedule C Properties;
- (cc) Ms. Walton effected the sale of various Schedule B Properties without Dr. Bernstein's consent after October 4, 2013;
- (dd) Ms. Walton continued to make disbursements and payments from the Schedule B Companies in excess of $50,000 without Dr. Bernstein's knowledge or consent after October 4, 2013;
- (ee) Ms. Walton has refused to repay the principal amount of mortgages owed to Dr. Bernstein which terms have expired;
- (ff) Ms. Walton has discharged a mortgage over the property known municipally as 232 Galloway Rd., Toronto without Dr. Bernstein's knowledge or consent where the principal amount of the mortgage has not been repaid;

THESE PROCEEDINGS

- (gg) On September 20, 2013, Dr. Bernstein appointed Schonfeld, Inc. to gather information related to the Schedule B Properties and the Schedule B Companies. However, even then the Waltons did not grant Schonfeld complete access to the documents related to 22 of 31 projects;
- (hh) In light of this conduct, the Applicants commenced an application on October 1, 2013, for various relief, including the appointment of an Inspector over the Schedule B Companies;
- (ii) On October 4, 2013, Justice Newbould found that the Waltons had engaged in conduct that was oppressive and unfairly prejudicial to the Applicants' interests. His Honour appointed Schonfeld Inc. as Inspector over the Schedule B Companies;
- (jj) The Order empowered Schonfeld to conduct a thorough investigation of the Schedule B Companies. The Order also required that Ms. Walton fully cooperate with the Inspector;
- (kk) Since this proceeding was commenced and the Inspector/Manager appointed, the Respondents have:
  - (i) Failed to cooperate, including to provide the information and documentation requested by the Inspector in a timely manner;
  - (ii) Refused to provide an accounting, as requested by the Order of Justice Newbould, dated October 25, 2013; and

- (iii) Organized their affairs to defeat the claims of Dr. Bernstein in favour of themselves and various so-called “preferred-shareholders” and other creditors, most of whom have no genuine claim to the status that they now assert. Many are related to the Respondents and their business;
- (II) On July 16-18, 2014, the Honourable Justice D.M. Brown heard a motion brought by the Applicants for various relief, including claims for damages against the Respondents, for constructive trusts over various Schedule C Properties and other relief;
- (mm) By Order dated August 12, 2014, Justice Brown ordered:
  - (i) Leave to issue and serve a Fresh as Amended Notice of Application, in the form attached to the Applicants’ Consolidated Notice of Motion, dated June 13, 2014;
  - (ii) Constructive trusts with respect to eight of the Schedule C Properties in the total amount of $8.2 million;
  - (iii) A tracing of the funds contributed by the Applicants to the Schedule B Companies;
  - (iv) Cancellation of the Respondents’ shares in the Schedule B Companies in which they had not contributed shareholder equity;
  - (v) An expansion of the managers’ mandate to include the Schedule C Properties and the Schedule C Companies;

- (vi) A number of ancillary heads of relief, including the appointment of a Receiver over the personal affairs of the Waltons;
- (vii) Damages in the amount of $1,518,750 in respect of the mortgages that the Respondents discharged from title of the property at 232 Galloway Road; and
- (viii) Costs in the amount of $472,639.51;
- (nn) Justice Brown was not prepared at the time to grant the Applicants' relief with respect to the $78 million damages claim because he was not satisfied that adequate argument was placed before the Court on the issue;
- (oo) Justice Brown also found in his reasons that the Applicants had demonstrated a strong prima facie case of unjust enrichment, up to a possible claim of $22.6 million, against the Waltons in respect of their diversion of the Applicants' funds into the Schedule C Properties and/or Companies;
- (pp) The Manager currently holds proceeds from the sale of properties owned by certain Schedule B Companies and proceeds from the sale of properties owned by certain Schedule C Companies;
- (qq) To date, the Applicants have recovered approximately $6.5 million from the Inspector/Manager of the $81.6 million they invested. Other Schedule B Properties have been sold at a loss, and without excess funds for distribution to the Applicants. Many others have been determined not to be worth the Manager's costs to maintain and sell and have been taken over by the mortgagees or otherwise discharged;

UNJUST ENRICHMENT

- (rr) Monies forwarded by the Applicants have been traced from Schedule B Companies to the Waltons' home and various companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents and/or Schedule C Properties;
- (ss) The Waltons transferred funds from the Schedule B Companies through Rose & Thistle to the Schedule C Company Respondents and/or Schedule C Properties;
- (tt) Various Walton owned companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents and/or Schedule C Properties were net beneficiaries of approximately $22.6 million of the Applicants' funds;
- (uu) The Waltons diverted funds from the Schedule B Companies to fund the purchase, refinancing and/or other costs and/or obligations of various Walton owned companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents and/or the Schedule C Properties;
- (vv) Various Walton owned companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents and/or the Schedule C Properties were net beneficiaries (to the detriment of the Applicants) of the Waltons' fraud;

- (xx) The Waltons concealed their actions from the Applicants. The funds were transferred without the Applicants' knowledge or consent;

- (yy) The Respondents' misappropriation of those funds was fraudulent, in breach of the Agreements, and in breach of the Respondents' fiduciary duties;
- (zz) As a result of the transfers, the Respondents and various Walton owned companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents were enriched, and the Applicants have been correspondingly deprived;
- (aaa) There was no juristic reason for the enrichment of the Respondents and various Walton owned companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents and the corresponding deprivation of the Applicants;
- (bbb) Various Walton owned companies, including the Schedule C Company Respondents were knowing recipients of funds obtained as a result of a breach of fiduciary duty committed by the Respondents against the Applicants and Dr. Bernstein;
- (ccc) The following Schedule C Company Respondents were unjustly enriched in the manner described in detail above by the following amounts:
  - (i) 1780355 Ontario Inc.: $1,611,359;
  - (ii) 6195 Cedar Street Ltd.: $556,135;
  - (iii) Atala Investments Ltd.: $139,139;
  - (iv) Bible Hill Holdings Inc.: $172,050;
  - (v) Cecil Lighthouse Ltd.: $776,050;

(vi) The Old Apothecary Building: $1,285,721; and

(vii) United Empire Lands Ltd.: $337,600;

BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY

- (ddd) Ms. Walton was at all times a director and officer of the Schedule B Companies;
- (eee) Mr. Walton was at all relevant times a director and officer of the majority of the Schedule B Companies;
- (fff) Ms. Walton was specifically tasked with responsibility for the day to day management, supervision and budgeting of the Projects;
- (ggg) Ms. Walton handled the Applicants' equity contributions and was responsible for ensuring that the Applicants' funds were used for the proper purposes;
- (hhh) The Waltons owed fiduciary duties to the Schedule B Companies, the Applicants, and Dr. Bernstein;
- (iii) These obligations required Ms. Walton (among other things) to:
  - (i) Act in the best interests of the Schedule B Companies, the Applicants and Dr. Bernstein;
  - (ii) Avoid conflicts of interest and duty;
  - (iii) Use her energy, ability and imagination in the best interests of the Applicants and Dr. Bernstein; and

-25-

- (iv) Not conceal any information from the Applicants and Dr. Bernstein;
- (iii) As a result of the Waltons' conduct described herein, the Waltons breached the fiduciary duties they owed to the Schedule B Companies, the Applicants and Dr. Bernstein;

KNOWING ASSISTANCE

- (kkk) The Schedule C Company Respondents are liable to the Applicants for knowing assistance;
- (lll) Ms. Walton was at all relevant times a director and officer or a de-facto director and officer of all of the Schedule C Company Respondents;
- (mmm) Mr. Walton was at all relevant times a director and officer of the majority of the Schedule D Company Respondents;
- (nnn) In any event, none of the Schedule C Company Respondents were at arms-length from the Waltons;
- (ooo) The Waltons were responsible for the day to day management, supervision and budgeting of the Respondent Schedule C Companies' projects;
- (ppp) The Schedule C Company Respondents had actual knowledge of, or were reckless or wilfully blind to, the Waltons' breach of their fiduciary duties and breach of trust owed to the Applicants;

- (qqq) The Schedule C Company Respondents jointly assisted the Waltons' in breaching their fiduciary duties and duties of trust owed to the Applicants, thereby being known parties to these breaches of duty;
- (rrr) The Schedule C Company Respondents had actual knowledge of and jointly assisted in the Waltons' fraud of the Applicants and Dr. Bernstein;
- (sss) The Schedule C Company Respondents knowingly assisted in a dishonest and fraudulent design on the part of the Waltons;
- (ttt) The Schedule C Company Respondents received property from the Applicants as a result of the Waltons' breach of their fiduciary duties owed to the Applicants;
- (uuu) The Schedule C Company Respondents each received this property from the Applicants having knowledge that the property was transferred in breach of a fiduciary duty;

FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATION

- (vvv) The Waltons made multiple false representations of fact to Dr. Bernstein. Specifically:
  - (i) The Waltons represented to Dr. Bernstein that they intended that his funds would only be used in respect of the real property owned by the Schedule B Company, and that they would in fact be so used;

- (ii) The Agreements, drafted by the Waltons, required and represented that any funds that were advanced by the parties be deposited into separate accounts opened for each Schedule B Company;
- (iii) Ms. Walton repeatedly represented in various emails that the funds that were advanced for a particular Schedule B Company would be used in connection with that Schedule B Company;
- (iv) The Waltons did not intend to, and did not in fact, use the funds advanced by the Applicants in the manner in which they represented that they would;
- (v) Indeed, in the majority of cases, as soon as Dr. Bernstein's funds were advanced to a Schedule B Company, the Waltons transferred the funds almost immediately to the Rose & Thistle account or other company account;
- (vi) The Waltons also represented that they would provide 50% of the equity to the Schedule B Companies, as required under the Agreements;
- (vii) The Waltons made few equity contributions to the Schedule B Companies;
- (viii) The contributions that the Waltons did make were with the Applicants' funds and, it appears, to a much smaller extent the Schedule C Investor funds;
- (www) The Waltons made the false representations with the intent that Dr. Bernstein and the Applicants would rely and act upon the false representations;

-28-

- (xxx) Dr. Bernstein and the Applicants relied on the Respondents' representations in the Agreements and in emails and representations that the Respondents made orally in making their equity contributions to the Schedule B Companies;
  - (yyy) Dr. Bernstein and the Applicants relied on the Waltons' false representations to their detriment;
  - (zzz) The Waltons made the false representations knowingly, or without believing them to be true, or recklessly without care to their truth or falsity;
  - (aaaa) The Waltons never intended to abide by their representations;
  - (bbbb) As a result of the Waltons' misrepresentations, the Applicants have suffered damages in the amount of $72.1 million in respect of Dr. Bernstein's equity investments in the Schedule B Companies; and
